Beef Expo 'Unqualified Success'

JUDY PATTON
Centre Co. Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)— Pennsylvania's second Beef Expo was an "unqualified success," according to chairman Glenn Eberly. The Expo, which is jointly sponsored by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and its affiliates, Penn State, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and the Pennsylvania Beef Council, took place here March 28-30.

This year, junior heifer and steer shows were added to the list of activities, which include a cow-calf symposium, trade show, performance-tested bull sale, breed female sales, PCA annual meeting and awards banquet, and a barbecue.

At the 18th Performance-Tested Bull Sale on Friday, 60 lots grossed $108,650 for an average of $1,811. Top seller was a polled Hereford with the current top index for adjusted yearling weight from Slayton at Falklands Farm, Shellsburg. Calvin Saylor of Rocky Ridge, MD, was the buyer.

The breakdown by breeds in the bull sale was (1) Simmental - 18 lots grossed $28,800, $1,600 average; top seller, $4,100 consigned by Laurel Valley Farm, Ligonier, bought by Charles Antle, State College. (2) Angus - 16 lots grossed $30,850, $1,928 average; top seller - $2,700, consigned by Indian Creek Farm, Stahlstown, bought by William Cowden,

State Poultry Federation Banquet Scheduled

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.)—The Pennsylvania Poultry Federation has set April 25 for the annual fund-raising banquet. Each year the poultry industry, related agri-business and individuals support a grand banquet and evening of entertainment to acquire operating funds for the year.

This year's gala event in the Hershey Convention Center features an old-fashioned variety show with entertainment's newest stars who feature the pop/country/gospel music of Chisholm and the comedy/impressions/dancing of Finis Henderson.

The social begins at 5:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:00 p.m. The ticket price is $125.

According to the Poultry Post, the Federations monthly publication, the ticket price is about what you would pay for a dinner and Broadway show in New York City. But because the Federation can amortize the banquet costs over lagre numbers of people, the Federation nets 75 percent of its annual operating budget in this one evening. More important, The banquet provides an enjoyable way to support the Federation and avoid unacceptable and unreasonable membership dues.

Anyone who would like more information about the banquet may call the Federation's office in Harrisburg. Phone: (717) 652-7530.

Alfalfa Industry Award Winners Named

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—John E. Baylor was named the alfalfa industry award winner and Milton Hershey School Farms of Hershey, represented by Richard Hann, was named the outstanding alfalfa producer for the Northeastern region by the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council at its 1991 alfalfa awards program. The announcement was made by Council President John Lyons, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, at the 21st National Alfalfa Symposium held in Rochester, Minnesota.

Prior to Dr. Baylor's retirement from Penn State in 1983, he developed extension educational programs related to forage crop improvement, including a statewide alfalfa grower's program. Dr. Baylor most recently served as director of market development for the Beachley-Hardy Seed Company, where he continued to promote alfalfa throughout the mid-Atlantic and northeastern regions. He was associated with the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council since it was formed and served on its advisory committee for approximately 25 years.

Dr. Baylor's work in agronomic extension and industry have spanned over 40 years, with a mission to train and inspire co-workers and agricultural producers to improve alfalfa and forage production. He has authored numerous books including the Haymakers Handbook which deals with all phases of alfalfa production. He currently serves as President of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council and and is active in the American Society of Agronomy.

Milton Hershey School Farms use alfalfa as a main component in feeding nearly 600 milk cows and a herd of 1000+ dry cows and heifers. Alfalfa yields at MHSF have averaged from 6 to nearly 9.5 tons per year during the past 15 years. In the nationally-recognized alfalfa growers program sponsored by Pennsylvania State University and the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council, MHSF took grand champion honors not only with their high yields, but also with quality as an important factor in the rating equation.

While urban development has cut into the School's acreage on

The Pennsylvania DHIA directors met in State College this week and reorganized as follows: William Itle, Cambria County, president; Norman Hershey, Lancaster County, vice president; Joseph Lyons, Columbia County, secretary; and Gary Truckenmiller, Northumberland County, treasurer. Donald Duncan, Berks County was seated as a new director and the resignation of Nelson Stoltzfus, Chester County was regretfully accepted. Stoltzfus served 10 years on the state DHIA board, but plans to disperse his herd in April.

Standing, Stanley Brubaker, Potter County; George Cudoc, Butler County; Rob Kocher, Centre County; John Foster, Huntingdon County; Duncan; Robert Kindig, Lancaster County, national president; Dennis Daubert, Schuylkill County; William Jackson, Fayette County; John Wilcox, Bradford County; and John Castroglovanni, Susquehanna County. See Focus page A30.

Daylight Time Starts Sunday

Daylight Savings Time will start officially at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning, April 7. If you want to keep up with the rest of the world, set the clocks at the house and at the barn ahead one hour. You can get a running start on "fast" time by readjusting the clocks forward on Saturday night.

Food Safety Trivia

The cranberry scare of the early 1960's and the Alar hysteria of the late 1980's turned out to be nothing more than witch-hunting in the pretext of protecting the public welfare. In retrospect, both of these events turned out to be tempests in teapots. But they defamed innocent people and inflamed public inclinations to believe the worst while pinning blame on a scapegoat--agriculture.

A USDA study estimates losses to the apple growers in Washington state alone in excess of $140 million, with 10 percent of the growers forced out of business because of false publicity.

According to Nancy Ragsdale, environmental programs coordinator for agriculture and natural resources at the University of Maryland, the real tragedy of Alar goes beyond economic impacts on apple producers. It lies in the deliberate distortion of scientific data, ready public acceptance of flawed information, and subsequent effects of the hysterical outcry on the regulatory process.

In a recent talk at the University, Dr. Ragsdale commented that a person would have had to drink 19,000 quarts of apple juice per day for 70 years to even approximate the risk level that appeared to be carcinogenic to rodents used in the notorious Alar study.

Rather than focusing on food safety trivia, the nation's public information people should focus on public health concerns like smoking, alcohol, unbalanced diets, and high-dose exposures to harmful environments for industrial workers.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Incorporate Manure

Many barns, poultry houses and feed lots will be cleaned out in the next few weeks. We repeat the suggestion that this material be either injected into the soil or worked into the topsoil within a few days after application. This will not only preserve more nutrients but will reduce odors and maintain good public relations with your neighbors. Discing, chiseling or plowing after the manure application is strongly recommended. Livestock and poultry manure have considerable fertilizer value when applied into the soil before exposed to weathering. We urge our farmers to recognize this organic fertilizer and utilize it fully.

We hope our non-farm people understand that applying manure to our fields is part of farming and part of rural living. It may be unpleasant for a short time, but as far as I know, rural odors have never been proven to be a health hazard. We hope everyone tries to understand the needs and cares of others.

To Evaluate Dairy Expenses

When milk prices fall, the first inclination is to look for ways to cut costs. This is always a good practice, but according to Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, be careful not to cut costs foolishly. Don't jeopardize your ability to make wise decisions and manage efficiently. This is a time to fine tune management decisions, not to retreat back to sloppy decision making.

For example, rather than to drop DHIA, force yourself and your consultants to utilize DHIA records more effectively. Rather than "firing" consultants, rely upon them more heavily for improved feeding, for improved herd health, for continued genetic progress, for efficient cropping, and for better financial management. In other words, push everyone to give you a greater return on each dollar spent.

To Start Grazing Gradually

With the amount of warm weather and good growing conditions, we're seeing pastures growing very rapidly. This is also true with producers that are planning to graze winter grains such as rye or barley. The herd or flock should be controlled at first and not allowed on the area for more than a half hour; bloating and scouring may result if they consume too much of the lush forage the first few days. Also, it's best to feed the animals some dry matter such as silage, hay or straw before turning them out to pasture the first few times. Dairy farmers should keep milking cows from the grazing area at least 4 to 5 hours before the milking period.

To Remove Bagworm Cases

Right now is a good time to check evergreens and shrubs for overwintering bagworm cases.

These insects are especially fond of arborvitae, junipers, and cedars, but may be found on other plants. Where only a few infested plants are involved it may be practical to remove and destroy the bagworm cases. Each case may contain up to 500 eggs. Young caterpillars will hatch from these eggs in late April if the cases have not been destroyed.

If there are too many overwintering bagworm cases to remove by hand, wait until after the eggs have hatched and then use a spray such as Sevin, Malathion, Orthene or BT's. Follow label directions when using any pesticide. Check for young caterpillars in late April and early May. It is best to control them when they are still small.

Farm Forum

Editor:

About Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Bill- HB496.

I have some real concerns about the misleading statements being tossed around about farmers putting nutrients in the Chesapeake Bay. I think farmers are taking a bad rap. They are being used as a "whipping boy" to cover for someone else. Mainly, industry, sewage treatment plants, PennDot road spraying as well as salting during winter. People having their lawns sprayed, wildlife, and others.

The farm associations state they are in favor of this bill. The leaders of farm groups are not speaking for the average farmer. They are not the ones putting in long days working and paying their bills. The average farmer is too busy to run to all these meetings and hearings. Thus the average farmer is usually not heard from.

We do not need any new laws. There are laws on the books now to take care of a person who is really polluting the waterways. We most certainly, do not need government telling us how many

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TROUBLE AT THE CHURCH SUPPER
April 7, 1991

Background Scripture: I Corinthians 11:17-34.

Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 10:14-22.

This passage of scripture — I Corinthians 11:17-34 — ought to be read in every Christian congregation at least once a year and perhaps more often. I don't mean to imply that all or even most congregations have a serious spiritual problem with their church suppers, but the issues Paul raises with the Corinthians in this passage are no less a problem in the churches today than they were in the first century A.D.

What was the problem in Corinth? It appears that the Corinthian church periodically held a church supper during which the bread and the cup of the Last Supper were taken, quite possibly at the end of the meal. It would seem that instead of an occasion of unity in Christ, the church suppers in Corinth had become rife with factionalism. We don't know if Paul is referring to the same leadership factions that he mentioned in Chapter I, or, as some have suggested, that these "divisions" are more social in nature: the have's and the have-not's.

DIVISIONS VS. UNITY

Sometimes it is amazing how many different ways a congregation can be divided. I'm not as concerned that there are divisions — some grouping is natural — but that often these divisions keep us from experiencing the unity that the church is called to manifest. It is understandable in a church when the youth stick together for their activities and when senior citizens do much the same. But these groupings should never keep us from sharing, worshipping and witnessing together.

Apparently, that's what happened in Corinth. The idea of the church supper with Communion was a good idea, but the way it worked out was not! Some people came early and didn't bother waiting for those who probably could not get there so soon. If you've ever wondered where the idea of the carry-in supper (or by whatever name it is known in your church) originated, perhaps it was Corinth. It seems that everyone brought his or her own food and some had lots to eat and others virtually nothing. So there was little or no sharing.

BLASPHEMY!

Paul saw their divisive, selfish behavior as a virtual blasphemy against the Lord's Supper. We have no idea what was Paul's concept of the Lord's Supper — whether he regarded it as a sacrament, a simple memorial, the physical or spiritual presence of Christ, and so on. Nevertheless, although Paul doesn't give us a theology of the Eucharist, he does give us some clearly-defined ideas.

For one thing, it is a commemoration of Christ's cross and resurrection, a crucial victory already won — "Do this in remembrance of me." Secondly, it is a communion or sharing in the presence of the living Lord at his table — "This is my body which is for you." Third, it is an anticipation of the final victory of Christ to be established when he returns — "...you proclaim the Lord's death until he comes." In an experience focused on the self-giving of Christ, how can Christians come to this table selfish and divided?

Viking Ship® Calcium Nitrate
15.5-0-0-19Ca

The fertilizer to start with

GROWTH
Nitrate nitrogen is the fast-acting, controllable N-source for fruit trees. Unlike ammonium nitrogen (NH_4), nitrate-N affords

QUALITY
Calcium availability, at adequate levels, is essential to early and sustained production of high-quality tree fruit. Young trees, as well as mature, producing orchards never outgrow their need for calcium.

Specifically, root vigor, reduced fruit disorders, optimum color and size and storage quality of fruit are directly related to adequate calcium levels. With Calcium Nitrate as your orchard fertilizer, trees and soil receive 19% water-soluble calcium.

YIELD
Heavy production of high-quality tree fruit has been achieved—for more than 40 years—by growers using Viking Ship Calcium Nitrate fertilizer.

Use Calcium Nitrate in your fertilizer program. You will be pleased by the predictable response—the growth, quality and yield improvement possible with Calcium Nitrate's combination of essential orchard nutrients. For the life of your trees...Calcium Nitrate...the fertilizer to start with, the fertilizer to stay with!

As with any fertilizer application, consult your extension office or other advisory service for recommended practice that meets local crop and soil conditions.

MACMMA Helps Offset Low Milk Prices

KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD—At a time when over-order premiums represent the best hope of mitigating the effect of the current low prices on area dairymen, the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Agency presents the most consistently successful example of local bargaining efforts, according to dairy economists and other observers in the region.

Since September 1987, this group -- known by its acronym, MACMMA -- has extracted higher prices for local dairymen than the minimums set by federal and state regulations in the Mid- Atlantic marketplace. It has continued to provide these so-called over-order premiums as other such bargaining groups have been less successful.

Together with the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board -- which established a kind of over-order price of its own in September 1988 -- MACMMA was able to maintain its premium even during the record high milk prices of the fall of 1989. Now that milk prices have tumbled, it has established its highest premium ever.

MACMMA officials said the organization recently reached an agreement with Federal Order 4's milk processors to continue the $1.35 a hundredweight premium currently in effect for both MACMMA and PMMB through March 1992. The extra money paid to dairymen from this premium amounts to 50-60 cents, depending on the Class I utilization percentage in the order and the amount of the premium used to offset increased hauling charges.

The recently negotiated agreement has a built-in adjustment to lower the cost to handlers if milk prices rise unexpectedly, according to Bob Vaughn, a local cooperative leader. If Class I prices rise more than 60 cents above the March 1991 Class I price of $13.19, then the MACMMA premium will be reduced by the amount of the increase over 60 cents.

Industry observers say a lot of the credit for MACMMA's success belongs to the strong cooperative presence in Federal Order 4, which regulates milk marketing in the Middle Atlantic area. The over-order bargaining group is the creation of three cooperatives -- Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen Inc. -- that together control more than 90 percent of raw milk supplies in the region. By contrast, RCMA, which began charging premiums at the same time as MACMMA but has been unable to sustain them, operates in an Order 2 market in which about half the milk is produced by independent dairymen.

MACMMA's leaders themselves credit the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board for its willingness to set its own bonus price beginning in September 1988 and to renew it periodically since then. The current PMMB premium is due to expire at the end of June unless extended, but MACMMA officials said they hope to make the case for extension at a hearing expected to be held next month.

The relationship is mutually supportive, according to industry officials. MACMMA extends over-order pricing to parts of the market that PMMB, whose price-setting jurisdiction is limited to in-state processors, cannot. That minimizes the impact of different raw milk prices in a market, such as the Baltimore- Washington-Philadelphia one -- where milk crosses state lines. PMMB, for its part, extends over-order pricing beyond the Order 4 market and has provided the lead vehicle for raising the level of such premiums.

"The fact that PMMB is the agency getting that price in Pennsylvania is one of the reasons we've been able to hold that price," said Jim Fraher, an economist for Atlantic.

Bob Yonkers, a dairy economist at Penn State University, sees yet another key to the success of MACMMA: its willingness to negotiate with processors rather than attempting to dictate prices.

"That's an instance where the over-order bargaining agency sits down with the handlers to bargain in good faith," he said.

MACMMA leaders acknowledge this conciliatory approach and cite one additional factor. The agency has been successful because it has been able to pay out to producers all the money it collects in premiums; it has no administrative overhead, according to Jim Click, a Maryland and Virginia official.

Since September 1988, when the imposition of bonus PMMB pricing set the over-order premium at $1.05, the bottom line MACMMA has achieved for its dairymen has ranged from 42 to 53 extra cents a hundredweight, depending on Class I utilization percentages. In December 1990, when MACMMA-PMMB moved to a $1.35 premium, the extra 30 cents provided local dairymen with relief from higher charges from haulers facing higher fuel costs, according to Fraher.

Although this partnership has meant millions of dollars in extra income for local dairymen, it does have its limitations. In setting prices, either in Pennsylvania or throughout other parts of the Order 4 market, cooperative leaders have to take account of the raw milk prices paid in neighboring regions because fluid sales patterns typically overlap. Thus, MACMMA did not charge the additional 30 cents to some New Jersey processors who compete with handlers from Federal Order 2, according to Paul Hand, Atlantic's general manager.

"Supply-demand conditions set a very definite upper limit on what kind of over-order premium we can establish.

PCA Banquet

Speaking at the 17th PCA Awards Banquet, Dr. Stanley Curtis, head of the Penn State Dairy and Animal Science Department, urged cattlemen to "grow antennas, not antlers" in dealing with opponents of animal agriculture. Success in combating adverse publicity and animal rightists, he said, depends on staying in tune with consumers' concerns and addressing criticisms without belligerence.

Cattleman of the Year Awards went to Dennis Byrne, Nottingham, Commercial Cattleman of the Year; Gerald and Sue Clair, State College, Seedstock Cattlemen of the Year; and Frey Brothers Manufacturing, Quarryville, Industry Service Award.

Top Hand for bringing in the most new members was Nancy Wilkins, Dushore. Marie Painter, Elkland, came in second. Dr. Lowell Wilson, president of PCA and a Penn State animal science professor, gave out the awards.

For the Pennsylvania Simmental Association, past president Bill Shoemaker presented plaques to George and June Snyder, Spring Grove, Breeders of the Year; Dianalynn Tepsic, Coraopolis, Senior Member of the Year; Joyce Stough, Seven Valleys, Junior Member of the Year; and Bill and Karen Flagg, Phoenixville, Family of the Year. Shoemaker announced the new PSA president is Tom Whalen of Karns City in Butler County.

Dave Ivan, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, introduced this year's Beef Industry Representatives will be Kelley Shearer, Spring Grove, and Diane Leech, Washington. Beth Ann Cooley, Allenwood, and Kerry Golden, State College, will serve as Veal Ambassadors. These college students spend a year promoting the beef and veal industries throughout the state.

Bradford, Tioga Jersey Club Directors Reorganize

TROY (Bradford Co.) — In two recent meetings, the directors of the Bradford-Tioga Counties Jersey Cattle Club reorganized and the general membership discussed business.

Elected during the reorganizational meeting were Don Wivell, president; Bill Eick, vice president; and Denise Kneller, secretary.

In other business, the directors discussed what the name of the club should actually be — the Bradford-Tioga or District IV. It was decided that further research needed to be done.

It was announced that:

• There will be no change in the amount and types of trophies to be presented to Jersey exhibitors at the Troy Fair.

• A club picnic is to be held July 13 at Normandell Farms, in Liberty, Tioga County.

• The District IV Parish show is to be August 14 at the Whitneyville fair grounds.

During the club's spring meeting, held March 23 at West Burlington United Methodist Church, a motion was made to change the election of officers to coincide with the spring meeting. The club decided to research state club bylaws and make a proposed local club bylaw for action at the next meeting.

It was announced that the national meeting of the Jersey Cattle Breeders is to be held June in Maryland, with a special newsletter to be published.

In other action, Marie Doan was elected to represent the club as state director. She replaces Dave Norman, whose term in office had expired.

Farmers To Make Monday Harrisburg Visit

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Nearly 400 members of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (FPA) will visit Harrisburg, Monday, April 8 to discuss priority agricultural issues with state lawmakers. The farmers are members of House and Senate state legislative committees in PFA's 54 county associations.

"This is an annual event which gives legislators the opportunity to hear first-hand about the problems, hopes and concerns of Pennsylvania farmers," explained PFA president Keith Eckel, "We will be making recommendations concerning legislation based on the grass roots policies of our organization."

A top concern is proposed state funding cutbacks for agriculture and agricultural research. Governor Casey announced in January that all state agencies must take a 6% cut in operating expenses, but his 1991-92 proposed budget completely elmininates funding for the PA Milk Marketing Board and slashes the budget of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine by 45%. PFA will be seeking restoration of adequate funding for these and other state agricultural programs.

The PFA spokesmen will also urge prompt enactment of legislation to place a deposit on beverage containers. Farmers continue to be plagued with animal injuries, equipment mishaps and fieldwork delays due to the littering of bottles and cans.

PFA is supporting legislation to require nutrient management planning on farms but is seeking amendments, including one to protect farmers, who fully implement approved nutrient management plans, from pollution liability lawsuits.

PFA supports legislation requiring refrigeration of eggs at 45 degrees F to prevent the spread of Salmonella enteritidis. PFA also supports legislation to make it easier for farmers to ratify the continuation of Pennsylvania's commodity marketing programs.

PFA is urging passage of a bill to include established retail farm markets in Pennsylvania's Right To Farm protection from nuisance ordinances and lawsuits.

Although no legislation has been introduced, PFA leaders will also be discussing wetlands regulation and the state's Seasonal Farm Labor Act. PFA is opposing attempts by the Department of Environmental Resources to expand its regulatory authority over wetlands. PFA wants the 1974 seasonal farm labor law amended and returned to its original function of protecting the truly seasonal farmworkers.

State Grange Opposes Higher Taxes

CORTLAND, N.Y. — The New York State Grange will oppose any state budget package that uses new taxes to help close the budget deficit.

Gov. Mario Cuomo's proposed $51.9 billion budget would combine $4.5 billion in spending cuts with $1.2 billion in new taxes to help close what could be a multi-billion dollar deficit in the next fiscal year.

The Grange is particularly concerned with the number of state mandates now burdening local governments, and members have begun a serious drive to get some of the more worthless and expensive ones thrown out. "The savings could be significant," Benson said.

Meanwhile, the Grange is rejecting Cuomo's call for a gas tax increase even though the revenues would be used for something it's long supported — the creation of a dedicated highway fund.

Balancing Rations, Feeding Programs At Barn Meeting

AGNES R. SMITH
Northampton Co. Correspondent

STONE CHURCH (Northampton Co.) — Snowflakes fluttered down greeting the first guests to arrive at the barn meeting held recently at Cloverdale Farms.

The program, presented by Penn State Forage Analysis Mobile Van, showed procedures of forage and dry matter with samples being run that day.

Dr. Stephen Emanuele, Rutgers University dairy specialist talked about balancing rations with home grown feeds. The benefit of testing forages when using this technique is essential for success.

Dr. Carl Brown, of Brown's Feeds, Sinking Springs, Pa., presented a feeding program for calves, heifers and dry cows. The program helps the farmer balance home grown forages with purchased protein, vitamins and minerals, and is one of the best in the area.

The health of animals in all stages of growth is important for the stress of high production after calving. Weigh tapes were handed out to aid in keeping track of calves growth.

John F. Dumschat, Sussex Co. agricultural agent.

A body condition scoring program was presented by John Dumschat, county agricultural agent, Sussex County, N.J. The benefit of this knowledge is knowing if a cow is having her nutritional needs met.

If the body condition scores of the cows are outside the reasonable range, steps should be taken to correct the problems to prevent production losses. This technique will alert problems of disease as well as reproduction losses.

Brandt heads Responsible Use Of Animals Group

The Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA) has selected former state representative Ken Brandt of Lancaster County as executive vice president.

Brandt represented Pennsylvania's 98th District for 18 years in the General Assembly and was Republican Chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee at his retirement. He also served on other committees during his legislative career and held the leadership position of Republican Policy Chairman for eight years.

"PRUA is excited about its future with Ken Brandt at the helm," said PRUA president Karl Brown, "Mr. Brandt is coming on board to promote the importance of animals to the well-being of our ever growing population."

PRUA is a federation of Pennsylvania agricultural, biomedical/veterinary research, and professional wildlife management organizations and individuals interested in the continued responsible use of animals. PRUA provides the public, elected officials and those responsible for the care of animals with factual information to further a better understanding of their proper use and treatment so that decisions can be made at all levels in an informed manner.

"Whether we are in the agricultural community, hunters or sportsmen, or have an interest in the advancement of medicine through research," Brandt said, "PRUA can be the focal point for our point of view for those Pennsylvanians who are concerned about the responsible use of animals."

Brandt added, "Animal rights groups are increasingly infringing upon the rights of Pennsylvanians to eat what they wish, earn a living, benefit from medical advancement, or enjoy the outdoors through hunting, fishing and trapping."

Although PRUA is headquartered in Camp Hill, Brandt noted that most of his time will be spent "on the road" presenting information programs and working with people involved in the responsible care and use of animals.

PRUA's membership roster includes the PA Beef Council, PA Farmers' Association, PA Farmers' Union, PA Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, PA Fur Breeders Association, PA Livestock Association, PA Trappers Association, PA Veal Association, Woodstream Corporation, PA Association of Meat Processors, PA Cattlemen's Association, PA Pork Producer's Council, PA State Grange and Sire Power, Inc.

House Ag, Rural Affairs Committee To Hear From PMMB

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee is to meet Monday with members of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) to discuss the board's current status.

The PMMB is an agency that assures a safe, adequate supply of milk at reasonable prices. It sets retail shelf prices of drinking milk and monitors and licenses the industry and establishes reasonable trade control and marketing practices.

Over the last two years, the PMMB has been operating with insufficient funding and has had its financial situation further agrivated by cuts to its budget. The state funds are those generated by taxes.

Because of the lack of funding, the agency was reportedly in jeopardy of going out of business.

State Rep. Kenneth Cole, D-Adams County, early this year said he met with Gov. Robert Casey and was assured that sufficient state funds would be provided to the allow the board to stay in operation.

A proposal from the state Office of Budget, part of Casey's administration, had included the elimination of the total amount of state funding for 1990-91 as part of list of suggested cuts to current spending in order to prevent Casey's budget from carrying a deficit for the year.

A recent proposal from the Casey administration for a 1991-92 new budget offers no state support for the PMMB.

The meeting on Monday between the board and members of the House Ag and Rural Affairs Committee has been arranged by Rep. Cole, chairman of the committee.

"The purpose of the meeting is to hear a presentation from the Milk Marketing Board on its activities over the last few years," Cole said.

"The committee is anxious to learn more about the issues on surrounding the Milk Marketing Board and its impact on the dairy industry. The committee will also gain a thorough understanding of the recent fiscal, managerial and programmatic problems facing the board."

The meeting is being held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Farmers Association's legislative day in Harrisburg on Monday.

Cole said all area farmers are welcome to attend the meeting, scheduled for 4 p.m. in Room 140 fo the Main Capitol Building.

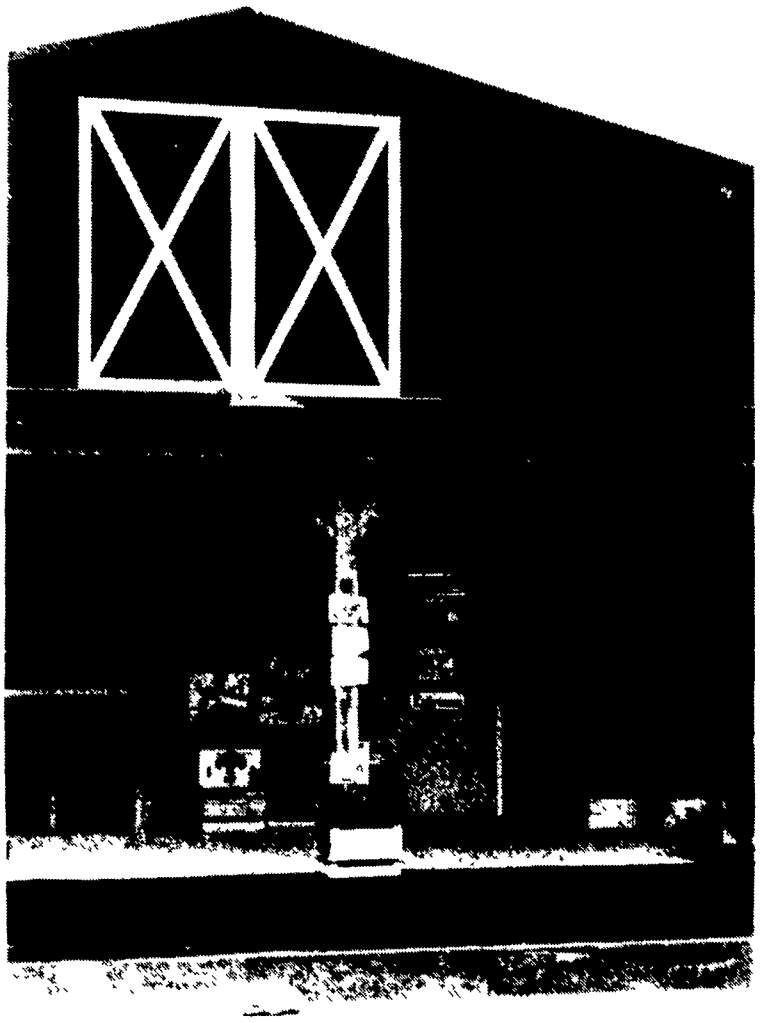
Leo's Dairy Is Hub Of Community Activity

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Leo's Dairy in Cumberland County is a special place.

It has survived what many other dairies have not — years of flucuating milk prices.

The operation is a self-sufficient dairy that produces milk, processes it and sells it to the community in which it is located.



The store front of Leo's Dairy is new, having been added to this past year. It now offers a number of variety of locally grown produce and other items in demand.

But Leo's Dairy is more than that — it's reminiscent of the small, one-stop trading posts that were the hub of social and economic activity during Pennsylvania's initial years of European colonization.

Leo's Dairy is also recognized as a Dairy of Distinction. It is an honor bestowed only upon those dairy farms which display an attractive setting, and clean environment.

The dairy is run by the Leonard Wolfe family, including daughter Donna, and son Tom. In addition there is herdsman Dave Rinker and a number of other workers. The operation employs a total of 20 people.

Leonard has been in the dairy business for 50 years — ever since he was 15 years old.

Prior to opening the current business, he had operated Sunnyhill farms, which was located between Middletown and Harrisburg.

It was 10 years ago when he bought a farm south of Carlisle, along Rt. 34, near Rt. 81. It became "Leo's Dairy."

According to Leonard Wolfe, the reasons for the successes of the dairy are his years of experience and the quality of the help he employs.

The organizational design of the dairy operation is similar to others across the state which still remain

From the back to the front, the farm consists of 500 acres, a 200 free stall barn with a conveyor-fed, 200-foot feed bunk and a liquid manure system.

The 300 head are milked in a milking parlor.

The Wolfes also raise corn and hay for silage which is stored in four 24-foot by 75-foot silos. Each can hold 900 tons of silage. They buy grain.

Leonard Wolfe's business — like all dairies, but even more so — depends on the support of the local community. To this end they provide a petting zoo for children and adults who may not otherwise have an opportunity at seeing or touching such farm animals up close.

From the parlor, the milk is pumped to a large storage tank. From the tank, the milk is then pumped underground to the back of the dairy to the processing area for pasteurization and homogenization.

Cooled down in a refrigeration tank, it is them bottled into half gallon paper containers.

Loaded onto dollies, the freshly bottled milk is rolled into the cooler, and placed onto the shelves which customers can get to by opening insulated glass doors.

Because the milk is produced, processed and packaged all on the same premise, the Wolfe's shelf price for milk is not controlled by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board. The Wolfe's charge $2 a gallon.

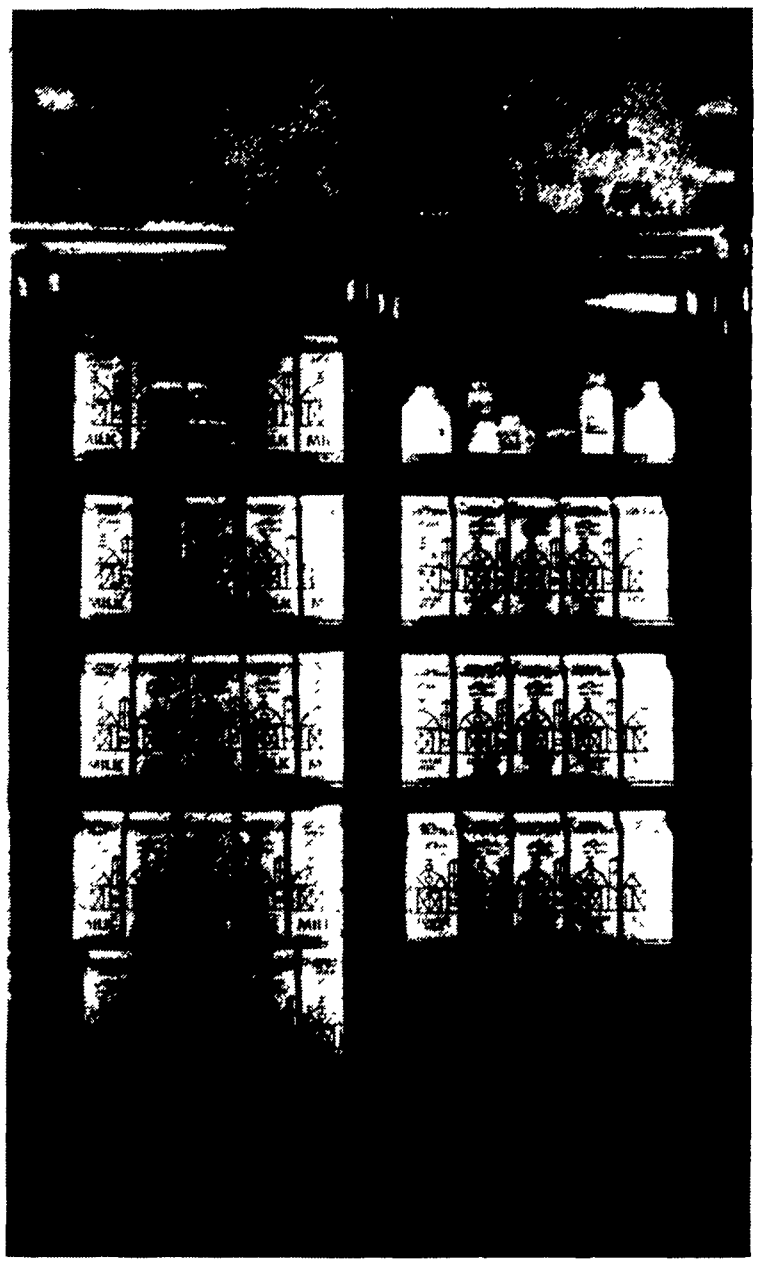
Many times milk is produced, processed and in the hands of customers within the same day.

In addition to drinking milk, the dairy offers more than 20 varieties of homemade ice cream, ranging from pumpkin, peach or raspberry, to orange pineapple to peanut butter and oreo cookie.

During the past year, with Amish labor, the store front was expanded to offer an area to market fresh summer produce. In the summer, many Amish neighbors, which Leonard says has grown to about 1,000 families in the past 10 years, bring their produce to the store to sell.

As the Amish community continues to grow, Leonard said he expects to see the produce business grow.

A look around the rest of the store reveals soups and salads at a deli. There is orange drink, fruit drink, punch and lemonade in the cooler. Bulk foods are bagged for the consumer.



This is where the majority of the cows' milk goes at Leo's — to service the drinking milk needs of the local community.

Outside, in the back of the dairy is a petting zoo, that was built especially for kids. The animals include billy goats, a calf and rabbits.

Also adding to the trading post aura of the country store is the transformation of its parking lot on summer Saturday mornings when a fea market comes alive.

The flea markets actually are active from April through November and the card table business doesn't detract from what the dairy offers; if anything it adds.

This summer, to make it easier for customers to enjoy themselves, an extra window is being installed along the side of the store for selling ice cream.

Picnic tables are located there on a new patio.

These are among the recent changes the Wolfes have made in order to better promote their business and better promote the industry.

The Kutztown Young Farmers Chapter also honored Dalton Biehl as Outstanding Young Farmer over 30 years of age at the banquet. The chapter also honored Todd Miller as Outstanding Young Farmer under 30 years of age.

Zollers, who manages a dairy operation in Mertztown, is chairman of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Association and is on the state promotion committee for the association. He is also treasurer of the Berks Co. Guernsey Association and member of the Kutztown FFA advisory board.

Attend Water Quality Seminar

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Over 100 teachers and students from high schools in Lebanon, Lancaster, Berks and Schuykill counties recently participated in a hands-on water quality seminar, held at Franklin & Marshall College.

The seminar entitled "Water- Its Use, Abuse, and Disposal in our Homes," was sponsored by the Lebanon, Lancaster and Berks Conservation Districts and the Chesapeake Bay Education office.

Participants polluted laboratory water samples with by-products of everyday human existence, and then tried to clean it up. The results were eye-opening as individuals learned what it takes to clean fouled water.

Individuals also learned about the toxicity of products we put down drains every day of our lives.

Participating schools were Elco, Grace Christian, Palmyra, Northern Lebanon, Twin Valley, Wyomissing, Lebanon Catholic, Blue Mountain, J.P. McCaskey, Ephrata, Warwick, the School District of Lancaster, and Lebanon.

Todd Miller was honored as the Outstanding Young Farmer Under 30 at the Kutztown Young Farmer banquet.

Use Decision Tree With ProStaph For Mastitis Control

LINDA SCIBILIA
Manager, DHIA Laboratory

You may remember that ProStaph I is a test for Staph aureus mastitis which is offered through the DHIA laboratory.

You may also remember that Pennsylvania DHIA, along with Penn State University researchers have been conducting field trials with the ProStaph I test.

That research is now complete.

With that research complete, we've used the results to develop a simple decision tree for using the test results. We believe this new decision tree is clear, concise and simple to use. We still recommend, however, that this test be used under the advice and consultation of a veterinary practitioner.

In addition to good news about the research, we also have good news about the cost of testing.

Due to a drop in the cost of ProStaph I supplies, we are happy to announce that we are passing savings on to members. The price for ProStaph I testing is now $1.95 per sample for members of PA DHIA, with non-member price remaining at $3 per sample.

The Research

Before explaining the new decision tree, lets briefly review the research results . . .

The field trial followed five herds for four months, comparing ProStaph I results with culture results monthly.

The final results of this study were remarkably similar to the first round of testing in 1989.

The basic conclusions are:

(1) ProStaph I is reliable in determining cows who do not have Staph aureus mastitis.

(2) ProStaph I is less reliable for detecting cows with Staph aureus mastitis.

(3) Prostaph I should be used with bacterial culturing and SCC data for best results.

The Decision Tree

(Please see decision tree on this page)

Step 1: The first thing you will notice is that we do not recommend ProStaph I screening for every herd. We recommend use of this test only when you suspect there is a Staph aureus problem in the herd.

To confirm that a Staph aureus problem exists, complete step 1 of the decision tree; culture 10 cows or 10 percent of the herd with SCC linear scores of 4 or greater. If you get positive culture results for Staph to a significant degree, then proceed to step 3 of the decision tree.

Step 2: If the culture results are negative for Staph aureus, chances are there is no Staph aureus problem in the herd. This does not mean you don't have a mastitis problem, only that it is probably not due to Staph aureus, so search for another cause.

Step 3: Test the entire herd using the ProStaph I test.

This test is available simply by ordering it through the DHIA supervisor at a regular monthly test. No special samples or sampling techniques are necessary. When the ProStaph I report is returned, proceed to step 4.

Step 4: Segregate the herd into two groups with one group containing the ProStaph I positive cows and the other containing the ProStaph I negative and suspect cows (research showed that suspect cows were no more likely to have a Staph aureus infection than ProStaph I negative cows.).

Step 4A & 4B: Next, culture all ProStaph I positive cows to confirm that a Staph aureus infection exists.

Any cows culturing positive should be treated in consultation with a veterinarian. At this point, cows who show negative culture results may be moved into the

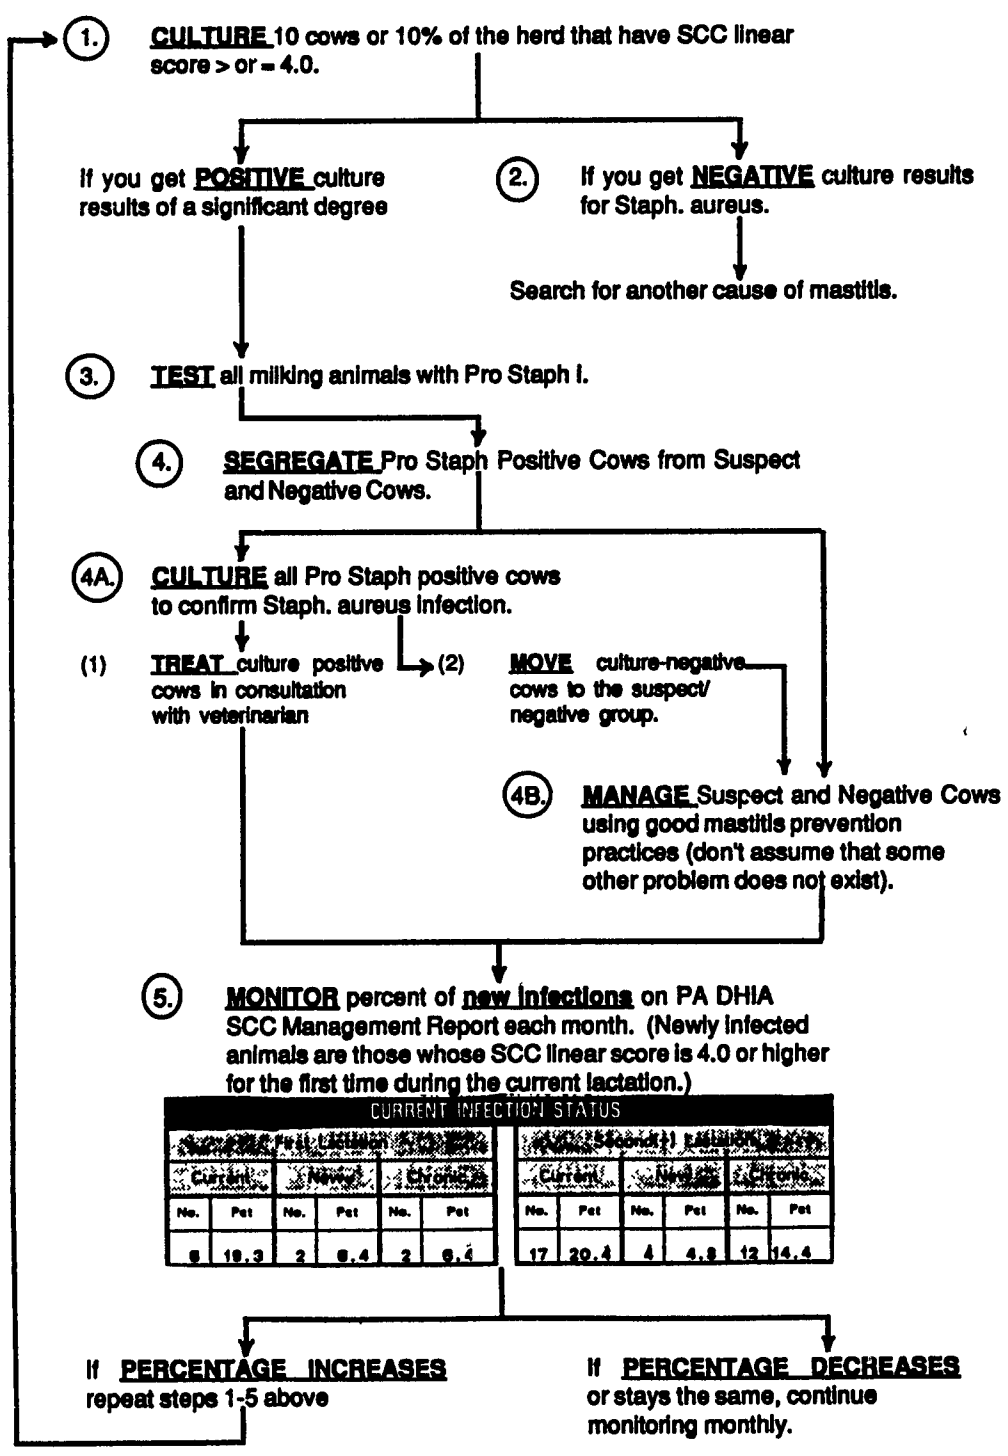
DECISION TREE

PA DHIA's and Penn State University's Decision Tree for Solving Staph. aureus Mastitis Problems Using the Pro Staph I Analysis

This procedure should be used only under the advice and consultation of your veterinary practitioner.



If you suspect a Staph. aureus Problem exists:
1. CULTURE 10 cows or 10% of the herd that have SCC linear score > or = 4.0.
If you get POSITIVE culture results of a significant degree
2. If you get NEGATIVE culture results for Staph. aureus.
Search for another cause of mastitis.
3. TEST all milking animals with Pro Staph I.
4. SEGREGATE Pro Staph Positive Cows from Suspect and Negative Cows.
4A. CULTURE all Pro Staph positive cows to confirm Staph. aureus infection.
(1) TREAT culture positive cows in consultation with veterinarian
(2) MOVE culture-negative cows to the suspect/ negative group.
4B. MANAGE Suspect and Negative Cows using good mastitis prevention practices (don't assume that some other problem does not exist).
5. MONITOR percent of new infections on PA DHIA SCC Management Report each month. (Newly infected animals are those whose SCC linear score is 4.0 or higher for the first time during the current lactation.)

Sprinkle Strawberries To Stop Frost Damage

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The difference can be measured in the thousands of dollars.

For strawberry farms this year, severe frost damage can claim up to half the crop at a given time. And this time of year, the worries increase, because as the buds start to appear, so does the chance that a killing frost could come.

But thanks to work by Penn State fruit researchers, a system for stopping bud kills through the use of a sprinkler system is showing some promising results.

In one case, a field that endured a frost without sprinklers had a 50 percent bud kill — half the crop gone. At the same time, for a field that was sprinkled with water during intermittent times during a night frost, only 2 percent of the buds suffered damage.

Dollars saved

That kind of information translates into dollars saved, according to Dr. Paul Heinemann, assistant professor of agricultural engineering at Penn State.

Tests of the system, incorporated on 1.26 acres at a cost of $10,000 (including the entire automated system and irrigation equipment), were conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agriculture Research Center last spring.

"The purpose of the system is to automatically control irrigation to protect fruit from heat and cold and to deliver various chemicals in appropriate doses," said Heinemann. "One of our goals is that we're trying to conserve water."

The system carefully controls the amount of water used to keep the fruit from freezing. Water is "pulsed" out in two-minute increments during a 6 to 10 hour period overnight.

Uses AI

The system uses an artificial intelligence (AI) system working in conjuction with an IBM DOS-type computer monitoring station. The station is equipped with the computer, in addition to a "Strawberry Tree" data acquisition board, and temperature sensors.

Water, pumped from a holding pond near the site, is released when the AI system recognizes the correct conditions. At that time, water is sprayed over the plants. "Sensible heat" is released from the water (which averages near 45 degrees Fahreheit) and keeps the buds from being damaged from freezing.

If the air temperature slips into the teens, though, the system becomes less reliable. According to Heinemann, it becomes difficult to stop frost damage at those temperatures.

But for southeastern Pennsylvania strawberry farms, temperatures rarely average below 20 degrees Fahrenheit at night. The worries come in late April up till the middle of May, until the danger of frost is past.

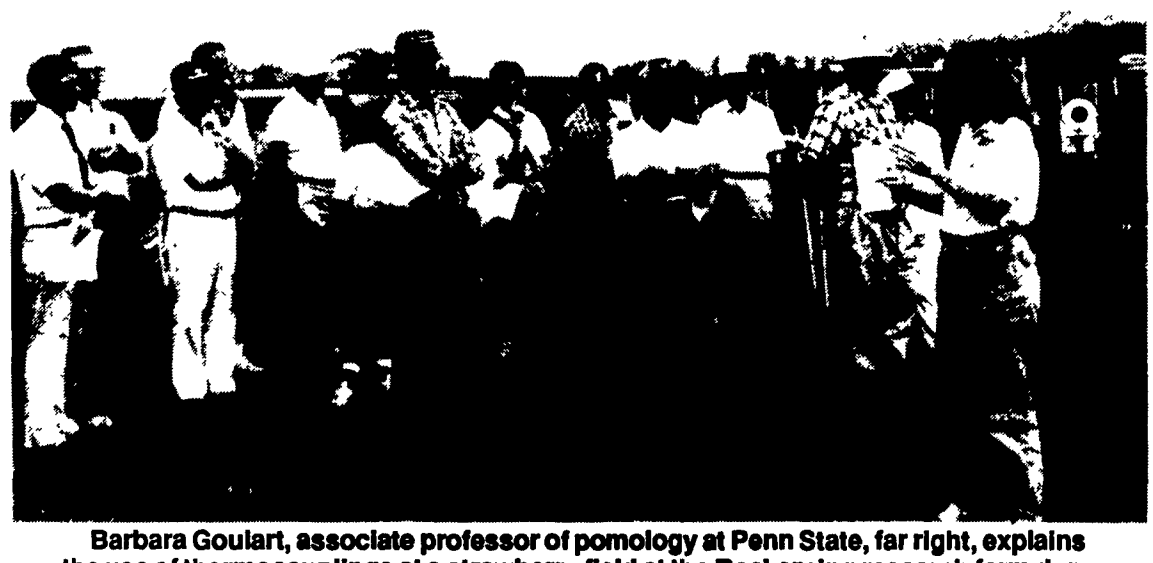
Extends crop

The system also works during to extend the summer season crop by "cooling down" the plant during times of high heat. But although this can lead to an increased chance of fungus disease, a fungicide can be applied through the irrigation water to elminate this problem, according to Heinemann.

Also, growers can also use the system to deliver fertilizers and insecticides to the plants.

Growers who want more information can contact Heinemann at (814) 865-2633. Options include an inexpensive manual system that growers can regulate by themselves; a semiautomatic system with a thermostatic controller; and a fully automated computer AI system that can be installed (if the grower already has an irrigation system in place) for under $4,000.

"If the grower already has a computer, that's a cost already taken care of," said Heinemann.



Barbara Goulart, associate professor of pomology at Penn State, far right, explains the use of thermocouplings at a strawberry field at the Rockspring research farm during last year's Ag Progress Days. By recording strawberry temperatures, the sprinkler system is activated accordingly.

Aspirated temperature sensors monitor the field conditions at the Rockspring research farm. Sensors are connected to the controlling computer located in a trailer adjacent to the field. Sprinklers on risers can be seen just beyond the aspirated chamber.

Lebanon Adopts Farmland Easement Program

NORTH CORNWALL — An easement purchase program was adopted recently by the Lebanon County Farmland Perservation Board during a special meeting held at the Lebanon Ag Center.

The program, which spells out the mechanics by which intent of the farm preservation law is to be carried out, is expected to be approved by the state farmland preservation board on March 28.

The Lebanon County commissioners have allocated $50,000 for the purchase of easements, which, with state matching funds, provides for a total of $825,000 available this year.

Those interested in applying to sell their development rights may pick up a form at the county extension office in the new Ag Center on Cornwall Road. The application must be returned by April 14.

The Lebanon plan calls for a minimum criteria that a farmland tract must:

- Be located in an agricultural security area.
- Be used as part of a normal farming operation that is capable of generating annual gross receipts greater than $25,000.
- Contain at least 50 percent of soils which are available for agricultural production and are of capability classes I through IV, as defined by the soil surveys published by the USDA Soil Conservation Service.
- Contain 50 percent harvested cropland, pasture or grazing lands.
- If harvested cropland, be capable of producing sustained yields per acre equal to the county average yield per acre for each crop as published by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistical Service (PASS). For crop yields no reported by PASS, the farmland tract shall have a history of sustained yields as evidenced by information provided by the applicant concerning volume of sales over the 2-year period immediately prior to the date of the application. For land idled because of government programs, USDA yield data shall be used.
- The tract must be at least 50 acres in size, unless it adjoins a tract already approved for easement purchase, then smaller tracts may be considered. The farm must have a conservation plan approved and in the process of implementation. The county will not pay more than $2,500 per acre for any easement. The tract must be compatible with municipal land development plans.

A ranking system has been developed by the county board for the purpose of evaluating applications, and allocating funds.

Each application will be screened and compared with a set of criteria that will aid in making the best use of public funds, assure the preservation of viable agriculture, and provide compensation to the land owners in return for their relinquishment of the right to develop their land for any other purpose than agriculture. The system is designed to be as objective as possible, using a numerical point system for making decisions.

The targeted areas of the county are primarily located in the limestone region south of Rt. 422, and bordering Rt. 322 and Rt. 419, although onwers of farmland in other agriculture security areas may apply for easement purchase, and wilol be ranked for eligibility.

Applicants will be evaluated according to the minimum criteria, and ranked in order of preference by the numerical ranking system.

Financially Sound Keystone Elects Directors

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — A good barometer of a bank's financial condition is its capital position. If so, then a capital position of 13.64 percent (what Keystone Farm Credit, ACA maintains) signifies a sound financial condition, according to Bernard C. Flory, president and chief executive officer of the association.

Flory spoke to more than 400 Keystone Farm Credit stockholders at a banquet Tuesday night. Three meetings were held throughout the region this week to update the stockholders on the financial condition of the association in 1990 and to elect directors and nominating committee members for the upcoming year.

Net income for 1990 was $1.059 million, compared to $1.478 million in 1989, said Flory. The reasons for the slight decrease in overall income, said Flory, were due to "some extraordinary items that took place in 1989 which did not occur in 1990.

"From the net operating standpoint, the income was a truer picture this past year than it was in the previous year," he said.

Expenses decreased

During 1990, the overall operating expenses were decreased by $82,000 from the previous year. According to Flory, since the merger, the company "did not promise we would reduce expenses but we did say we would try to contain them. I think again, working very closely with the board and the staff of the association, they look at these things very hard and did reduce the overall operating budget."

Of major interest to Keystone Farm Credit is the capital position, which is more than 13 percent, down from 15 percent in 1989.

Also, in 1989, the board of directors decided to reduce the overall investment of the membership. At that time, said Flory, the board decided to have a five-year plan to reduce the stock requirement from 5 percent down to 2 percent or a $1,000 maximum.

In 1990, the company refunded $3.3 million in excess stock. Also, during the past year, the association paid a 5 percent dividend on the excess stock.

7 percent capital

Flory said the Farm Credit Association (FCA) has established the minimum standard capital of system entities at 7 percent, and the Farm Credit Bank of Balitmore has established 7.25 percent as minimum to maintain funding relationship with the bank.

"With us being at 13 percent, we intend to continue with our stock reduction plan," he said.

"We anticipate moderate to modest growth," said Flory. "And we feel that our capital ratio will not deterioriate below 10 percent."

The association's real estate delinquency is 2.4 percent (commercial real estate), 3.6 percent (rural home real estate), and commercial loan deliquency is 4.8 percent.

Worked on loans

Flory said that, during 1990, "the staff and management worked very diligently on some of the problem loans." The bad loans have been identified and are being worked on.

"Other problems we're going to have are the regulations," he said. "One of the situations that we have is going to cost the association some money is the appraisal function. This is something that the commercial banks have done — in certain cases they've gone to outside appraisers."

The association is required to utilize certified appraisers effective Jan. 1, 1992. Flory said, as an example, in the St. Paul district, 75 appraisers cost the association representing the district $3 million.

To defray costs, Keystone Farm Credit, said Flory, will be training their own staff internally for appraising.

Will be change

"But it will be a change," he said to the stockholders. "You may feel that now you're seeing two people come out to your farm as opposed to one in the past. This is not something that we created locally. This is a federal regulation, so we will adhere to that. But again, changes are inevitable."

Despite the problems the S&Ls have had and some of the difficulties of the commercial banks, Flory said, "Let me assure you that your association is sound financially," said Flory.

Three new directors were appointed as a result of the meetings. Harold A. Knechel, Montgomery Co., has been farming for 38 years. He and two sons have a 100-head heifer/dry cow dairy operation, and they also raise 300 acres of corn and 100 acres of alfalfa and clover.

Paul L. Kreider, Lebanon Co., has been farming for 23 years. In partnership with a brother, the operation consists of dairy, beef, and cash grain. They farm 750 acres, and have 90 cows and 130 young stock.

Kenneth L. Schlegel, Berks Co., has been farming for 27 years. A partner in Ker-Min Farms, the operation consists of dairying and general crops. Schlegel is chairman of the Baltimore Advisory and Legislative Council and chairman of the Keystone Farm Credit board.

In addition, 15 new Nominating Committee members were elected, but this information was not available as of presstime.

Bernard C. Flory, president and chief executive officer of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA, spoke Tuesday night at the stockholders meeting.

cows, hogs or whatever, we may have on our farms. This still is the United States and not Russia.

D.E.R. does not need any more power. They are powerful enough already. If anything, their power should be reduced.

This bill would create more government, more programs, more control of private lives, and much more taxpayer expense, at a time when the state has a deficit due to the irresponsible governor we have. We need less government, less expense, not more. Any Senator or Representative who votes for any kind of a Nutrient Management Bill, should be voted out of office in the next election.

I would like to hear from other real farmers on this matter.

Editor:

In their dubious wisdom, the DOT Bureaucrats are proposing that hay be classified a hazardous material in 1992.

If it were not such a serious threat to our business it would be laughable.

Under the proposed law, all drivers carrying more than 1000 lbs. (about `0 bales) of hay would have to have a Class A Commercial Driver's License (CDL); $1 million in liability insurance; hazardous material placards on the vehicle and they will be banned from certain highways, bridges, tunnels and residential areas.

This proposal is ludicrous even by bureaucratic standards! We must get it stopped!

Dear Editor:

I was very interested in your article "On Can Widows Survive on the Family Farm." My husband had a stroke and was not able to go with me to lawyers. My story is very long and involved, it went on for about three years. It was settling a bankrupt with our son, of whom we had signed a mortgage for. The last article was the sale of the "remainder of a life estate". This was suppose to be settled in front of the judge between the judge and my lawyer. It didn't come off like that. The judge allowed a bidding between two lawyers from my hometown and the lawyers who were supposed to represent me, but who had never discussed anything about a price to offer, because I had a letter stating what I was suppose to give, which was $2500.00, but the date that this came in front of the judge he (the lawyer) told me it was not necessary for me to go to Baltimore, he would take care of it. Well — two local lawyers were there and the judge allowed a bidding, the two local lawyers bought one-half interest in my 114-acres farm for $5,600. I could have died, but through the help of my accountant like Mrs. Wivell, I was able to buy back my farm from these two lawyers, for $15,600. This has all been recorded in the county records.

Farm Home Administration Offers Credit Assistance

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Farmers Home Administration is launching a new program to help local farmers obtain credit from local lenders, according to D. Eugene Gayman, FmHA State Director for Pennsylvania.

Known as the Interest Assistance Program, it provides strong incentives for commercial lenders to make loans to farmers who otherwise would not qualify.

Under the new program, FmHA will pay up to 4 percentage points of interest for farmers to help them qualify for FmHA guaranteed loans.

"If a credit-worthy farmer cannot cash flow with a guaranteed bank loan at regular interest rates, we can pay part of that interest for him until he can," Gayman said.

The percentage of interest FmHA will pay depends on the financial condition of the farmer. FmHA will pay only the number of points necessary to help the farmer cash flow with a small reserve.

An FmHA guaranteed loan is made by a bank, PCA, or other lender with an agreement from FmHA that if the loan goes bad, FmHA will compensate the lender for up to 90 percent of its loss.

"That guarantee, plus the new interest assistance should greatly increase availability of farm credit through the private sector. The program, made law in late 1990, was put on a fast track, so as to assist farmers in time for the 1991 planting season," Gayman said.

According to Gayman, the level of interest assistance will be adjusted each year, based on a review of the borrower's need for continued assistance. In addition, a borrower must be able to project a positive cash flow, including a 10 percent debt-service reserve to qualify for assistance. This is the same rule for guaranteed farm loans not receiving interest assistance.

Additional details about the Interest Assistance Program can be obtained from any Farmers Home Administration county or district office, or from the FmHA state office at 1 Credit Union Place, Suite 330, Harrisburg, 17110-2996.

ULTRAFLO OUT-PERFORMS CHAIN

45 Million Birds In 5 Years Prove It

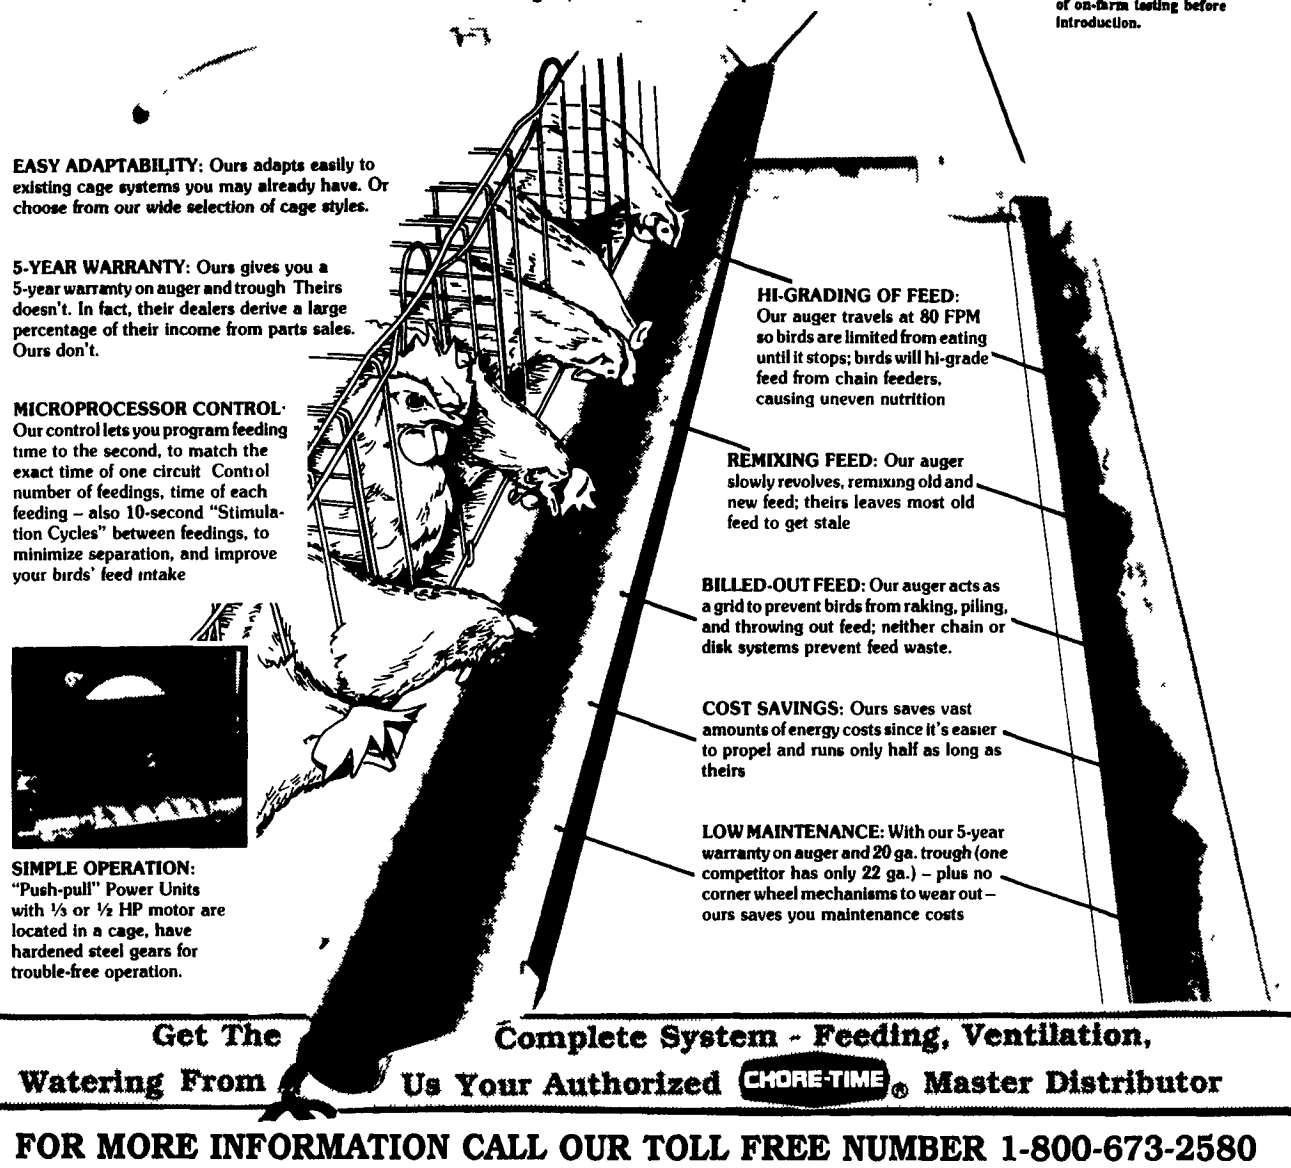
Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder for layers, pullets and breeders

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 45 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.



EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake

HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation.

PFA Says Death Of Leahy Bill Is Okay

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association (PFA) said that the demise of emergency aid legislation for dairy farmers should not be of much concern to dairymen.

However, the striking down of the proposed legislation negates the effect of a recent grassroots, letter-writing and telephone-calling campaign in support of the bill by members of the Syracuse, N.Y.-based Dairylea Cooperative Inc.

The proposed legislation was submitted by U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vermont. It proposed to increase the minimum federal order Class I milk price through the end of the year.

The method suggested was to increase the basic formula price, that is used to calculate the Class I price, to at least $13.09.

The funds generated by the bill were to be pooled among producers in all federal milk marketing orders.

Also the bill would have provided a 50-cent payment per hundredweight to grade B producers through the end of the year. It would also increase the minimum solids content of fluid milk products.

The Senate originally adopted the legislation as an amendment to an appropriations bill.

Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford had said he commended the legislation and urged all dairy farmers to contact their national representatives to support the measure.

"The only way our lawmakers will know how crucial this legislation is to dairy farmers is by telling them directly ourselves. We have to seize this opportunity and let the government know that this legislation will level out farm milk prices and enable farmers to better manage their operations," Rutherford said.

However, it was not an opinion shared by the head of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

Keith Eckel, president of PFA, said, "Pennsylvania dairymen should shed no tears over the demise fo the Leahy amendment in Congress . . . It was a good-news, bad-news bill with the bad news being their wasn't any good news.

"For one things, it was only a temporary government quick fix for falling milk prices, not a permanent, market-based solution for getting rid of a price depressing surplus," he said.

According to Eckel the problems with the bill included its end-of-the year expiration which he said would leave farmer "to face another precarious price drop.

"The idea contained in the legislation of exporting dairy heifers is a slow, expensive way of dealing with the surplus problem. The impact of exports could easily have been outstripped by more cows being added to the milking herds."

Additionally, Eckel said the bill "contained some nasty surprises for dairymen," in that class I dairy producers would not be the only, or even primary, recipients of income generated from the price increase.

"The class I price increase called for by the legislation would have been put into a national pool for distribution, meaning that some of the income for Class I markets due Pennsylvania dairymen would have gone to dairymen in other parts of the country.

"Other hands would also have dipped into the Class I price pool," he said.

"For example, $32 million of the increase was going to go into the U.S. Treasury to help defray costs of the Commodity Credit Corporation dairy surplus purchases for fiscal 1991 and 1992. Money from the pool would also have been used to pay grade B milk producers a 50-cents-per-hundredweight premium.

"In addition, the Women, Infant and Children (WIC) feeding program would have been able to dip into the pool for money.

"So the Leahy bill would have put the federal government, Grade B milk producers, dairymen with a smaller share of Class I markets, and welfare programs in line ahead of Pennsylvania dairymen for the temporary price increase," Eckel said.

"In addition to setting a new and dangerous precedent for using dairy farmer income for the first time to finance government programs, the legislation would have been hardly worth the consequences in market distortion and the inevitable criticism that consumer activits would have heaped on dairy farmers."

According to Eckel, the American Farm Bureau Federation, of which PFA belongs, is working to find a permanent solution to the dairy price situation.

At the most recent meeting of the Farm Bureau Board of Directors, of which Eckel is a member, several measures were adopted that are aimed at alleviating excess dairy supplies.

One of those measures incorporates a concept that was included in the Leahy bill.

"The one favorable proposal in the Leahy bill, which is also contained in Farm Bureau policy, is to increase the fluid milk minimum standards for solids not fat nationwide to match the levels used in California," he said.

"The higher standards will provide consumers with a more nutritious product and will remove additional dairy product from the manufactured sector."

Once implemented, he said Farm Bureau would urge that the higher standards be actively pursued and enforced.

In addition, the Farm Bureau Boar of Directors also voted to actively pursue the lowering of the somatic cell count in milk from one million cells per milliliter to 750,000 cells.

"This will remove problem cows, reduce herd health problems for producers and could reduce milk supplies," Eckel said. "Dairymen and consumers would also receive the benefit of less possibility of antibiotic residues in milk."

Eckel said a matter the Farm Bureau is pursuing very strongly is to repeal the milk assessments.

"While some say, 'It's only 5 cents per hundred weight, why bother?' bear in mind that it will more than double next year and will be collected for a total of five years.

"For a Pennsylvania dairyman with a 67-cow herd, that's a tax of $5,131. to make matters worse, it's a tax on production, not profits. No other industry is being forced to accept this kind of tax burden, so why should dairymen?"

Farm Bureau has also decided to spell out publicly what kind of standby inventory management program it will support.

• The 1990 farm law requires USDA to limit costs of dairy surplus purchases either through producer assessments or with an inventory management program:

Federal Order Changes Affecting Pennsylvania

ROBERT D. YONKERS
BLAIR J. SMITH
PSU Ag Economists

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The USDA has recommended and federal order milk producers have approved several changes in how milk checks are calculated.

None of these changes will have major impacts on Pennsylvania milk prices, but some producers will notice subtle changes in their milk checks.

The Butterfat Differential

The butterfat differential is still used to adjust producer milk checks based on average butterfat content of milk shipped.

However, the method used to calculate the differential has been modified. The new calculation more closely reflects the actual value of butterfat to milk handlers based on both the butter price and the value of the skim portion of the milk.

This change went into effect in milk checks received in January as payment for December milk. This only applies to producers shipping to milk plants regulated by a federal order — the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has not yet addressed this issue.

Under the old calculation, the December butterfat differential would have been 11.4 cents per tenth of a percent of butterfat. The new calcualtion resulted in a December butterfat differential of 10.5 cents.

The butterfat differential will change, of course, as butter prices change in future months.

Classification of Milk Use

Most federal orders in the United States have had three classes of milk. However, federal orders in the northeastern United States have always been two class markets.

Starting April 1, this changed for Pennsylvania milk producers in Federal Orders 2, which includes New York and New Jersey and a portion of Pennsylvania, and Federal Order 4, which is the middle Atlantic states, including Maryland, Delaware, southern Pennsylvania . . .

These markets now more closely resemble Federal Order 36, which is eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Milk used in fluid dairy products will continue to be Class I.

Milk used in soft manufactured dairy products — such as yogurt, ice cream, cottage cheese, and sour cream — will be Class II.

Milk used in hard manufactured dairy products — such as butter, dry milk products, and hard cheeses — will be Class III.

Class I prices will remain the same, and the Class II price will be the Minnesota-Wisconsin price.

As in other three-class markets, the Class II price will be announced by the 15th of the preceding month based on a formula designed to result in an average price level about 10 cents above the Class III price.

These changes in milk classification will result in very small increases in producer blend prices under federal order minimum pricing because Class II products are only a small part of the total market.

Transportation Differentials

These changes, which hold the most potential to alter producer milk checks, will more closely relate the location value of milk to the costs incurred in moving milk from farms in the country to plants near the city.

For adjusting both Class I milk prices and the blend price paid to producers, the new transportation differentials will be 2.5 cents per hundredweight for each 10 mile zone inside and outside the 201- to 210 mile zone.

Pre-April rates are 2.2 cents inside and 1.5 cents outside the 201- to 210-mile zone. Also, the fixed differential, which applies within the 1- to 70-mile zone has increased from 15 to 22 cents.

These changes will keep the Class I differential at the 1- to 10-mile zone at $3.14. However, the Class I differential at the 201- to 210-mile zone will change from $2.55 to $2.42, a decrease of 13 cents.

Milk producers more distant from New York City will see even larger decreases in the milk checks under federal order minimum pricing, reaching a maximum of 3[illegible] cents lower at the 401-mile and over zone.

Learn About Chemical Compliance

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Much confusion has surrounded the enactment of OSHA Hazardous Communication laws, EPA SARA Title 3, and Pennsylvania Right to Know Laws. Who do they apply to? What do they cover? What does it take to comply?

All of these laws were enacted to protect the people who could be exposed to hazardous materials. There is too much confusion because there are different agencies responsible for each regulation.

On Thursday, April 11, starting at 7:30 p.m., at the Upper Dauphin High School cafeteria, Elizabethville, a public meeting will be held to discuss these laws. Russ Redding, Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, will discuss completing the Hazardous Substance Survey Form and answer questions.

The meeting will provide assistance to business industries.

This program qualifies for three pesticide core credits. The meeting is sponsored by the Upper Dauphin Adult Young Farmers and Penn State Cooperative Extension. For more information, contact Paul Craig, (717) 921-8803 or Stanley Weaver, (717) 362-3666.

Death Of Leahy Bill

Eckel said the position of the Farm Bureau is that it will support a standby inventory managment program which is based on milk pricing established on a base/excess concept tied directly to commercial utilization and market reserve.

"The excess milk should be priced at market-clearing levels and the program should be initiated each year only if surpluses exceed the 7 billion pounds trigger level that is set in the 1990 farm law. The program should be administered by an industry-controlled board and should not require the establishment of mandatory individual bases for dairymen," he said.

"The relatively small amount of excess milk that weighs down dairy prices should be sold in non-traditional markets that do not violate trade agreements, but also do not depress the domestic prices fo Class I and Class II milk."

- Farm Bureau will be working to include dairy exports in the Export Enhancement Program, which has just been funded for the rest of the year.

"this successful program, which helps American farmers compete against countries which steal our markets with subsidized exports, should be utilized to help the dairy industry move excess butter, powder and cheese into previously untouchable markets outside of this country," Eckel said.

- Farm Bureau is calling for a congressional study of the current disparity between retail price for milk and the prices farmers are receiving.

BIG JIM® Silage Handling System

The advantages of bottom delivery... without the high cost or complications

Uniform filling
Forage blown into the center of the silo through the fill chute (standard equipment) is distributed uniformly to the silo wall and compacted by the 16-in. diameter auger. This gets more feed into a given silo, reducing storage cost per ton.
Whenever feed reaches the wall, an advance switch moves the auger forward clockwise a few inches for delivery and compaction of the next strip of feed
If filling is interrupted, the auger "waits" for more forage to be delivered This even distribution minimizes air pockets, center core and wall pressures, to retain feed value.
As the silo is filled, the machine raises automatically as needed A steel cylinder, 30 in. long and 19 in. in diameter, is suspended under the center of the machine. This cylinder creates the center discharge hole in the middle of the silage as the machine is raised. The Big Jim® system easily handles the nonstop filling capacity of big blowers, for fast, convenient, positive filling

Quick change-over

Converts from filling to feeding in minutes

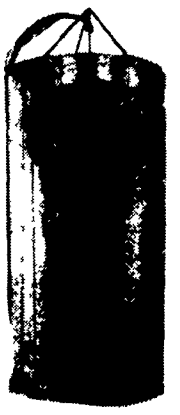
1. TURN UNIT OFF To convert from filling to feeding (or vice versa) in minutes you climb only to silage level up a CLEAN CHUTE First turn the dial to "OFF" on the control panel located at the motor end of the machine. This safety feature gives you control of the machine

3. OPEN TRAP DOOR Unlatch door in the top of the steel hole-forming cylinder and let the door hang down so silage can drop down the center hole into the bottom conveyor During filling the trap door is closed so forage does not fall into the unloading hole formed in the silage

2. SHIFT LEVER Move lever handle toward the center discharge hole This forces the auger toward the silo wall for proper unloading especially for removal of frozen silage from the wall by the chipper wheel For filling move the shift lever handle toward the wall so the hole-former hangs straight

4. TURN TO FEED Turn the dial to "FEED" to reverse the auger and you're ready to feed out in just minutes after filling Quick change-over makes it easy to use your feeding system without interruption during silo-filling seasons And with a clean chute, imagine not getting silage dust down your neck!

Fast feeding



Massive auger reverses to carry feed to the center hole. Feed pours through the open trap door in the hole-forming cylinder, and falls by gravity onto the double-chain conveyor housed in the concrete tunnel below. This unloading eliminates a blower and its power needs, so only a 7½ H.P. motor is needed for 20-ft. and 24-ft. silos, (30-ft. silos require a 10 H.P., 3-Phase motor). The big-capacity conveyor gives you the benefits of bottom discharge without the expense. Adaptable in height and distance, the conveyor can deliver directly into a mixer or into the conveyor of your feeding system. This system is unmatched for simplicity of design, ease of operation and fast feeding capacity in 20-ft., 24-ft. and 30-ft. silos.

Dairy Farmers At War

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Dairy farmers are in a war, farm lobbyist Bill Perry told the young farmer group of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative during a meeting here last week.

It's a war not just because a volatile marketplace has sent milk prices plummeting; it's a war because the U.S. government "no longer has a farm policy -- it has a food policy," said Perry, who is legislative and government affairs manager for Milk Marketing Inc., a co-op based in Ohio.

That means "we have to get off our haunches to tell our story."

Perry spoke at a Young Cooperator dinner held in conjunction with Eastern Milk's semi-annual Delegate Meeting. It was the second year in a row that the Syracuse, N.Y.- based cooperative held a delegate meeting in Williamsport.

The picture is not all bleak, Perry said, because dairy farmers have a powerful force in the form of cooperatives.

"In dealing with Washington, we have an advantage" over a private dealer or manufacturer, he said.

"I represent people. He represents a product. I represent voters."

Co-ops are first and foremost for people, he said, and then told the young farmers, "You're in a co-op because it gives you the right to have a say in marketing your milk."

"Eastern Milk Producers is not just about milk and cows," he said, "but about people who milk cows and are joined together for a cause. We have a distinctly different viewpoint."

Perry related a recent phone call he received from an irate woman who wanted to complain about the falling milk prices, the changing market, and poor legislation.

After a long conversation he finally convinced the farmer to tell him her name and where she was from. He didn't recognize the name so he asked how long she had been shipping milk through the co-op, and she replied, after a long pause "I'm not a member of your co-op. I ship directly to a cheese plant."

Surprised, he said he asked why she would even think of calling the co-op to complain.

He said she told him, "You people in cooperatives always seem to know what's going on and you know what you're talking about.

"There's a message in that, isn't there?" Perry said.

Farmland Preservation Board Approves Seven Plans

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board recently approved plans to save prime farmland in seven counties.

The counties include Dauphin, Perry, Monroe, Snyder, Mercer, Lebanon and Susquehanna.

Chairman of the board, state Agriculure Secretary Boyd Wolff, said the approval of the plans brings the total number of counties with approved preservation plans up to 24. All programs fall under funding aid through the state's $100 million protection program.

"In the battle to save precious food-producing land, Pennsylvania is well-armed with more than $75 million that will be used to purchase agricultural easements," Wolff said.

"Under Pennsylvania's program, the state board can act to save some of the best farmland in the world."

Pennsylvania's farmland protection program is funded by $100 million bond issue approved by voters in a statewide referendum in 1987.

Funds are allocated to counties based on development pressure, agricultural production and county appropriations for farmland protection. Since 1989, 25 counties have allocated local funds to purchase agricultural easements.

In other board action, easement purchase were approved for four farms: three in Lancaster County, one Berks County. Those four easements will protect 426 acres of farmland.

Including the easement purchases approved by the board today, Pennsylvania now has 3,277 acres of prime farmland that is permanently protected from development.

group of ProStaph I negative & suspect cows. Continue to manage that group using good masitits prevention practices.

And one more very important thing about the negative cows . . . don't assume that some other mastitis problem doesn't exist. This test only looks for Staph aureus mastitis.

Step 5: Monitor the PERCENT NEW INFECTIONS in the herd using the PA DHIA SCC management report.

If the percent new infections stays the same or goes down, progress is being made. If the percent new infections goes up, repeat steps 1 through 4 of the decision tree.

Let 's Wrap it Up

Penn State and Pennsylvania DHIA feel that the ProStaph I test is a valuable test to use in a herd with a suspected Staph aureus problem. Use of this test can greatly reduce the number of cows to culture and could save a significant amount of time and money.

If you have any questions about running the ProStaph I test, or about interpretation of the decision tree, call 1-800-DHI-TEST (1-800-344-8378).

York Farmland Preservation Gets Boost

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — The outlook for maintaining agriculture land in York County got a further boost recently with the hiring of an executive director for the York County Farm and Trust.

Julie Ann Gustanski was officially introduced as executive director during the York County Farmland Trust's first annual meeting, held March 21 at Rutter's Family Restaurant.

Gustanski, former director of the Bucks County Agriculture Preserve Board, brings a background of education and experience in land use and conservation. Her degree and graduate studies at University of Minnesota, Duke University and abroad at Edinborough, Scotland focused on legal and economic issues of land planning and use.

The York County Farmland Trust is a recently-organized private effort toward preserving the county's fast-disappearing agriculture acreages. With a modest beginning budget of about $50,000 and nearly 100 members and contributors, the Trust is geared to work in concert with state and county preservation programs already in place.

"Our objectives are to broaden community awareness of the importance of agricultural land, to minimize conversion of farmland to non-agricultural uses, and to provide alternatives for landowners," Gustanski noted in outlining the Trust's goals.

The trust aims at acquisition of land development easements from ag landowners through a variety of methods, including donations, bequests and purchases of development rights. Land to be considered must meet standards of the Trust's purposes, and be in accordance with applicable government policies. The trust will also work closely with the county's Agriculture Preserve Board to coordinate ag land preservation efforts.

Loganville orchardist and retail marketer Stan Brown heads the Trust as president of the board of trustees. In his remarks, Brown noted the value of the county's land, including the natural rainfall with which Pennsylvania is usually blessed.

"If we cover the whole East Coast with macadam and depend on the West Coast for much of our food supplies, we're going to be in trouble," Brown warned. He cited the five-year drought which continues to plague California, where production depends on heavy use of irrigation, compared to the non-irrigated farmland of the East.

Officers elected to serve with Brown for 1991 are Douglas Campbell, Jr., vice-president; Jeanne Reilly, secretary; Arthur Freas, treasurer; and Katrina Snyder, assistant treasurer. Also serving on the board are Irvin W. Allot, Jr., Louis J. Appell, Jr., E. Wayne Beshore, Richard Bono, Kevin Clark, Tony Dobrosky, R. Jack Dunn, Jr., David Evans, Arthur J. Glatfelter, Robert Kinsley, Morton Kise, John D. Miller, Jr., Esq., Olive Padden, Gerritt Strathmeyer, Patricia Sueck, Gretchen Swartz, and Floyd Warner.

Ann Orth, Pennsylvania field representative for the American Farmland Trust, reviewed regional and national efforts toward ag land preservation. The American Farmland Trust, headquartered in Washington, D.C., offers technical assistance and educational information to ag preservation programs, and serves as a political advocate for preservation efforts.

The York County Farmland Trust is presently operating from a temporary office provided by the York County Planning Commission at the county's Pleasant Acres Complex until permanent quarters are arranged. Landowners interested in more information on the York County Farmland Trust may contact executive director Julie Gustanski through the Planning Commission, 118 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402, phone 717-771-9550

Springdale Farm And One-Room School Perpetuates Heritage

SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

NEW WINDSOR, Md. — When John Cornell Lovell surveys his herd of purebred Angus that grazes on the pasture-land adajcent to the family homestead, he takes pride in the fact that the farm has been in the family since the 1870s. His maternal grandparents settled in the sheltered valley surrounded by rolling green pastures and make Springdale Farm their home.

"I was born in this house," said Lovell. He perpetuates the family's agricultural heritage, farming 250 acres at home and leasing over 100 additional acres nearby. "My grandfather was a cattle drover, and Dad had a hatchery" he recalled.

"Grandfather Cornell" bought cattle from farms in the area and in neighboring towns. "When it came time to sell them, he drove them to the cattle cars at the railroad. He would ride in the caboose to the cattle yard in Baltimore." It might come as a surprise to present day Main Street residents to know that cattle were driven past the front doors of their New Windsor homes. That was around 1910, and Lovell was "just a little kid" then.

Lovell runs Springdale Farm with the assistance of herdsman, Robert Mehlman, and Alvey "Nook" Weller. The senior citizen keeps fit by playing a major role in the daily operation revolving around his herd of 140 Angus. The cow- calf operation boasts 60 cows calving this spring. There is even a set of twins in the pasture.

"I always liked Black Angus," said Lovell. "That goes way back. They are the best for marbling in beef and I think the nicest looking."

Standing in the fields as proof to his testimonials are fine examples of the Angus breed. A son of Pine Drive Big Sky and Blackwell, from the Wye herd, are the Springdale Farm herd bulls.

"The calves have the right birth weight and they look promising," remarked Lovell. He markets his animals primarily through private treaty sales. Some of his young stock was sold at the Maryland Angus Futurity to 4-Hers and will be shown in Carroll, Howard, and Frederick Counties. As an active member in the Maryland and American Angus Associations and the Cattlemen's Association, Lovell participates in the clubs and promotes the Angus breed.

Whether the day's agenda includes making round bales of alfalfa hay, trying to plant oats between the raindrops, or tending to business inside the white frame house, John Lovell rises with the sun. "I don't need an alarm clock. Dr. Harney gets me up at 6:14, no later, seven days a week." The tempermental Siamese cat that he refers to was dubbed "Harney, because that's where I found him. And we gave him a Ph.D. in orneriness, so we call him Dr. Harney."

Mr. Lovell shares his comfortable home with other four-legged friends. Recently widowed, he appreciates the presence of Princess, a loving and sensitive Golden Retriver who is a loyal companion at home and around the farm. And B.C. Samantha rounds out the family of quadrupeds. The black and white cat just showed up one day and has been at Springdale ever since. B.C. stands for "Barn Cat" although she now claims residency in the main house.

As he begins his day, Lovell fixes his breakfast. "I give The Princess a little milk every morning when I have my cereal," he said with a smile. He talks to Robert every day and then heads out to the barn or the pasture or wherever duty calls.

Springdale Farm is unique, not only in its past heritage and pastoral beauty, but also because it harbors a piece of history. Lovell has only to walk to the end of his lane to visit the one-room schoolhouse that he attended as a child. The brick structure, complete with belfry, stands on the crest of a hill as a reminder of a past way of life. "My mother went there and my grandfather, Ellsworth Lovell, taught school there."

"The bell rang five minutes before nine every morning," recalled Lovell. He and his brother, Marker, made their way up the hill to the little school where they studied reading, writing and arithmetic for six years. "There were about four or five kids in each grade," he explained, with about 25 kids altogether.

The day began with the Pledge, led by his teacher, Joseph Langdon. Mr. Langdon walked the two miles of dirt road from nearby New Windsor to teach his scholars. "He was halfway strict," Lovell said of his former teacher. "But he wasn't mean. I don't recall that he ever used a switch or paddle." Most disciplinary actions consisted of standing in the corner or sitting on the dunce stool and wearing a dunce cap.

At noontime the children went home for lunch and returned when the bell sounded at five minutes before one. Sometimes the kids ate their lunch at school or hurriedly ate their lunches and returned "because we were trying to play a game." Baseball, tag, hide and seek, leap frog, and marbles were popular games, "and we played mumbly peg with our knives," he recalled.

The bricks of the old schoolhouse, which bears the date 1854, show the scratch marks where boys sharpened their knives. Close inspection of the outside walls reveals initials carved at child height on several of the bricks. The old-handled pump is gone now, but Lovell said "it was there for a long time. They said the well was contaminated, so every day, it was the chore of one of the kids to go to the house across the road or to our house for a bucket of water to fill the cooler inside," he explained.

John and Marker Lovell attended Springdale School until 1927 when the school was put up for sale. Their father purchased the building. "Dad made a chicken house out of it," he explained. After years of duty as an outbuilding on Springdale Farm, John's brother, Marker, took on the monumental task of restoring the building, inside and out, to its former condition.

The charming one-room schoolhouse stands ready for schoolchildren once again. In its restored condition, it now serves as a model for today's students to visit and relive a day that now only exists in the history pages.

When they cross the worn stone threshhold at Springdale School, students step back into a different time. Desks with inkwells and slates face the front where the teacher's desk sits on a platform. "The students used to go up and sit on a bench in front of the teacher's desk where he would cross examine and see what you knew," said John Lovell with a chuckle.

The airy room is filled with authentic period furnishings from little metal lunch pails to the old pot-bellied stove. Mr. Lovell said that occasionally the teacher heated a pot of soup on the stove. That was during those cold, snowy days when the kids would bring their sleds to school and ride the slopes that dipped down to the Lovells' home. Old books and readers line the shelves, and maps and a portrait of George Washington hang on the walls. The only things missing are the privies that stood out back.

Marker Lovell delights in retelling stories of his one-room schoolhouse days to the pupils of today. John and Marker both are examples of small town boys that made good. After graduating from the one-room Springdale School, they attended the larger, more modern New Windsor School. Marker earned a law degree from the University of Maryland, and John Lovell earned a degree in dairy science. And they both maintain fond memories of the little schoolhouse along Springdale Road.

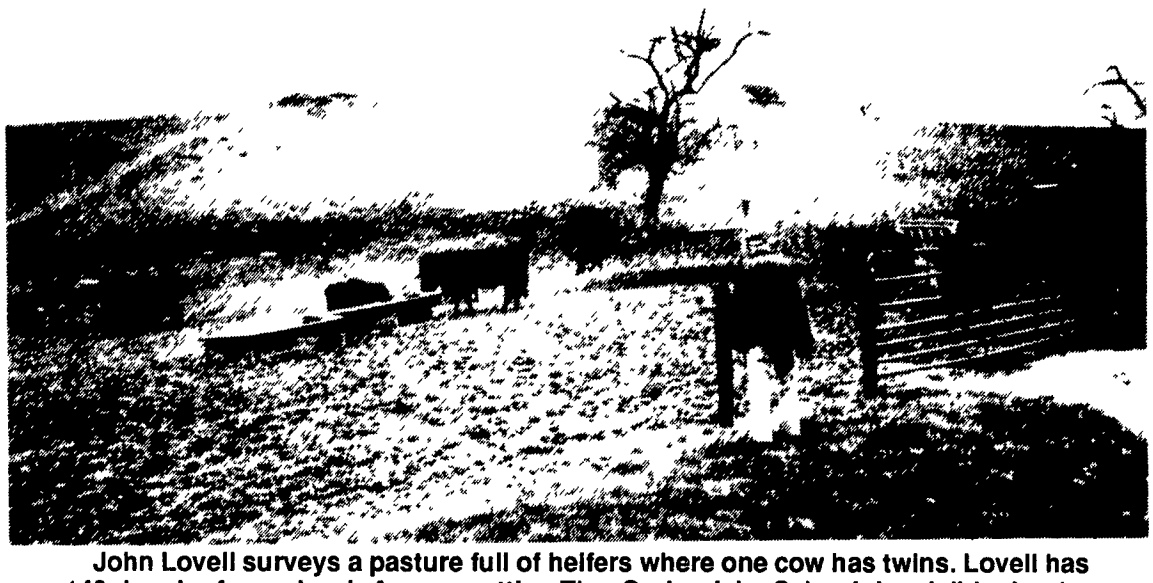
Springdale School, a brick one-room schoolhouse, was built in 1854.



John Lovell surveys a pasture full of heifers where one cow has twins. Lovell has 140 head of purebred Angus cattle. The Springdale School is visible in the background.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

There is a certain finality to the simple act of flipping off a light switch and closing a door behind you.

A task has been finished, a responsibility met. Needs have been satisfied, unexpected problems dealt with, and challenges met head on.

And tomorrow will be another day.

Perhaps that's why there comes such a sense of fulfillment at the moment of the day when the milkhouse hose is hung up, a jug of milk tapped from the tank for house use is in hand, and I step for the last time from the barn's warmth into the coolness of evening.

It's a pleasure renewed each evening, this aura of accomplishment of the day. Calves have been fed their evening bottles of warm milk and now rest, curled up, eyes closed, on fresh straw in their pens. Milking finished, the dairy cows bury their muzzles deep in piles of fragrant forages and grain, intent on the mound of dinner before them - and occasionally snatching bites from the share of their neighbors if possible.

The usual bevy of barn cats lounging outside the milkhouse has disappeared, already sleeping off their post-milking snack or - hopefully - busy somewhere up in the barn stalking mice. Solomon sits patiently waiting just beyond the lawn, anticipating either a game of fetch the ball or an evening walk.

Winter evening walks are often in brisk, refreshing winds, or sometimes through a curtain of softly-falling snowflakes. But an April evening walk is more often wrapped in a cloak of gentleness, scented with the earthy fragrance of damp ground and greening grass.

And with the Daylight Savings Time displacement of a morning hour into the evening, society's adaptation to nature's lengthening is a gift to us evening walk enthusiasts. (Actually it's the reward for prying open reluctant eyes when 6 a.m. is abruptly shifted back into the middle of the night.)

In dusk's dminishing light, the air in the meadow is already filled with dampness. Frogs lunge from unseen hiding spots among the dead cattail residue, given away by the telltale plopping sound as they hit the water, and a stirring of the pond's calm surface with widening circles.

Branches of hardwoods in the little woods are bare, the promise of thick green foliage still wrapped in tight buds. Squirrels and birds have settled in for the night, and nothing stirs in the quiet shadows of the towering trees. Beyond the darkness of the woods, the field road angles down the south slope of the heifer herd's pasture, where complete stillness reigns over the rolling meadow expanse.

Stars begin to twinkle in the deepening darkness overhead as we cross the stream which splits the meadow. The gurgling stream is more heard than seen in the dim light and a muted rush of cascading water marks the spot where the flow tumbles over a large rock to a level two feet lower.

We climb from the valley to the heights of the opposite hill and gaze back to the farm, now a good half-mile distant. The white all-night light glows outside the barn, and tiny yellow-lit rectangles mark someone's presence in the house.

How cozy, how secure, how comforting it looks. The light breeze is cooling down and the warmth of home beckons. Something rustles in the old corn fodder near the road, and my walking companion disappears into the darkness in chase.

No longer dusk, the return walk is in silent night. I call several times and soon running feet and rapid panting mark Solomon's return and abandonment of the field chase. Deep in enjoyment of the evening, I forget the low spot in the road and suddenly step in a water puddle, then jump to the side and land in a deeper one.

No matter. The shoe will dry and soon be forgotten.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Here are some microwave tips that are not April Fool's tricks. They really work.

Most come from a free leaflet called, Time Saving Tips Your Mother Never Taught You: 25+ Clever Ideas for the Microwave. The booklet is from Chinet disposable tableware. I was amazed to learn that according to studies, Chinet disposable cookware can withstand oil temperatures of up to 230 degrees and water at 180 degrees. This means you really can cook in this kind of disposable tableware. That's probably one reason why Chinet disposable tableware was recently rated tops for use in the microwave.

You know how important a good paper plate is for microwaving. If you've ever had a paper plate of hot food collapse as you're carrying it to the table, you know that a strong plate is important. You may also have had the experience of trying to heat a fatty food on a foam or plastic or laminated plate, and ended up with a hole melted or burned right through the plate. You know that foam, plastic or laminated disposable tableware can melt, burn and may cause chemicals to contaminate food.

The tips and recipes in "Time Saving Tips Your Mother Never Taught You" call for using Chinet bowls and various sizes of Chinet plates. I'm sharing two tips from each of the four categories in the brochure — Time-Savers, Microwave Snacks for Kids, Reheating and Entertaining. I've also included a few of my favorite microwave tips.

If you'd like a free copy of "Time Saving Tips Your Mother Never Taught You: 25+ Clever Ideas for the Microwave," send a self-addressed stamped business size (long) envelope to: Chinet Microwave Offer, c/o Myers CommuniCounsel, 11 Penn Plaza, Suite 1000, New York, N.Y. 10001.

• Saute an onion. No need to haul out the frying pan or slave over a hot stove next time you want to saute an onion. Get the same resuts from your microwave with less fuss, no fat and almost no clean-up. Spread 1 small chopped onion on a Chinet Luncheon Plate, cover with another plate and microwave 1 minute.

• Re-crisp snacks. Don't throw out soggy potato chips, pretzels or crackers. Re-crisp them in your microwave. Put 2 cups in an even layer on a Chinet Platter and microwave uncovered about 45 seconds. Let stand 3 minutes, then serve.

• Make quick chili dogs for lunch. Who says you can't teach an old dog new tricks? Turn ordinary franks into Super Chili Cheese Dogs. Spread 4 hot dog rolls with mustard. Empty a 7½ -ounce can of chili with beans into a Chinet Bowl. Cover with a second Chinet bowl and microwave 1 to 2 minutes or until hot; set aside. Place 4 hot dogs on a Chinet Dinner Plate (Pierce skin-on hot dogs with a fork first.) Cover with an additional plate and microwave 1½ to 2½ minutes or until hot. Place hot dogs in buns, spoon on chili and sprinkle each with 1 tablespoon grated cheese and 1 tablespoon chopped onion. Microwave about 1 minute or until cheese starts to melt.

• Make easy chocolate candy-snacks. Kids can make a batch of these Crunchy Chocolate Clusters for after school snacking or a lunch box treat. Place 1 6-ounce package of milk chocolate or butterscotch chips in a Chinet Bowl and microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 3½ to 4½ minutes, stirring once, or until chips soften when stirred. Stir until smooth. Stir in 1/2 cup crispy rice cereal and ⅓ cup shredded coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto a waxed paper covered plate; refrigerate until set. Makes about 12 snacks.

• Reheat a hamburger and bun. When the barbecue's over, take leftover hamburgers and refrigerate them. To reheat, put the hamburger in the bun and place on a Chinet Luncheon Plate. Cover with an inverted Chinet Bowl and microwave for 45 seconds.

• Warm a slice of pie. Now you can get that just-baked flavor from leftover fruit pies anytime. Warm up a piece of pie on a Chinet Dessert Plate in the microwave for about 30 seconds. Top with a scoop of ice cream and indulge!

•Make vegi appetizers. Bored with the usual vegetable crudite? Jazz it up in your microwave. Separate cauliflower and broccoli into florets; put a toothpick into each. Dip first in water; then in seasoned crumb coating. Place 12 florets on a Chinet Platter and microwave 2½ to 3 minutes or until barely tender- crisp. (Don't cook too long, otherwise they'll fall off the toothpicks and be hard to eat.) Wait 2 minutes before serving.

• Try a different kind of chip. Make a break from ordinary chips and dips with Crispy Pepperoni Chips. Place about 20 slices of pepperoni in a circle on a Chinet Platter, leaving the center open. Cover with a paper towel and microwave 1 to 1½ minutes or until almost crisp. Place a small bowl of mustard or your favorite dip in the center of the platter before serving.

• Heat breads and rolls. Place bread slices or rolls in a napkin-lined basket (with no metal trim); cover with another napkin or paper towel and microwave 15 to 20 seconds or until barely warm.

• Warm egg whites to room temperature. Room temperature egg whites beat to a higher volume, but eggs separate easiest when they're cold. Use your microwave to carefully warm egg whites. For 3 large egg whites, microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 15 to 25 seconds. Immediately stir to distribute heat.

• Microwave, then bake a two-crust fruit pie to save time. Transfer a still-frozen unbaked store-bought or homemade pie to a microwavable and oven-safe pie plate. Or prepare a pie as you normally would, but use a microwavable and oven-safe pie plate. Preheat conventional oven to 450°F. Microwave frozen pie 14 to 17 minutes on High (fresh pie 7 to 9 minutes on High), or until filling bubbles towards center. Transfer pie to conventional oven and bake 15 to 20 minutes (both fresh and frozen), or until top is golden brown and fruit is tender. • Keep waxed paper from blowing off the dish during microwaving. Slightly moisten top edges of dish before covering with waxed paper.

• If a big Bundt-style cake is too much to eat at once, slice cake and arrange slices overlapping in a circle (with center open) on a microwavable plate. Wrap tightly and freeze. When company comes, remove cake from freezer, unwrap and cover with waxed paper. Microwave on Medium Low (30 percent power, about 200 watts) or until thawed and slightly warm.

• To make a microwave casserole lid fit tightly, place a sheet of waxed paper between the casserole and lid.

• Freshen your microwave after cooking broccoli, fish or other foods which leave a strong odor. Put a tablespoon of lemon juice and about a half cup water in a microwavable 1-quart dish or measure. Boil for a few minutes.

• Soften hard cookies. Place them in a single layer on a microwavable plate, sprinkle each with a few drops of water and cover with waxed paper. Microwave about 10 seconds. Eat them while they're still warm. They'll taste freshly baked!

• Hard-cook an egg (but not in the shell) for a garnish or an egg salad sandwich. Break an egg into a microwavable cup; pierce yolk with a toothpick and cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on Medium (50 per- cent power, 325-350 watts) for 1½ to 2 minutes. Let stand until hard-cooked, then chop.

• Soften hard brown sugar. Place brown sugar in a microwavable bowl; add a slice of soft bread or an apple wedge. Cover tightly with plastic wrap and microwave 30 to 40 seconds for each cup of brown sugar. Let stand covered for about 3 minutes; then stir or break apart big lumps.

• To easily separate slices of cold bacon, heat the entire package for about 10 seconds on High.

SOLUBLE FIBER FACTS

Some of the nation's top health experts recently met to talk about an important component of many foods: soluble fiber. They agree that Americans are not eating enough of it. And that most consumers do not know about the health benefits of eating foods high in soluble fiber. Research has revealed that soluble fiber can help control blood cholesterol levels when added to a low fat diet.

You have probably heard a great deal about soluble fiber without realizing it. It's the soluble fiber that gives oat bran its appeal. The untold story is that soluble fiber is available from many sources and you should include more of it in your diet by choosing several different food sources every day.

One of the best sources of soluble fiber is psyllium (sil e um); the p is silent. Psyllium is a natural grain with a wholesome nutty taste. It is unique in that it is very high in soluble fiber, and also provides insoluble fiber. It contains eight times more soluble fiber than oat bran, and is one of the most concentrated sources of soluble fiber known.

Consumed in Asia for centuries, psyllium has been used in America primarily in popular bulk laxatives. People have been adding these products to their daily routines to increase their intake of fiber. But now psyllium can be found in breakfast cereal, making it easier to include in our diet. And it certainly is more sensible to get the fiber we need from food.

Soluble fiber can be found in many foods, including grains like psyllium, barley and oats; legumes, including lentils, dried peas and beans; dried fruits like prunes, raisins and figs; and fresh fruits like apples and pears. To increase your intake of soluble fiber, try these simple hints:

* Add legumes or barley to soups and casseroles. * Add dried fruits to desserts and salads.
* Grab an apple as a snack.
* Bake muffins with a cereal containing pysllium.

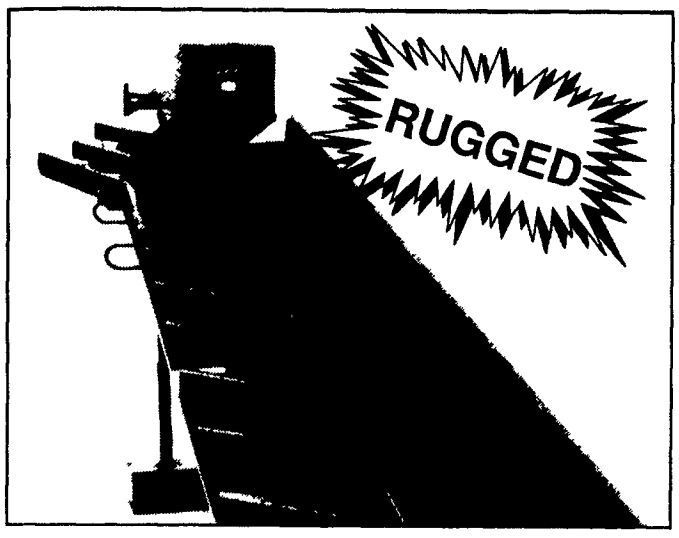
SPICE MUFFINS

1-3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
2 cups Kellogg's Heartwise cereal
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1-1/4 cup skim milk
2 egg whites
1/4 cup vegetable oil

Stir together flour, salt, baking powder and pumpkin pie spice. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, combine cereal, sugar and milk. Let stand 3 minutes or until cereal softens. Add egg whites and oil; mix well. Add flour mixture, stirring only until combined. Portion batter evenly into 12 lightly greased 2-1/2-inch muffin pans.

Bake in 400 degree F. oven about 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Yield: 12 muffins.



Patz® slide of COR-TEN® steel resists corrosion

COR-TEN steel provides atmospheric corrosion resistance for longer slide life.

Patz COR-TEN steel slides are painted to further protect against corrosion. COR-TEN steel holds paint longer than ordinary steel. If the paint is scratched, COR-TEN steel forms a tightly adherent oxide to "heal" itself.

COR-TEN steel is stronger than mild steel. The COR-TEN steel slide is welded to a 4½-inch by 6⅝-inch COR-TEN center box beam for extra rigidity.

The COR-TEN steel return slide lip is standard equipment. It helps keep the area clean.

Exciting Recipes With Today's Veal

Recipe excitement and ultra-modern convenience in a single package await your discovery of veal. Today's veal is the key to delicious meals in even the fastest-paced lifestyle.

Veal is nutrient dense, which m< ns it provides more of a day's requirement of essential nutrients than it contributes to a day's calorie intake.

If you would like to know more about veal and how to cook it, write to Pennsylvania Beef Council, 4714 Orchard St., Harrisburg, PA 17109.

HERBED VEAL LOIN WITH MUSHROOMS & MIXED GREENS
Serves 24

6 pounds veal strip loin
½ cup olive oil
¼ cup lemon juice
1½ cups parsley, chopped
⅓ cup garlic, minced
1 tablespoon fresh thyme, chopped
1 teaspoon cracked black pepper
3 pounds mixed greens
18 ounces mushrooms, sliced
1 quart vinaigrette dressing

Whisk oil and juice to blend. Combine parsley, thyme, and pepper. Rub veal with oil mixture; roll in herb mixture to coat. Roast in 350 degree oven until thermometer registers 150 degrees.

For each serving: line plate with 2 ounces greens. Arrange ¾ ounce mushrooms and 3 ounces warm sliced veal on greens. Drizzle with 3 tablespoons vinaigrette.

EAST-WEST VEAL CHOPS

1 large garlic clove, crushed
2 veal rib chops, well trimmed
1 teaspoon olive oil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup dry white wine
1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger
½ teaspoon toasted sesame oil
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Rub garlic over both sides of chops. Heat oil in skillet. Cook chops for 10 to 12 minutes over medium heat, turning once, for medium. Transfer to plate; sprinkle with salt. Keep warm. Drain excess fat from skillet. Add wine and ginger. Cook and stir over high heat 1 minute or until reduced as desired. Stir in sesame oil. Pour sauce over chops. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves 2.

HERBED VEAL ROAST

¾ teaspoon dried marjoram leaves
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried basil leaves
¼ teaspoon coarse grind black pepper
2 garlic cloves, minced
3 pound boneless veal leg rump or shoulder roast
½ cup dry white wine
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¼ cup water

Combine marjoram, salt, basil, pepper and garlic; rub over roast. Place roast, fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part not touching fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in 325 degree oven until thermometer registers 155 degrees, about 90 minutes. Transfer roast to warm platter; let stand 15 minutes while preparing sauce. (Temperature should rise to 160 degrees during standing). Drain fat from roasting pan if necessary. Add wine, scraping to loosen browned bits from bottom. Cook over medium-high heat for 2 minutes. Dissolve cornstarch in water and add to roasting pan. Continue cooking and stirring until sauce is slightly thickened. Carve roast. Pass sauce. Serves 12.

PA Beef Council

VEAL BURGERS WITH SAUTEED PEPPERS

1½ pounds ground veal
1 egg, lightly beaten
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ teaspoon coarse grind black pepper
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup each red, green, and yellow pepper strips
1½ teaspoons vegetable oil

Combine ground veal, onion, and pepper, mixing lightly but thoroughly. (Mixture will be very moist). Shape into 6 patties, each about ½ -inch thick. Arrange on rack of broiler pan. Broil 4 inches from heat, 4 to 5 minutes per side or to desired doneness. Or, place burgers on grid over medium coals and grill 10 to 12 minutes, turning once. Season with ½ teaspoon of the salt. While burgers are broiling, cook bell pepper strips in oil until tender. Stir in remaining salt. Serve burgers on bread or rolls topped with peppers. Serves 6.

PA Beef Council

Tender slices of roast veal encrusted with herbs elevate a mixed green salad from a simple dish to a glorious entree. A light vinaigrette dresses the salad and melds the flavors of veal and vegetables.

VEAL WITH PEPPER-PEAR RELISH

4 veal loin or rib chops, cut 1-inch thick
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 large red pepper, chopped
1 large green pepper, chopped
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons seeded, minced jalapeno pepper
1 tablespoon minced ginger root
1 medium pear, peeled, chopped
6 tablespoons lemon juice, divided
3 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon shredded lemon peel
¼ teaspoon salt, divided
2 tablespoons chopped cilantro
¼ teaspoon coarse grind black pepper
Cilantro sprigs and lemon twists, optional

Place veal chops on rack of broiler pan. Broil chops, 4 inches from heat, 14 minutes or desired doneness; turn once. Meanwhile, heat oil in 12-inch nonstick skillet over medium heat. Add bell peppers, onion, jalapeno and ginger. Cook uncovered 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in pears, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, brown sugar, lemon peel, and ½ teaspoon salt. Simmer uncovered until pears are tender, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in remaining 2 tablespoons lemon juice and the chopped cilantro. When chops are cooked, season with remaining ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper. Arrange on platter; keep warm. Spoon relish over chops. Garnish with cilantro and lemon, if desired. Serves 4.

For best results, do not prepare relish in advance.

QUICK MUSHROOM SWISS STEAK

1½ pounds boneless veal round steak, cut ½ -inch thick
1 tablespoon olive oil
½ teaspoon salt
Coarse grind black pepper, to taste
½ pound button mushrooms, halved
2 medium tomatoes, seeded and diced
⅓ cup thinly sliced fresh basil

Cut veal round steak into six pieces. Using meat mallet, pound to ¼ -inch thickness. Heat oil in 12-inch nonstick skillet. Add veal, a few pieces at a time, and brown on both sides. Remove and keep warm. Return browned veal to skillet. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cook over medium heat until tender, 4 to 5 minutes, turning occasionally. Transfer veal to platter; keep warm. Add wine and mushrooms to skillet, scraping browned bits from bottom of pan. Cook over medium-high heat, stirring frequently, until mushrooms are tender, about 3 minutes. Add tomato and basil; heat through. Spoon vegetable mixture and pan juices over round steak. Serves 6.

This unusual soup is from the Caribbean and is one of the soups that will be served to those who tour the Clearview Farm Bed and Breakfast on April 22.

Glenn and Mildred Wissler own the 200-acre farm that is part of the Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour. Mildred's sister, who is a cook for Nav Jiwan International Tea Room in Ephrata, will prepare two international soups and an assortment of breads for guests to sample during the tour.

PUMPKIN SOUP

1 2-pound pumpkin, peeled, seeded, and cut in 1-inch cubes
Salt and freshly ground pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 large onion, minced
3 scallions, trimmed and minced
3 tomatoes, peeled and chopped
1 cup coconut milk
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg
Pinch of cayenne
⅔ cup dairy sour cream

Put the pumpkin in a saucepan; add enough water to cover, about 4 cups, and 1 teaspoon of salt. Bring to a boil. Lower the heat and simmer for 20 minutes. Drain, and reserve the cooking liquor.

Melt the butter in a saucepan over medium heat. Add the onion and scallions and saute, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes until soft and golden.

Add the pumpkin, tomatoes, coconut milk, 3 cups of the pumpkin cooking liquor, half the nutmeg, a pinch of cayenne and salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil, lower the heat, cover and simmer for 30 minutes.

Remove the pan from heat, let cool slightly, then puree the soup in two batches in a blender or food processor. Return to the pan and heat for 5 minutes, stirring, until warmed throughly.

Pour the soup into a warmed soup tureen and swirl sour cream on top. Sprinkle with remaining nutmeg and serve the soup at once.

ANSWER — For Helen Urban, here is a way of canning beans in a boiling water bath canner. Thanks to Jane Heckman of Effort and to Jane Shuey for recipes.

Canned Green Beans

Put ½ teaspoon salt into clean pint jars. Add raw beans that have been washed, ends snapped off and sliced. Cover with hot water to ½ inch of the top of the jar. Clean rim and put seal and ring on jar.

Place in a boiling water bath canner, cover with water at least one inch over top of jars. Bring canner to a boil, then cook for one and one-half hours. Double the salt and canning time for quarts.

Green Beans Canned

Fill jars with green or yellow beans. Put 1 teaspoon salt to each jar and fill with water.

Put jars in canner and fill canner with water until it goes over the lids. Then put lid on canner and cook 2½ hours. When water starts to cook in canner, you start to count the time.

Crust For Turnovers or Pies

3 cups shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
5 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon cider vinegar

Cut shortening into flour and salt. Combine egg, water, and vinegar and pour into flour mixture. Stir with fork. Roll on lightly floured board. The crust can be re-rolled without getting tough. Mixture can be refrigerated for two weeks.

ANSWER — Helen Urban of Bronx, N.Y., requested a recipe for canning green beans in a hot water bath. Thanks to Mrs. Ken Mowery, Branchville, NJ.

Wash and snap green beans. Put in clean jars. Add ½ teaspoon salt to each quart jar of beans. Fill jars with water. Wipe top of jar off clean and put the lids on snug.

Put filled jars in a hot water bath canner. Cover with water over top of jars. Keep water over top of jars and boil 3½ hours. Take out and set on paper to cool then seal.

ANSWER — Donna Cunningham of Conestoga would like gluten-free recipes. She'd also like to know where gluten-free flours may be purchased. Thanks to Milly Mummau of Elizabethtown who writes that the flour may be purchased from The Country Store, 906 Mt. Joy - Manheim Rd., Mount Joy, PA or call (717) 653-2652.

ANSWER — Bruce Wise requested a recipe for homemade bologna. Thanks to Patricia Smith of Gore, Vir., for sending a recipe for venison-beef bologna. If venison is not available, beef or pork may be substituted.

Venison-Beef Bologna

10 pounds ground venison
7 pounds ground beef
1½ cups dark brown sugar
1¼ cups Morton's Tenderquick
2 teaspoons ground mace
2½ teaspoons dry mustard
2 teaspoons garlic powder
2 teaspoons black pepper
2 teaspoons Season-All
3 teaspoons onion powder

Mix together the dry ingredients. Crumble about 5 pounds of the ground meat into a large steel bowl. Sprinkle one-third of the dry mixture over the meat. Mix well with hands. Repeat two more times, mixing well. Cover with freezer paper and refrigerate for 24 hours.

Cut 10 pre-washed, unbleached cotton muslin strips, 5 inches wide and 18 inches long. Using mercerized cotton thread, sew 2 strips together down both sides and across one end to make sleeve. Make 5 sleeves.

Pack meat mixture firmly into sleeves to within 3 inches of open end. Gather end shut and tie with cotton string. This mix will make five rolls.

Place 2 or 3 rolls at a time on a rack with a large cookie sheet underneath to catch drips. Bake at 250 degrees for 3 hours, turning rolls over after 1½ hours. Rolls can be frozen, still in sleeves. Put into plastic bags to prevent drying.

Mowing Safety Quiz: Can You Cut It?

GAP (Lancaster Co.) — Each year there are more than 60,000 lawn-mowing related injuries. In almost all cases, the accidents are preventable. All it takes is knowledge about how a power mower operates and understanding of some safe mowing techniques.

In 1985, Briggs and Stratton, the world's largest manufacturer of engines for outdoor power equipment, developed the "Knowing Mowing Safety Program." The 90-minute course is taught at Red Cross chapters and lawn mower dealers throughout tne country.

As part of this national focus on mowing safey, Gap Power Equipment, on Rt. 30 in Gap, offers this simple quiz on lawn mowing safety.

See if you and your kids can cut it!

QUESTIONS

1. Name three dangerous parts of a power mower.

2. Name two safety features that all mowers should be equipped with.

3. As soon as the mower is turned off, does the blade stop mowing?

4. As soon as the gas tank runs out you can refill it? (True or False)

5. You should turn off the mower every time you cross a sidewalk or driveway. (True or False)

6. How hot can a lawn mower engine get while running?

7. When using a walk-behind mower, always mow a slope or hill: a. across the incline b. up and down the incline c. in either direction — both are safe

8. It is safe to mow over small sticks and other items on the lawn?

9. It's OK to let someone ride on the back of a riding mower? (True or False)

10. How do you safely mow around a tree: a. Tip the mower as you move around the tree b. Pull the mower toward you periodically c. Keep all four wheels on the ground as you turn

A "Knowing Mowing" instructor presents students with certificates after completing the "Knowing Mowing" lawn mower safety course sponsored by Briggs & Stratton and the American Red Cross. Some of the important safety tips they've learned are: never mow barefoot, never pull a mower toward you and always mow when grass is dry.

ANSWERS

1. Some dangerous parts on a power lawn mower include: a. the sharp cutting blade spinning beneath the mower that can cause serious cuts or lacerations. b. An open discharge chute is where grass is discharged, but it also can shoot out other objects at over 200 miles per hour. c. Belts and rotating parts can catch loose clothing or fingers. d. a hot engine or muffler can cause severe burns.

2. Safety features which all mowers should have are a discharge chute guard and a rear skirt to protect against objects thrown from the rear of the mower. c. a retaining post to hold the spark plug wire.

This wire always should be disconnected when a mower is not in use or being worked on to prevent accidental sparks. d. A bail bar is located at the handle, which, when released, automatically stops the blade or sometimes the engine. Never tape down the bail bar!

3. No. The blade can take 3 to 10 seconds to stop spinning after the engine is turned off.

4. FALSE. Allow the engine to cool for about 10 minutes. Gasoline spilled on a hot engine could catch fire. Also make sure the spark plug wire is disconnected when refueling. Gas spilled on a spark plug can also ignite the mower. And only fill your gas tank 3/4 full because gasoline expands when heated.

5.TRUE. Shut off the mower when you cross a driveway or sidewalk because a stone or another object could get kicked up or flung out of the mower. It's also not good for the blade.

6. The muffler can reach up to 1200 degrees Fahrenheit.

7. (A) When using a walk-behind mower, mow across the incline to maintain proper balance and footing. If you try to mow uphill, the mower could roll backward over you. Mowing downhill, you could slip and fall under the mower. But remember to mow up and down with a riding mower, which is heavy and could slip going side to side.

8. NO. Never mow over any items on the lawn. These objects could be kicked up and out of the mower. Always clear the entire yard, including sidewalks, and driveway, or any sticks, stones, debris, toys and especially pets and other people.

9. FALSE. Never let anyone ride with you on a riding mower. They could easily fall off and be run over or injured by the blade, discharged objects or wheels.

10. (C) When turning the mower, always keep four wheels on the ground. Tipping the mower exposes that deadly blade and pulling it towards you can throw you off balance.

HOW DID YOU DO? Ten correct: You can cut it! Fewer than 10 correct: Don't take the chance of injuring yourself or others by improperly using outdoor power equipment.

Gap Power Equipment of Gap will offer the "KNOWING MOWING" classes on April 13, at 10 a.m. at Salisbury Twp. Park, Rt. 897, in Gap (Raindate is April 20). The 90-minute course is open, free of charge, to anyone 12 years of age or older.

To register, call Gap Power Equipment at (717) 442-8970.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Recently I've been sorting other people's things. It is much easier than sorting my own things -- mine I can't throw away. Our family seems to have an inherited characteristic that leans toward saving everything.

My children still have their artwork and school papers in boxes under the beds. When they don't want the pretty pictures, I pick out a few that I like and then reluctantly burn the rest.

Some of the boxes contain odd little items like mirrors, jewelry, tiny toys and pictures. Others have collections of matches, stamps and rocks. Boxes and boxes of various stones that they collected for 4-H geology projects. The blue ribbons that they won are still strung across the bedroom walls. There are many purple rosettes and some red and white ribbons too.

Several pairs of ice skates were never taken along when the boys moved. We have natural ponds in our meadow and so they were able to skate most winters even if the river didn't freeze. Musical instruments were left behind and rows and rows of books.

The other Saturday my husband and I went fishing. This time we were rather sure that we'd catch something. You see, it was a place where you pay for the trout that you catch.

We only caught three compared to the six or seven that others caught but we walked past the crowd to the end of the stocked brook where few people were fishing. Maybe others caught them before they got to us. But, they surely tasted good for our evening meal. Next time we'll go on a weekday.

4-H HAPPENINGS

South Mountain 4-H

The South Mountain 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on March 25, at 7 p.m. at the Fontana Community Building. The club talked about the petting zoo at the Children's Festival on April 13. Anyone interested in helping must sign up and animals are needed.

Cookbook covers for our recipe book were judged and voted on. There were nine entries and Angie Kolouani won. She was given a McDonald gift certificate.

We are doing a petting zoo for the children at the Lebanon Country Club on March 30. A demonstration was given in riflery by Shawna Kreider and Michael Bross. The group learned the different parts of a rifle and how to load it safely.

The selection of projects are sewing, cooking, crafts, vet science, pet care, rocketry, wood working, vegetable gardening, entomology, photography, stamp collecting, forestry, bread, ceramics, and riflery.

The next meeting will be held Monday, April 29 at 7 p.m. at the Fontana Community Building.

Travel-All 4-H

The Westmoreland County 4-H Travel-All Club will hold their annual salad bar with entertainment on Sunday, April 14, from 1-4 p.m. at the Greensburg Sheraton Inn, Route 30 East of Greensburg.

Lunch will be served from 1-3 p.m. Cost is $5.50 for adults 13 years and up, $3 for children 6-12 yrs. and free for those 5 and under. Tickets are available from all club members or by calling (412) 423-3066.

The club members will be providing entertainment along with the Latrobe Sr. High School Show Choir. The fashion show will include formal wear modeled by the club members, from Mar-Win of Irwin, Bridal Classics of Mt. Pleasant, and Pati's Formals of Greengate Mall. Children's fashions will be provided by Descendents Children's Fashions, Greensburg. Families of the 4-H members have donated many door prizes to be given away at the end of the program.

Proceeds from the ticket sales will be used to defray costs of hosting a 4-H delegation from Morgan County, Colorado in June. Activities planned include farm tours, a visit to Latrobe Steel and Smith Glass, a trip to Pittsburgh, tour of Fort Ligonier and Laurel Caverns, an evening at Seven Springs, and an overnight trip to Washington, D.C.

Free time is also available for members and their families to show their guest what is special in their little corner of the country. A welcoming party and a farewell picnic are also being planned.

Conservation In The Vegetable Garden

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Numerous states are experiencing problems in water efficiency. Pennsylvania residents can help deter this situation from occurring in the state by using some easy water conservation ideas.

When watering your vegetable garden, consider switching to a drip or trickle irrigation system which applies water to the soil slowly so that waste is reduced.

The traditional furrow irrigation allows water to be wasted in runoff as well as below the root zone. Using sprinklers allows loss of water outside the planting area, runoff occurrence and evaporation loss.

Many types of drip irrigation devices are available depending upon your needs. These vary from simple perforated tubes to a system of individual emitters. A professional nurseryman can explain the systems available and help you decide what will work best for you.

The Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association is a non-profit professional trade Association dedicated to serving the needs of the Pennsylvania nursery-landscape-garden center-grower industries.

For additional information contact the Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association, Inc., 1924 North Second Street, Harrisburg, PA 17102, (717) 238-1673.

Berks Society 3

Several members of Group 3 will attend the 25th anniversary of Group 6 at Friedens Lutheran Church, Oley, on April 17.

Berks County will be host for this year's annual Spring Rally to be held on May 23 at the Sheraton-Berkshire Hotel, Reading.

A donation was made to the Brett T. Shorley Fund to assist in finances due to a recent barn fire in which several horses perished.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dora Pollock, Boyertown R.D. 3. The topic for the evening program will be "Wrapped up in Berks".

Berks Society 5

The March meeting of the Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 5 was held March 12. Nineteen members responded to roll call by naming their favorite spring flower.

Wissler Farm Featured In Tour

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

CLAY (Lancaster Co.) — Visitors from around the world find beauty in the 1814 limestone house of Glenn and Mildred Wissler. Off well-traveled roads near Clay, the Clearview Farm Bed and Breakfast overlooks a spacious pond with swans that glide smoothly across the waters. Proud peacocks strut across the manicured lawn, and 200 acres of prime farmland blanket the countryside.

The Wissler home is one of eight homes that will be open to the public during Ephrata's fourth annual Kitchen Kaper Tulip Tour held on Monday, April 22.

Although the Clearview Farm Bed and Breakfast has been featured in the national magazine, Country Decorating Ideas, the home wasn't always an eye catcher.

When the Wisslers purchased the property 33 years ago, Glenn said, "We bought it for the land, not for the house."

His wife agreed. "Because the house was rented out, I didn't even get to see the inside until several months after we had bought it."

When Mildred did get to see the house's interior, she was appalled by the dilapidated condition of the house. Even the pegged wooden floor boards, the chair rails, and the 24-inch thick stone walls did not impress her.

She said, "At that time, I wanted a modern house."

So the Wisslers ripped out the chair railing and wooden fireplace mantel and put in the large picture windows that were so popular in the '50s.

"I wanted to get rid of the original corner cupboard, but my husband stood his ground and insisted it stay," said a now grateful Mildred.

During the remodeling stage, the Wisslers were delighted to uncover this corner fireplace, original plank floors, and pegged wooden ceiling boards.

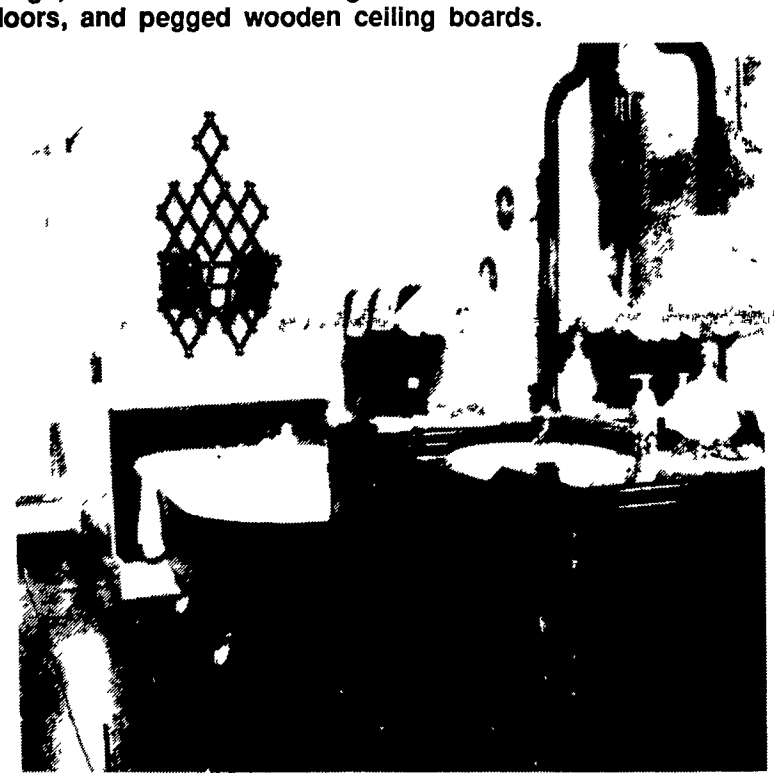
A special feature of the cherry eat-in kitchen is the corner stove with a backsplash of punched copper in a country motif. Alverta Martin, sister of owner Mildred Wissler and cook at the Nav Jiwan Tea Room in Ephrata, will prepare two soups to serve guests during the kitchen tour.

But it was many years before Mildred began to appreciate the classic beauty of the 1800s. Little by little, the Wisslers discarded the modern decor and worked hard to restore the home to its original beauty.

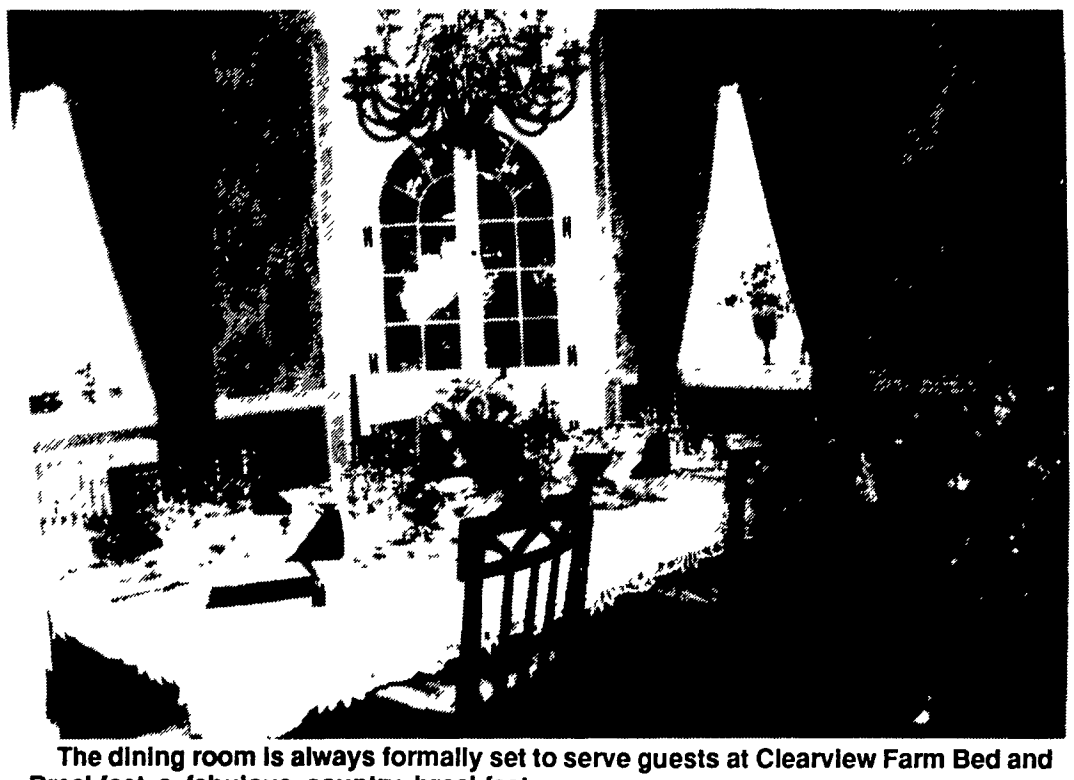
It was a big job, but one well worth the work, they now agree. Glenn credits his master craftmanship to the carpentry skills he acquired growing up on the farm. Mildred, who has always enjoyed crafts and decorating, made the draperies, canopies, and other creative touches throughout the home. The couple travelled to many states in search of antiques to furnish the house.

Mildred said, "My parents had an antique shop; unfortunately, I didn't start collecting antiques until after they got rid of the shop."

When the couple first worked to restore the house, they did not intend to turn it into a bed and breakfast. Glenn keeps busy with raising beef cattle and growing corn and soybean, but with the children grown, Mildred was ready for a project. When she suggested a bed and breakfast, Glenn quickly became enthusiastic.



The Wisslers traveled from state to state to choose antiques to complement the 1800s decor. Each guest bedroom has its own bathroom, most with the washbowls installed in antique cupboards. This one has a claw foot bath tub that sets on original pegged wood floor boards.



The dining room is always formally set to serve guests at Clearview Farm Bed and Breakfast a fabulous country breakfast.

At first, they opened two bedrooms to guests, but soon decided to expand by making three guest bedrooms in the attic with stone walls, leaning chimneys, and wide floor boards.

Glenn, who has a knack for color and decorating, decided to furnish one of the rooms himself. It is not surprising that out of five guests rooms, Glenn prefers the room he designed called the Royal Room. He chose the ornately carved Victorian furniture, wallpaper, the red and gold tapestry draperies, and the oriental rug.

When the Wisslers shop for additional touches for the bedrooms, clerks become confused as the husband and wife discuss what would look best in "your room, my room, and our room."

The Wisslers do very little advertising, as most of their guests return or recommend the place to friends.

"We have mostly professional people as guests," Glenn said. "Every morning my wife serves a full country breakfast."

The breakfast includes fresh fruit, muffins, homemade raisin bread, and entrees such as egg souffle with ham and cheese or egg and sausage casserole or waffles with hot apple topping or strawberries.

The Wisslers' home is the only working farm on the tour sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ephrata. Although the tour will focus on the kitchens at each of the homes where a chef from a local restaurant prepares a specialty for guests to sample, the Wisslers' whole house will be open for guests to tour.

Nail Products: A Beauty Hazard

Incidences of a 16-month old dying and a 2-year old becoming seriously ill after swallowing sculptured nail removers containing acetonitrile, have been reported in the FDA Consumer.

Children are not the only victims of improperly used nail care products. A physician reporting in the Journal of American Medical Association states that over a three-year period he treated eight patients who accidentally put glue used to fasten false nails into their eyes. This error resulted in scratched eyes, loss of lashes, eyelid skin abrasions or inflammation of the eye.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Michele Mohler of Lovettsville requested a recipe for cake doughnuts that taste like Hostess's powdered doughnuts. Thanks to Florence Mucha of Mehoopany for sending the following recipe.

Doughnuts

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon shortening
1 cup milk
3 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Beat eggs with sugar, salt, and shortening. Add sifted flour, baking powder, baking soda, and nutmeg. Roll dough. Cut with doughnut cutter. Deep fry until lightly browned. Contributor writes that these doughnuts will not soak up grease when fried.

ANSWER — A reader from Mifflinburg requested a recipe for Mary Ann cookies and Edie Nolt, Ephrata, requested a shortcake recipe for the Mary Ann pans. I assume these requests may be similar. Here is a recipe from Nellie Shank, McAbisterville.

MARY ANN COOKIES

2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoons soda
1 cup water
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 tablespooon vanilla

Beat together all ingredients and put ¼ cup batter in each pan that has been sprayed with Pam. (Wilton Cake Company sells the pans).

Filling:
Cook until thick:
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Cool. Beat until fluffy:
1½ cups granulated sugar
1½ cups shortening
1 tablespoon vanilla

Gradually beat into cold milk mixture. Beat until mixture is not grainy. Fill cake cavities and sprinkle with chocolate toppettes.

ANSWER — Pat Whitacre, Ottsville, requested a recipe for thin, crisp molasses cookies like Pepperidge Farm Molasses Crisps. Thanks to Florence Mucha of Mehoopany for sending a recipe that comes from her grandmother from Germany. The recipe makes 5 to 6 dozen.

Molasses Cookies

1 teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup shortening
1 cup molasses
2 eggs, beaten
2 heaping teaspoons baking soda
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon ginger
6 cups flour

Cream salt, brown sugar, and shortening until light and fluffy in mixing bowl. Blend in molasses and eggs. Dissolve baking soda in ½ cup hot water and add to molasses mixture. Add remaining ingredients one at a time and beat well between each addition. Chill several hours or overnight. Roll out dough until thin. Cut with cookie cutters or round glass. Place on cookie sheets. Bake in 350 degree oven for 10 minutes or until lightly browned. May be iced with confectioners frosting if desired.

4-H HAPPENINGS

County 4-H Swine Club

The reorganizational meeting of the Lancaster County 4-H Swine Club will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 11, at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

The countywide club is a consolidation of all former community 4-H swine projects into a program that has improved educational efforts, member recognition, and community support.

The evening's program will include official signup, distribution of project books, explanation of project goals, election of officers, and introduction of leaders.

The club will hold five meetings each year, a roundup and sale in August, and a recognition banquet in October. Members of the club will have the opportunity to participate in livestock and meats judging programs, pork bowl, and public speaking competition, in addition to the Pennsylvania Farm Show junior swine events.

Lancaster County youth between the ages of 8 and 19 years are invited to attend the organizational meeting. For additional information, contact Chet Hughes, Penn State Cooperative Extension livestock agent, (717) 394-6851.

Perry was STUD sampled by ABS with the majority of his daughters in the Northeast. ABS is using him as a contract sire. Those who are breeding for index, need to consider this bull. All non-STUD proven bulls above him for protein pounds are minus on udder composite. Perry is +.97 for udders composite and +.00 for feet & legs composite. Rarely do you find a big production bull with good udders and sound feet & legs.

My personal observation of many daughters are that they are short with sound structural confirmation. He is coded as frail but the daughters have plenty of bone and hold their flesh well during peak production. Therefore it is my opinion that they are coded frail because of stature rather than lack of bone or strength.

Crop Rotations Boost Corn, Soybean Yields

Robert E. Leiby and David L. Dunbar
Lehigh County Cooperative Extension Office

Crop rotation is a practice that has been used for centuries in grain production around the world. In the northeast United States, crop rotations are used extensively. Generally, we know that better crop yields are achieved when we rotate, even in the absence of serious weed, insect, disease or fertility problems. Even so, the effects of crop rotation are still not completely understood. Greg Roth, Penn State agronomist, relays recent research from the University of Minnesota which sheds some new light on the effects of crop rotations and how they might be exploited even more.

In this series of studies, several corn and soybean rotation schemes were compared to continuous corn, continuous soybeans, and continuous corn and soybeans with alternating varieties each year. The objective of these experiments was to compare yield levels among the various cropping sequences.

The researchers found no advantage to alternating crop varieties each year under continuous corn or soybeans. With continuous cropping, second year corn and soybean yields were lower than first year corn and soybean yields. The pattern of yield decline after the first year differed, though, between the two crops. For corn, yields declined from 172 bushels per acre to 145 bushels per acre in the second year. Yields then increased slightly the following year to 151 bushels per acre and remained essentially the same in subsequent years. Soybean yields declined from 48 bushels per acre to 45 bushels per acre in the second year, and dropped again to 43 bushels per acre in the third year. Bean yields in subsequent years then remained at this level. Consequently, it appears that corn yields drop sharply at first in a continuous system and then recover somewhat, while soybean yields decline slowly, reach a bottom, and then stay there. It appears that soybeans would follow themselves better than corn in a rotation.

Yields of alternated corn and soybeans averaged 164 to 44 bushels per acre and were not as high as first year corn (172 bushels per acre) or soybeans (48 bushels per acre). Compared to monoculture, alternating crops improved yields by 10 percent for corn and 8 percent for soybeans. First year yields compared to monoculture were 15 percent higher for corn and 17 percent higher for soybeans. This indicates that both crops respond nearly the same to rotation and that the full rotation effect is not achieved with alternating crops. These results suggest that a three crop rotation might yield more than the two-crop corn-soybean rotation, commonly used in many areas today.

Researchers have documented similar crop rotation responses for corn in Pennsylvania. These responses may be even greater where specific pest problems associated with continuous corn are prevalent. In Pennsylvania, some of the most serious of these pests include corn rootworms, perennial weeds, shattercane and gray leaf spot. Where these pests are a problem, rotation should help to maintain or increase yields while reducing pest control and fertilizer expenses.

The Secondary Nutrients

While calcium, magnesium and sulphur are called secondary nutrients, they are essential for the growth and good health of all plants and animals.

Calcium (3.2 percent) is the fifth most abundant element in the earth's crust, while magnesium (2.5 percent) and sulphur (0.1 percent) are ranked eighth and thirteenth, respectively.

These plant nutrients occur naturally in soils, but are usually present in mineral or organic forms unavailable to plants. The growth of food and fiber crops is frequently limited by availability of these nutrients. The soil must be fertilized to provide amounts adequate for optimum plant nutrition.

Many factors can affect the availability of calcium, magnesium and sulphur to plants. The best estimates of availability of these nutrients can be determined by soil analysis or a combination of soil and plant analyses. However, field observations and deficiency symptoms are also important diagnostic tools.

Soil texture indicates the relative amounts of sand, silt, and clay present. Sandy soils are most often deficient in the secondary nutrients. Higher amounts of clay and organic matter enable soil to retain these nutrients against weathering (leaching) and to provide more nutrients as soil minerals decompose and organic matter is mineralized by soil microbes. Organic matter is particularly important as a source of sulphur for plants.

Low soil temperatures tend to limit the ability of plants to take up the secondary nutrients. Release of sulphur from organic matter is slowed by low temperature. This is one reason why supplemental sulphur may be beneficial to crops planted in cold, wet conditions.

Highly weathered, acid soils usually contain relatively low amounts of available calcium and magnesium because they have been leached. Soil acidity affects the availability of many nutrients.

Uptake of the secondary nutrients can be affected by the presence of large amounts of other nutrients in the soil. Magnesium absorption is particularly depressed by the presence of large amounts of available potassium. Uptake of calcium can also interfere with magnesium utilization. When magnesium uptake is depressed in grasses, cattle grazing that forage may suffer from "grass tetany," caused by low levels of blood serum magnesium. Recent data indicate high availability of phosphorus can boost magnesium uptake. Sulphur uptake can be depressed by the presence of large amounts of available nitrogen.

Crop plants get their requirements for calcium, magnesium and sulphur from one or more sources, including: soil clay, soil organic matter, soil minerals, commercial fertilizers, agricultural limestone, irrigation water, rainfall and snow, and kiln dust.

Sulphur in soils is present in a number of organic and inorganic forms. Soil bacteria and fungi play an important role in making sulphur available to plants.

Energy For Farming

The USDA's Economic Research Service offers the following observations and predictions about agricultural energy consumption:

If the world price of crude oil averages $30 per barrel this year, farm energy expenses for diesel fuel, gasoline, liquified natural gas, and electricity will probably rise 10-15 percent from 1990. An average price of $40 per barrel would raise farm energy expenses around one-fourth. In addition, the increase in the motor fuels tax will increase farm energy expenditures 1.5 percent.

With only a modest change in planted acreage forecast for 1991, energy use likely will remain about even with last year. Although rapid petroleum price increases tend to encourage energy conservation in the long run, short-run adjustments in energy consumption are often difficult to make because farmers tend to change their holdings of equipment slowly.

Farmers' consumption of petroleum products has been steadily declining since 1982, regardless of planted acreage. While acres planted influence energy use, other factors are more important. The switch from gasoline to diesel engines, reduced tillage operations, larger multi-function machines, and innovations in crop drying and irrigation have contributed to the decline in fuel consumption.

While no-till farming has not been widely adopted, reduced tillage systems are now as prevalent as conventional tillage systems in many parts of the country.

It is clear that crude oil prices dictate the price farmers pay for diesel fuel. As of November, the U.S. Department of Energy forecast that crude oil and diesel fuel prices would increase 30-40 percent in 1991, but unpredictable geopolitical forces will shape the final 1991 petroleum price structure.

Since agriculture directly consumes only 3-4 percent of all energy used in the U.S., changes in the farm sector's use will have little impact on petroleum prices.

It's the right time to apply lime

Lime application during the winter allows the limestone time to react and gives you the advantage of rich, pH-balanced soil for your spring planting. Winter ground conditions also reduce soil compaction and rutting during spreading.

Proper Management Can Make Lambs Profitable

COLLEGE PARK, Md.— March is is an exciting time for youngsters on Mid-Atlantic farms with sheep flocks. That's when most of the lambs are born.

During the first few hours after birth, lambs need to nurse vigorously in order to gain full benefit from the disease-protecting antibodies in their mother's colostrum — the vitamin-rich "first milk" produced by all female mammals after giving birth.

Newborn lambs should have their navels disinfected with iodine as soon as they have started breathing, advises Scott M. Barao, sheep specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Maryland.

This also is a good time to ear-tag and weigh the lambs for record-keeping purposes.

Newborn lambs are susceptible to death by starvation and hypothermia, Barao said, because they have very little energy reserves in the form of body fat. So they need to be watched carefully for at least a week after birth. Bright eyes, vigorous nursing, and frequent naps are signs of a healthy lamb.

But getting lambs off to a good start is only the first step if you want a successful sheep operation, Barao said.

Flock owners or shepherds need to practice sound management and good planning to insure a profit, especially during the current era of depressed market prices.

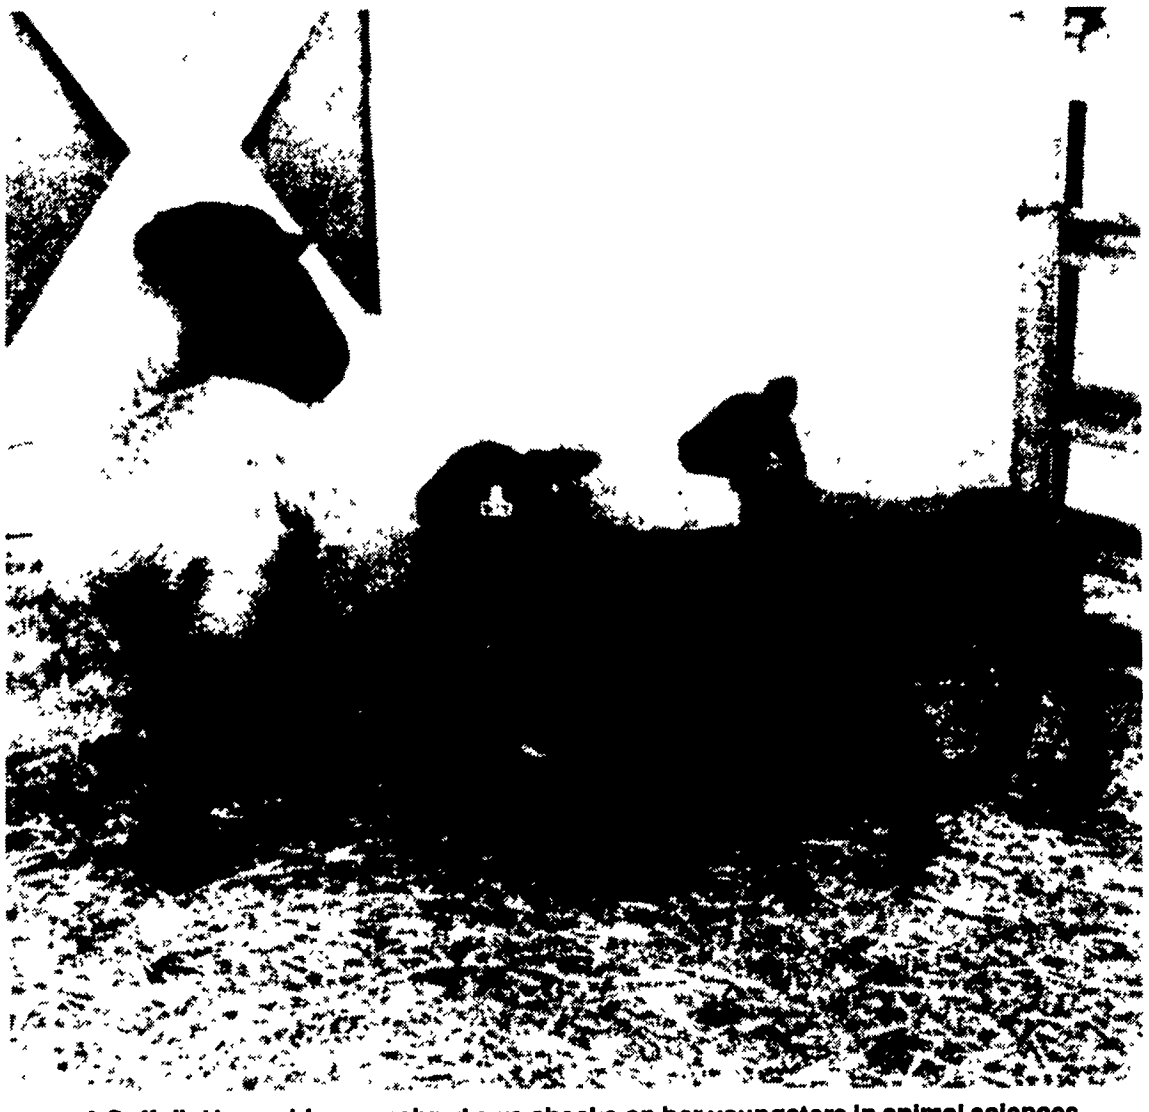
Here are some guidelines:

• Aim for a 200 percent lamb crop — two lambs per ewe instead of the usual one. This can be achieved by cross breeding, high-energy feeding of pregnant ewes, and a high lamb survival rate.

• Use resources effectively. Raise lambs to market weight on good quality forage instead of high-priced grain rations. Rotate pastures with temporary fences. March is a good time to interseed legume mixtures into permanent grass pastures. Barao recommends a 5-to-1 ratio of red clover to ladino clover.

• Explore marketing opportunities. Aim for supplying fresh lamb to specialized markets on a year-round basis. Think about specialty diets to capture quality premiums. Avoid feed additives if you want to capture consumers who prefer "naturally grown" lamb.

"One thing is clear," Barao said. "If you're in the sheep business to make money, you've got to do a lot of little things properly."



A Suffolk-Hampshire crossbred ewe checks on her youngsters in animal sciences facility at the Univresity of Maryland, College Park. This family exemplified 200 percent lamb crop for which sheep producers should strive if they want a profitable operation, said Scott M. Barao, sheep specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Maryland.

Crop Improvement Meeting Will Focus On Organic Weed Control

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A discussion on the control of weeds in field crops without the use of chemical herbicides will highlight the program at the April meeting of the Pennsylvania chapter of the Organic Crop Improvement Association (OCIA).

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. on April 9 in Room 1-A at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. Chapter President Drew Norman of Baldwin, Md. said the meeting is open to all farmers as well as the general public.

The program will feature presentations by Ralph and David Moore, Somerset County, Pa. vegetable growers, and Melvin Gelsinger, a grain farmer from Robesonia, Pa. The Moore and Gelsinger farms are certified organic by the OCIA.

The OCIA is an international farmer-directed organization made up of growers, food processors, and distributors devoted to non-chemical approaches to agriculture. Farmers certified annually by the OCIA must adhere to strict standards for soil improvement, pest, and weed control.

Norman said that membership in the Pennsylvania chapter of OCIA also is open to vegetable, field crop, and livestock producers in New Jersey and Maryland.

College Honors Ag Professor

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dr. Paul R. Shellenberger, professor of dairy science in Penn State's College of Agriculture, is the recipient of the 1991 Penn State Excellence in Advising Award.

Shellenberger will receive the award, which includes a plaque and cash gift, at the University Awards Convocation at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 7, in Eisenhower Auditorium at University Park.

The award was established by the Undergraduate Student Government's Academic Assembly and is sponsored by each college to encourage advising excellence. It is presented annually to honor full-time faculty members who help students with academic and career guidance, decision-making, and goal-setting.

Another important criteria considered is the enthusiasm of the faculty adviser.

Known for his dedication to teaching and advising students, Shellenberger uses a personal approach in dealing with the 45 students majoring in dairy and animal science and animal bioscience whom he advises each year. He establishes a personal relationship with each student and lets them know he cares and is available and willing to talk with them.

One of his advisees says, "He is genuinely concerned about the welfare of his students. Whether it be a classroom setting or in an advising capacity, Dr. Shellenberger is always willing to answer questions or discuss concerns. As my adviser, he has taken an active interest in my career aspirations and has discussed with me possible alternatives to my career goals."

Another advisee praises Shellenberger's open-door policy, which encourages students to visit him in his office or call him at home to discuss academic, as well as personal concerns. He never turns away a student seeking his advice.

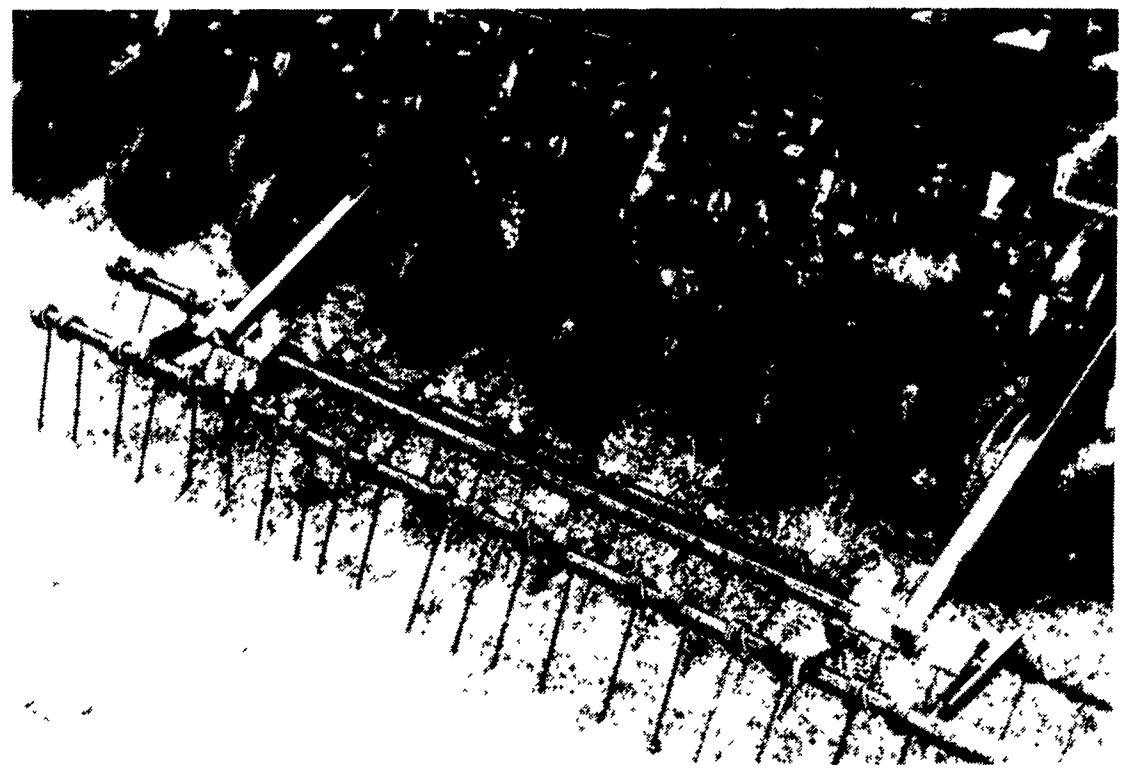
An adviser to students in dairy production fields since 1967, when he joined the Penn State faculty, he also servess as an adviser for Penn State's Summer Counseling Program for Entering Freshmen. He helps all students pursuing studies in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science register for their first semester.

In addition, he teaches the college's core Animal Science 001 course each semester. The four-credit course is required for three animal-oriented majors and is open to non-agriculture students as well. It provides students with a foundation in the biological concepts of animals that produce food and fiber.

Shellenberger earned bachelor and master of science degrees in dairy science production from Penn State in 1957 and 1959, respectively, and a Ph.D. in animal nutrition from Iowa State University in 1964.

He is the recipient of a number of advising and teaching awards, including the Outstanding Advisor Award of the Morrill Chapter of Alpha Zeta, the Ralston Purina Teaching Award of the American Dairy Science Association, the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching, and the AMOCO Foundation Award for Excellence in Teaching Performance.

Ausherman Releases No-Till Harrows



ASSARIA, KS — Ausherman GP, a division of Great Plains Manufacturing, announces a new line of coil tine no-till harrows for grain drills.

The harrows are available for: John Deere 515, 520, and 750; Case IH 5400 15 and 20 ft; and Tye Series 5, 15 and 20 ft. grain drills. The harrow's heavy duty design and 11-inch coil tines finish no-till surfaces by leveling soil and residue to enhance seed germination.

Trials Reports Released

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Growers who need advice before making forage planting decisions can turn to the "1990 Forage Trials Report" newly released by Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The report is intended to replace the "Alfalfa Variety Trials Report" of previous years.

The report contains 12 pages of useful information on dozens of varieties of alfalfa and red clover.

"It provides yield data and disease ratings for varieties currently sold in Pennsylvania," said Scott Harkcom, senior research aide in agronomy and co-author of the report. The report ranks each variety based on trials conducted by Penn State from 1986 through 1990.

Harkcom said the publication is bigger and better than in previous years.

"In the past, the report only covered alfalfa. This year, it also includes red clover," said Harkcom.

He said it also is easier to read and presents information in a more useful format. "We redesigned some of the tables to make them more understandable for the farmer," said Harkcom. "Growers will be able to tailor the information to their particular circumstances so they can make better decisions about what varieties to plant."

Pullet Performance Produces Detailed Reports

ANNVILLE (Lebanon Co.) — Pullet Performance is a software package designed by poultrymen to help poultrymen manage their flocks more efficiently.

By using this pullet management system, producers will be able to produce detailed reports illustrating the financial investment in your flock as well as the growth of your pullets compared to the potentials found in your strain's management guide.

Pullet Performance has been designed to be as versatile as possible. The intention is that Pullet Performance would have the flexibility to conform to your operation rather than forcing your operation to conform to Pullet Performance.

• Potentials — In order to be able to compare the performance of a flock with industry standards, Pullet Performance comes with and uses performance and nutritional objectives found in pullet management guides for 12 popular strains. Potentials for additional strains can be added to the system if the need arises. These objectives are used to calculate the potential data for a strain which are then printed beside the actual performance of a flock on the Pullet Performance report.

• Pullet Performance Reports — Manager's Report: Compares flock performance parameters, feed consumption information, and nutrient intake values with strain potentials weekly and flock-to-date.

Owner's Report: Includes performance information from the Manager's Report as well as financial information for variable and fixed costs.

• Pullet Flock summaries — With the use of summaries, management information for each flock (up to 50 flocks) can be summarized on one report (one flock per line) in an easy to read format with a farm summary as the last line. Comparisons can be made by printing a summary using one set of restrictions and then printing a second summary using a different set of restrictions.

• Standard Deviation Report — Calculates standard deviations for samplings of body weight and shank length data and prints a bar graph of measurement distributions.

• Other Features: Prints depreciation schedules on buildings and equipment; tracks up to 18 feed formulas/deliveries per period; recalls period flock information screens for easy editing; and performs simple calculations using a built-in calculator.

Humorist Will Speak At Poultry Banquet

GEORGETOWN, Del.— "Big things" are planned for the April 16, 1991 Delmarva Poultry Booster Banquet according to Alden H. Balfany, president of Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. (DPI). The annual event, which marks the end of the DPI Fund Drive, will be attended by close to 2,400 DPI supporters at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, MD.

A professional speaker for 26 years, Mrs. Robertson has been entertaining audiences in America, Canada, and Mexico.

In addition to Jeanne Robertson, the banquet will include recognition for Delmarva's outstanding growers, the presentation of the DPI Medal of Achievement and Delmarva's Distinguished Citizen Award, and the announcement of the fund drive total.

The fund drive is DPI's method of raising money for its many programs which benefit Delmarva's poultry industry. With a goal of $450,000, volunteer solicitors are contacting past and prospective investors to become DPI members. For each $125 investment, one ticket to the booster banquet is provided.

Author and humorist Jeanne Robertson will be the entertainer at the April 16, 1991 Delmarva Poultry Booster Banquet in Salisbury, MD.

Pioneer Purchases Protein Modification Technology

DES MOINES, Iowa — Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. recently announced the purchase of the protein modification research program of Plant Cell Research Institute, Inc. (PCRI) of Dublin, Calif.

The acquisition of genes and technology adds to current efforts by Pioneer to develop grains with enhanced nutritional quality for use as animal feed.

"Poultry and livestock feeders are the biggest purchasers of corn and soybeans," said Carrol Bolen, Pioneer vice president and director of the company's Specialty Plant Products division. "The ability to modify the protein in crops to offer the best balance of amino acids will be of tremendous importance to the feeders as well as the farmers who grow the grain for this premium market."

In July 1990, Pioneer and PCRI signed a research agreement to collaborate in the development of crops with modified protein profiles. With the purchase of the research program, Pioneer will have an integrated effort for the development of soybean, sunflower, oilseed rape (including canola) and corn with improved feed value.

"The PCRI work in the development of a high methionine content in seed is state-of-the-art," said Dr. John Howard, Pioneer director of biotechnology research. Methionine is a limiting amino acid in the diets of poultry and swine and is typically provided through synthetic amino acid supplement.

PCRI researchers have succeeded in identifying and isolating a gene responsible for high methionine levels in the Brazil nut. Through genetic transformation, they have introduced the gene into oilseed rape and have been conducting similar work in soybeans.

"Our strategy is to provide added value in our seed products that is demanded by the end-users and growers of Pioneer products," said Bolen.

Control Midge, Maximize Sorghum Profits

DEKALB, Ill. — Each year sorghum producers face crop and profit losses because of midge infestations. These insects deposit eggs in the floret during bloom stage and two to three days later, the larvae begin feeding on the developing seed resulting in blasted or blighted heads with practically no grain.

While growers cannot eliminate the insects, they can control crop losses by using several sound agronomic practices, said Craig Strosnider, regional agronomist for DEKALB Plant Genetics.

"Late planted fields usually have the heaviest midge pressure so the sooner the crop can be planted the better," he said. "Early planting of high quality seed 1 to 2 inches deep into a moist, well-prepared seedbed will promote uniform emergence resulting in a crop that heads out ahead of the heaviest midge populations."

Hybrids such as DK37 and DK56 which have excellent cold tolerance and rapid seedling establishment are very desirable, Strosnider said. He points out that sorghum requires at least 60 degrees soil temperature for rapid stand establishment.

Strosnider also recommends planting high-yielding, medium-early maturing hybrids, such as DK37 which bloom 7 to 10 days ahead of the medium to medium-full season hybrids, because they often escape the heaviest midge pressure without sacrificing yield potential.

Sorghum growers also can plant midge-tolerant hybrids like DK60, which is adapted to the Delta and the Southeastern US.

"DK60 can tolerate five to eight midge per head before reaching the economic threshold — the point where yield loss equals the cost of insecticide application," Strosnider said. "These genetically resistant hybrids offer an excellent management tool for the future as broader adapted hybrids become available."

The DEKALB agronomist also recommends professional scouting during the entire blooming process. He said this is essential for effective chemical control. Midge control is targeted at killing the adult female before she deposits her eggs.

"Scouting should begin when the earliest heads begin to bloom," Strosnider said. "Control is usually justified when 90 percent of the heads are in bloom and one or more midge per head are found."

He noted that often a second treatment to protect late blooming heads is necessary three to four days later if active adults are found.

"This $10-12 investment in insecticide can be the most important input you make all year," Strosnider said.

Plan For Spring-Seeded Alfalfa

DEKALB, Ill. — Planning is a key ingredient in establishing a spring seeded alfalfa stand, said Rick Mason, regional agronomist for DEKALB Plant Genetics.

"Alfalfa growers want to get maximum production for the next three to five years from this spring's seeding," he said. "That's why planning ahead is so important."

The first step is soil sampling. A soil test will indicate the nutrient requirements for maximum alfalfa production and also whether the soil pH is in the desired 6.5-7.5 range, Mason explains. Optimum soil test levels for alfalfa production on most soils include the following:

- Available phosphorous: 40-60 pounds per acre.
- Exchangeable potassium: 300-400 pounds per acre.
- Sulfur: 30-40 pounds per acre.
- Magnesium: 100 pounds per acre.
- Boron: 3 pounds per acre.

The second step is to select varieties with proven yield and performance characteristics such as relative feed value, leaf-to-stem ratio, and protein. Pest resistance and winterhardiness are other characteristics. These ratings are available from seed dealers and state university trials.

A third step is to buy alfalfa seed inoculated with effective strains of viable nitrogen-fixing bacteria, said Mason. Rhizobia bacteria are host specific organisms that provide most of the nitrogen needed for plant growth.

A fourth step is selecting fields with good internal drainage. Seedling alfalfa does not tolerate saturated soil conditions, the DEKALB agronomist says.

"Wet soils eliminate oxygen in the soil pore spaces which in turn hampers bacterial nodulation, root development and nutrient uptake," said Mason.

A fifth step is making a firm seed bed, essential for successful establishment of alfalfa.

"A firm seedbed allows an imprint of your heel and shoe sole but not the arch," Mason said.

He also recommends the following seeding rates for alfalfa:

- 12-15 pounds per acre with a companion crop or 15-18 pounds per acre when direct (clear) seeding.
- On heavy soils with good moisture holding capacity, alfalfa should be planted no more than one-quarter to one-half inch deep.
- On very sandy soils that dry quickly near the surface, increase planting depth to 1-1 1/2 inches deep.
- 20-30 plants per square foot are considered an optimum seeding year stand.

Forage Report Compares Red Clover Varieties

Robert E. Leiby
David L. Dunbar
Extension Office

Copies of the 1990 Forage Trials Report are now available at county extension offices.

The report summarizes performance data from ongoing alfalfa and red clover trials at Landisville and Hershey. All varieties listed in the report have been certified or approved for certification and are marketed in Pennsylvania. Evaluation criteria include yield, fall dormancy (winter hardiness), disease and insect resistance, and stand persistence.

Consider the following points when selecting varieties on the basis of this report:

• Determine which of the trial sites most resembles your farm in terms of soil and growing season. Performance data of varieties at this site are likely to provide more valuable selection criteria.

• Look at the performances of the varieties at all trial sites. Varieties that do equally well at all sites are probably adapted to a wider range of environmental conditions.

• Performance by years can be an important criterion for selection. Some varieties seem to decline with age more rapidly than others.

• For long-term rotations, the most recent harvest-year data should receive major consideration. If you plan to harvest the alfalfa for three years or less, then high performance during early years should be given major consideration.

• Disease and pest resistance ratings in relation to yield should be examined, especially if your area is known to have problems with alfalfa diseases and pests. For example, Phytophthora root rot resistance may be exceptionally important on farms with moderately well-drained soils.

• Selection of a variety on the basis of yield performance alone is generally less satisfactory than selections that also consider stand score and pest resistance.

• Conditions on most farms are such that several varieties may perform nearly equally. There is usually no need to rely on a single variety.

• No variety, regardless of its excellence, can thrive under poor management. Good management considers all aspects of alfalfa production: seedbed preparation, liming and fertilization, seeding, pest control, harvest, storage, and post-harvest treatment. Many modem varieties are better adapted to intensive management.

New Applications For An Old Crop

The following information was provided by the USDA's Economic Research Service:

In addition to their widespread use in food and feed, soybeans are an excellent source of several industrial products, of which printer's ink has attracted the most attention.

Soy-oil ink is used for printing in color as well as in black and white, and its advantages over traditional inks include less ruboff, sharper, brighter colors, and easier press cleanup. It also allows more copies to be printed per volume of ink-colored pigments blend more easily with soy-oil than with petroleum-based oil, so the ink can be applied in a thinner layer. The American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) has indicated that at least one-third (more than 1,000) of all U.S. newspapers are using soy-oil ink and most will probably switch to using it within two years because of its superior color quality.

The price of soy-oil ink currently exceeds that of petroleum ink by about 50-60 percent, largely because more steps are required to manufacture it. Nevertheless, more than 35 commercial ink companies are now making soy-oil ink under licences granted by the ANPA, and research to eliminate some of the production steps is under way.

If all domestic newspapers used only soy-based ink for black and white and color, they would stimulate an annual demand for the oil of about 350 million pounds. Assuming yields of 11 pounds of oil per bushel, some 31.8 million bushels of soybeans per year would be needed to support the newspaper industry.

Soy-based ink could replace U.S. ink imports (which totaled roughly 980 million pounds in 1987). The impetus soy-based ink could give to soybean production, when all commercial applications are considered, is almost 63.4 million bushels.

Soy-oil can also be used to suppress dust in grain elevators. When applied to the grain in small amounts (0.02 percent by weigh), it has reduced the dust by up to 99 percent. Indeed, tests on corn, wheat and soybeans treated with soy-oil have shown that it has no effect on odor, grade, drying characteristics, mold growth, or milling and baking qualities.

The tests also indicated that treating grain with soy-oil may improve insect control. FDA has approved the treatment for use, and the USDA's Federal Grain Inspection Service is considering the matter.

Oilseed Outlook Uncertain

The outlook for oilseeds in 1990-1991 is for demand to grow slightly faster than supply. And, the increases in production will mostly be in rapeseed and cottonseed while soybean production ebbs.

Although U.S. soybean acreage declined during most of the 1980s, acreage in South America increased. But South America, particularly Brazil, may now be approaching stable production. Brazil's policy of promoting soybean production has proven too expensive to continue.

Meanwhile, U.S. policy changes probably will boost oilseed production in 1991-1992, although the effect on soybeans is likely to be slight, at least this year.

In the European Community, slower demand growth and gains in domestically produced oilseeds will reduce the need for greater imports. Demand growth is likely to be more rapid in China, the Soviet Union, and some Southeast Asian nations in the 1990s. But production in these regions is expected to climb as well. At the same time, some countries and regions, particularly Eastern Europe, probably will experience little or no demand growth in 1990-1991 and beyond.

And while there is the potential for demand growth in the Soviet Union, actual imports are uncertain in light of that nation's financial circumstances. Another major concern is the impact of the December suspension of the Uruguay Round of the GATT negotiations.

Throughout the 1980s, U.S. oilseed acreage declined from 1979s peak of more than 70 million acres to under 58 million in 1990. The impact was mostly felt in the Southeast and Delta states where lower prices, production difficulties, and substantially lower yields discouraged production. (In Pennsylvania, however, soybean acreage increased from 103,000 in 1980 to 305,000 in 1989.)

The decline in the relative importance of the southern regions suggests that average or slightly better than average yields in the six Corn Belt states will largely determine U.S. production regardless of events elsewhere. This is essentially what happened in 1990.

Paper Recycling Facts

Of the approximately 600 U.S. mills producing pulp, paper, paper board or building products, 200 depend almost entirely on waste paper for their raw material. Another 300 use 10-50 percent waste paper in their manufacturing process.

Insect Problems Can Be Managed Effectively

DEKALB, Ill. — Each season insects cause major damage to corn fields. But farmers have several ways to prepare their crops for these yield-robbing culprits, said DEKALB Plant Genetics regional agronomist Larry Martin.

"A farmer needs to review his tillage practices, crop rotations and the weather that occurred the previous year and maybe during the present crop season," he said.

Martin also suggests examining last year's scouting records which may reveal insect populations. Those numbers may give growers a guideline about what to expect during the current year.

"If the number of insects was high last season, it could be high again this year," the DEKALB agronomist said.

Martin says farmers have several management techniques they can implement to reduce insect damage.

"Scouting could be done on a daily or weekly basis to monitor insect populations," he said. "This will tell a grower whether the problem will be detrimental to the profit line of the operation." Crop and tillage rotation also may help reduce insect infestations.

Martin advises growers to become familiar with situations favoring insect damage. Seedcorn maggots and seedcorn beetles attack when germination is delayed by cool, wet soil after planting. The agronomist suggests growers use diazinon and Lindane planter-box treatments to protect the seed before germination. This treatment also protects against light wireworm populations, he says.

In continuous corn, rootworm infestations can be moderate to severe. Martin recommends applying a soil insecticide at planting unless scouting last summer revealed average rootworm beetle populations below .75 per plant. This threshold drops to .5 per plant in first-year corn.

When corn follows soybeans, the potential for rootworm problems is low.

"Exceptions are if the previous soybean crop was very weedy or had 5,000 or more volunteer corn plants per acre, or if northern corn rootworms survive two seasons in your area," Martin said, "In the letter case, an insecticide application may be necessary."

Corn planted after pasture or grass sod may suffer stand loss to wireworms, grubs, sod webworm, corn billbug and cutworms. Early spring baiting may help determine the degree of wireworm threat. Scouting will determine cutworm problems.

"Plan to use a rescue treatment if 3 percent of the plants have been cut off and remaining cutworms are less than 3/4 inches long," Martin said.

Weather conditions during egg-laying will determine the severity of European corn borer damage. Corn leaf aphids, chinch bugs, and spider mites are most active when it is hot and dry, but there is no way to predict severity in advance, Martin said.

Early Planting Results In High Yields

DEKALB, Ill. — Planting early not only increases yield potential but also helps growers improve cropping efficiency.

"It has been well documented that delayed planting of corn results in significant yield reduction," said Larry Martin, regional agronomist for DEKALB Plant Genetics.

Early planting encourages root development, which helps seedlings take advantage of high nutrient concentrations in the soil, he said. In addition, it maximizes efficient use of spring soil moisture which leads to earlier development of a plant canopy to shade the soil and reduce evaporation.

Pollination may also improve because critical silking and tasselling stages may be reached before subsoil moisture is exhausted, the DEKALB agronomist says. Early pollination can increase grain formation, improve yields and produce higher test weights at harvest.

"We may want to choose hybrids that are better able to take higher populations," he said. "Some hybrids have less of a flex-type ear and need higher population for ultimate yields. Other hybrids have more of a flex-type ear so can stand lower populations."

Martin says farmers who plant early will want to increase that population because of cool soil.

"If the weather warms up enough so that all those plants germinate, then the grower will have a higher population in the fall to harvest," he said. "So it's important the farmer plants a hybrid that performs and yields well in high populations."

Analysis of more than 5,000 DEKALB Field Analysis Comparison Trial (FACT) plots indicates the highest yields are from corn planted between April 30 and May 6 in the northern tier of states. In the southern Corn Belt, the optimum time to plant is around April 27, and in the mid-South April 5.

- Aim for the high end of plant populations.
- Choose hybrids with high germination rates under cold conditions.
- Band starter fertilizer.
- Place seed no more than 1-1/2 inches deep.
- Manage weed control early.
- Avoid planting in soils that are too wet.

Forest Landowner's Workshop Set

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Pennsylvania is known as the source of some of the finest hardwood timber in the world. The value of the timber in your woodlot is probably more than you realize, so it pays to learn all you can about managing this valuable resource.

To help you do just that, a "Forest Landowners' Workshop" will be held on Saturday, April 13, at Pennypack Forest, 2955 Edge Hill Road, Huntingdon Valley, Pa.

This workshop is designed to help private forest landowners who want to do a better job of managing their woodlands — whether they want to sell the timber, improve wildlife habitat, or simply have a nice view.

Foresters from Penn State and private industry will explain a wide range of topics, including "Pennsylvania's Forest Resources," "Basics of Forestry," "Developing a Management Plan," "The Role of Harvesting in Meeting Your Objectives," "Special Topics in Woodlot Management," "Managing Woodlots for Wildlife," "Forest Taxation," and "Woodlot Services."

The workshop will start at 8:30 a.m. and the program will run until 3 p.m. Registration fee will be $15 per person and this includes lunch and an indexed reference notebook containing a wealth of information and references for the private forest landowner.

The notebook alone is worth the registration fee. This workshop is being co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania's Forest Stewardship Program, The Pennsylvania Forestry Association, Penn State College of Agriculture School of Forest Resources, Pennypack Watershed Association, Bucks and Montgomery Counties Cooperative Extension, and Hardwoods Development Council.

Reservations should be made by Friday, April 5. For reservations or more information, contact the Penn State Extension Office, Montgomery County, at (215) 489-4315.

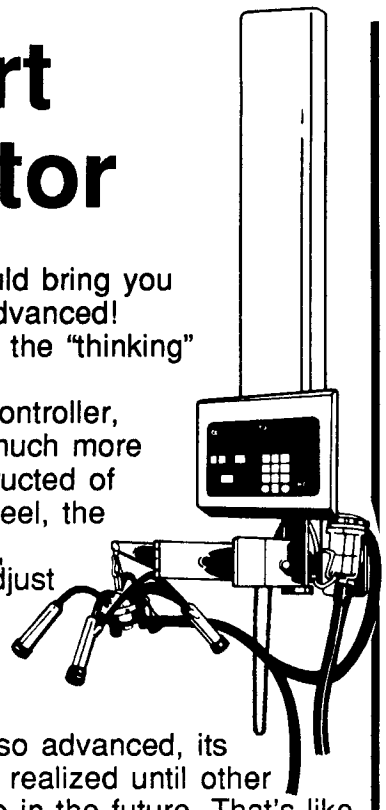
DE LAVAL

Smart Operator



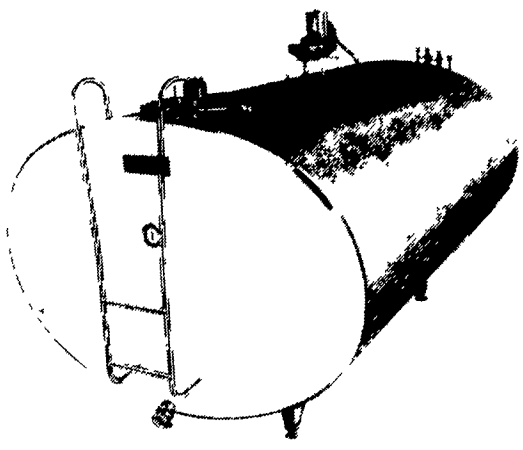
Only De Laval could bring you a take-off unit this advanced! Introducing PLATO™, the "thinking" stall controller.

We call it a stall controller, because PLATO is much more than an ATO. Constructed of gleaming stainless steel, the unit's sophisticated electronics let you adjust the timing of each milking function to milk faster, easier, more efficiently.

In fact, PLATO is so advanced, its full potential can't be realized until other technologies catch up in the future. That's like buying equipment that continues to upgrade itself!

So whether you need the reliability of an arm-type stainless steel take-off or want the most advanced technology for your parlor visit your De Laval dealer and learn all about the smart operator.

SAVE A BUNDLE ON COOLING COSTS!



Century™ Bulk Milk Coolers -

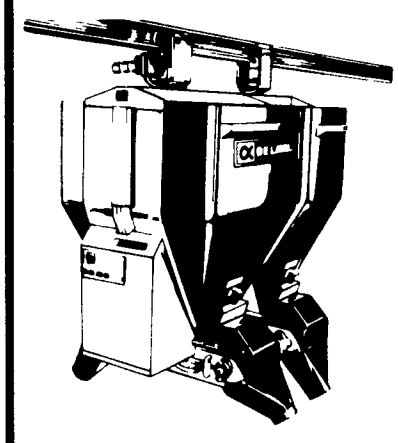
High Performance In An Economy Car



If you operate a stanchion or tie-stall barn, the De Laval Feed Car is the most cost-effective way to improve your herd's efficiency and your farm's performance.

The Feed Car helps you feed cows "less and often." With this method, each cow eats less, yet converts more of what she does eat into milk and butterfat. And because it's a healthier way to feed, you'll see fewer rumen upsets and foot problems.

Best of all, the Feed Car reduces your labor. It works automatically to improve your profitability. And it's so efficient, the system typically pays for itself in 18 months or less!

So if you're interested in increasing your milk and butterfat production while reducing feed and labor costs, ask your De Laval dealer about the Feed Car. He'll be happy to show you our full line of high performance models.

AMINOTEK™. FOR RECORD BREAKING PERFORMANCE.

NEW FROM MASTER MIX®. COMING TO A DEALER NEAR YOU.

AminoTek™ feeds are a blend of high-quality proteins which have complementary amino acid profiles. The AminoTek patented process is then applied to this blend, resulting in significantly increased levels of absorbable bypass protein and amino acids.

Central Soya research shows that cows fed AminoTek had a summit peak which was over 8 pounds higher than the peak of cows fed conventional protein feeds. Besides the obvious economic advantage which comes from increased milk production, other economic advantages may include improved milk composition and breeding performance.

Fifth In A Series

VACCINATION FOR PSEUDORABIES

Dr. Larry Hutchinson
Extension Veterinarian
Penn State

One of the tools available for prevention and control of pseudorabies (PRV) infection is vaccination.

Both killed virus and modified virus vaccines have been available for prevention of PRV in swine. Because these vaccines caused vaccinated pigs to test positive to blood tests for PRV, their use in Pennsylvania was at first prohibited and later permitted only in infected herds.

More recently, a new type of vaccine — gene-deleted PRV vaccine — has become available. In the production of these vaccines, part of the genetic material of the pseudorabies virus is removed, or deleted, in the laboratory. The remaining part of the virus is still able to produce immunity and still produces a positive blood test when vaccinated pigs are tested by traditional test methods.

However, new blood tests have been developed that test specifically for the "deleted-gene" portion of the virus. With this type of test, pigs exposed to the natural virus will test positive, but pigs vaccinated with the gene-deleted virus will test negative.

With the new gene-deleted vaccines and their corresponding blood tests, here is some information to help decide whether your pigs should be vaccinated:

- Vaccination does not prevent infection. Vaccinated pigs that are exposed to field-strain PRV can still become infected.
- Vaccination will prevent most clinical signs of disease. Pigs that have been vaccinated and have developed immunity prior to exposure to PRV will usually remain healthy.
- Vaccination greatly reduces the shedding of virus in pigs that have been exposed to PRV. This reduces the risk of virus spread within a vaccinated herd.
- Each brand of gene-deleted vaccine has removed a specific part of the PRV genetic material. Differential test kits are designed for that specific gene deletion. Therefore, blood testing must be done with the blood test that is designed for the brand of vaccine that you are using.
- Because different vaccine brands have differing gene deletions, switching vaccine brands will make it impossible to determine infection status with a differential test. If you are going to vaccinate, seek advice from your veterinarian on which vaccine to use, and stick with one brand.

Vaccination alone will not eliminate PRV from a herd or prevent introduction of the virus. Good management, which includes tight biosecurity measures, is essential to control this highly contagious disease.

We're fortunate to have the new, gene-deleted vaccines to assist in PRV control, but the very best efforts of all the swine industry will be necessary to eliminate this disease.

LARYNGOTRACHEITIS (LT)

Donald L. Singletary
Dept. of Veterinary Science

Infectious laryngotracheitis, commonly called LT, has been a troublesome, recent health problem for some Pennsylvania poultry farmers.

A small number of birds that recover from an outbreak (or vaccination) remain carriers of the virus. These carrier birds serve as a source of infection to susceptible or unvaccinated birds. Therefore, the poultry farmer must use caution when buying birds at an auction or bringing replacement pullets onto his farm which have been recently vaccinated for LT (or have had a natural outbreak).

In a typical outbreak, laryngotracheitis produces extreme respiratory difficulty (gasping, coughing, and extension of the neck when breathing). Birds often cough up bloody mucus and have blood-stained beaks.

An early sign of LT is a sudsy exudate in the eye; however, infected carrier birds do not show any symptoms. At post-mortem, the trachea is very inflamed with bloody mucus and a false membrane adheres to the tracheal wall.

It is important to remember that LT is a reportable disease. This means that state animal health officials must be notified of an outbreak. It is then required that the poultry building be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before restocking with new birds.

Fortunately, vaccines are available to prevent LT outbreaks. While broilers are not routinely vaccinated for laryngotracheitis, layers, breeders, and birds for exhibition are vaccinated.

Layer pullets are routinely vaccinated at least twice before housing. Most layers are given a booster vaccination after housing if LT has been a problem on that particular farm or if LT has been in the area.

A general recommendation is that the first flock to be placed back in the poultry house following an LT outbreak should be vaccinated. Antibiotics given in the feed or water are helpful in controlling secondary bacterial infections and in keeping the birds eating, but will not stop an outbreak.

While LT seems to appear suddenly out of nowhere, quick action by the poultry farmer can reduce its economic effects. Sanitation and vaccination programs are useful in preventing future outbreaks.

NCGA History Tells Of Founding

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Growing markets for ethanol and biodegradable plastics, and a global perspective on trade opportunities, are highlighted in a new brochure telling the history of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA).

NCGA has more than 25,000 members in 45 states and 23 affiliated state associations. It promotes new and expanded uses of corn and corn-based products.

The historical brochure, sponsored by Bo-Jac Seed Company of Mt. Pulaski, Ill., was introduced at the NCGA annual meeting in February (the Corn Classic).

While NCGA is today one of the leading agricultural commodity groups in the nations, it started with the vision of one man — Walter Goeppinger — in the mid-1950s when he realized the need for an organization representing the interests of corn growers.

The brochure describes Goeppinger's leadership and presents the potential contribution yet to be made by corn and the U.S. corn grower.

BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best - In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster

ASI Measures, Meets Consumer Demand

DENVER, Colo. — Providing today's consumer with a consistent, high quality, lean product is the primary push behind the all-out quest by the nation's sheep industry to incorporate a marketing system which combines quality and yield grading.

Recently, all segments of the industry — producers, feeders, packers, breakers and retailers — met to discuss the benefits of restructunng the current lamb marketing and grading program.

Marketing changes have been proposed in the past, but this is the first time support has come from all industry levels. Lamb Council Chair of the American Sheep Industry Association, Steve Raftopoulos, said, "I am confident that the consensus reached during that meeting will prove to be a turning point in the future of our industry."

On behalf of the industry, ASI President Jim Magagna has petitioned thc USDA to make the proposed changes in the grading system. The new system could be implemented by December of 1991. The new regulations will be written and reviewed by USDA, posted in the Federal Register for public comment, rewritten and then implementcd.

Plan initiators say the new grading program would address the inefficiencies in the current system and providc an accurate descripdon of lamb carcasses. Currently, quality andlor yield grading is being voluntarily applied in the industry. Under the new system thc nvo categories would be linked so if quality grading was implemented, yield grade would also have to be measured and vice versa.

The way the system is set up now, lamb carcasses are sold primarily on one charactenstic — weight. A new system would describe lamb based on significant factors such as leanncss and muscling which would lead to a more uniform, consumer-onented product with value detemined by carcass quality.

While the program has received strong support from all segments of the industry, some questions and concerns are being expressedd. Some of the nation's larger breakers oppose the proposal and say as the marketers of lamb, they do the tnm work and providо consumers with a consistent product. On the other hand, smaller breakers showed support for the project, saying the added consistency would be beneficial.

WHEN HOGS GET SICK
Dr. Richard Barczewski
Agricultural Agent
University of Delaware

Just like people, hogs get sick. The illness can take the form of a mild fever or a high one, a respiratory disease such as pneumonia, a gastric disease such as ulcers, lameness, and any number of other disorders.

In many instances, hogs are treated similarly to people — a little tender loving care and medication is necessary to bring them back to good health.

A successful hog business requires keeping your animals healthy. But when fate deals you a different situation, you must be able to recognize when one of your animals is not acting normally, investigate and, if required, treat the animal.

The decision to treat an animal with an antibiotic or other medication must be based on several criteria. First, the hog producer needs to know what the problem is, either from previous experience or through consultation with the veterinarian. In cases in which the symptoms are unfamiliar, it may be necessary for the producer to call the veterinarian to their farm to examine the animal or animals in question.

Antibiotics and other medicines are valuable tools available to livestock producers; however, care must be exercised to avoid the improper use. The entire livestock industry is working hard to avoid the presence of drug residues in the products they produce.

Take care to adhere to label restrictions of a particular drug. If a drug is not labeled to be used for swine, then don't use it to treat swine. Always use a drug at the rate prescribed on the label.

All drugs have specific withdrawal times listed on the labels to avoid residues. It is imperative that producers record when a drug is used and which animal it was used on, so that treated animals will not be sold prior to the withdrawal period.

All producers have a legal obligation to use these medicines properly. Since the label is the law, failure to abide by drug labels can result in prosecution.

It would be nice if everything was as simple as observing problems, consulting with the veterinarian, and using a prescribed medicine, but there are other things producers should look at to ensure the health of their animals.

The introduction of new animals into a herd has the potential to introduce disease as well. Actually, the introduction of anything, even new people, to a herd can result in a disease outbreak.

As an Extension agent, I often visit farms. Sometimes my presence is related directly to a problem with the livestock. Knowing that I can be a potential transmitter of disease when I go from one farm to another, I try to visit only one swine farm a day, making certain that my clothing is changed and my shoes are disinfected before arriving at another swine farm.

It is best to limit visitors, but if you allow other swine farmers and industry representatives on your farm, insist that they have changed clothes and disinfected their shoes before going near your animals, especially near the farrowing house and nursery. The younger stock is most susceptible to disease.

Hog producers, like any other livestock producers, need to take extra care to protect the health of their livestock. After all, a livestock producer's livelihood is dependent upon the health and well-being of the animals.

In my next column, I'll address how other factors in a hog operation can affect herd health and explain how producers should handle situations in which the causative agents in a disease are unknown.

Pseudorabies Spreads Outside Lancaster

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — Some of you may be aware that pseudorabies has recently spread to counties outside of the northern Lancaster County area.

Because many producers are unsure as to what precautions to take, Dr. Larry Hutchinson, PSU, offers the following recommendations to help reduce the chances of spreading the disease further.

- Any producer within a 5 mile radius of the communities listed below should seriously consider testing their herd and starting a vaccination program. This will Not prevent the herd from getting pseudorabies, but it will likely reduce the initial losses if the herd does become infected.
- The herd test is statistical sampling — that is, a maximum of 30 animals are tested. The costs of taking the blood sample and the laboratory test must be paid by the producer.
- One of the gene deleted vaccines should be used. This will enable the producer to continue marketing animals without subject to quarantine. The producer must obtain the vaccine through a licensed veterinarian, who will advise the producer on proper use. The veterinarian will also officially request the use of vaccine from the Bureau of Animal Industry. At present, Dr. Max Van Buskirk is requiring a letter from the local pork producers organization supporting the use of vaccine outside the Lancaster area. (Such a letter has already been accepted for the Franklin County area, and another is being sent from the State Pork Producers to cover all of Pennsylvania.)
- Any producer outside a 5-mile radius of the communities listed below should continue using strict biosecurity measures to prevent his herd from becoming infected with the disease.

The counties and communities affected are as follows:

County	Town
Berks	Fritztown
Berks	Oley
Bucks	Gardenville
Columbia	Rohrsburg
Dauphin/Lebanon/Lancaster	Bellaire
Franklin	Duffield
Juniata	Millerstown
Montgomery	Harleysville
Northampton	Hellertown
Northumberland	McEwensville
Susquehanna	Dimock

There are also some additional herds south of route 30 in Lancaster County that are now positive.

KINZE Unveils New Grain Wagon

WILLIAMSBURG, Iowa — A 490-bushel capacity grain wagon, featuring a hydraulic-driven conveyor-unloading system, was introduced recently by Kinze Manufacturing, Inc.

The new Kinze 450C grain conveyor wagon has a typical unloading capacity of 175 bushels per minute based on a hydraulic output of 18 gpm and 1,800 psi. (Unloading speeds will vary with moisture content of grain and hydraulic output.) Grain tank dimensions are 10'1" wide, 13'6" long, with a height of 9'6" on the combine side/10'6" extension side.

The grain is conveyed by wear-resistant, replaceable poly paddles, mounted to a heavy-duty industrial conveyor chain. Over-center linkage folds the conveyor from its horizontal transport position and provides a positive lock for the conveyor in the unloading position. The 6520-pound unit is equipped with a large 18"x20" hydraulically-operated grain door. A wedge fit ensures a positive seal between the grain door and conveyor. A single SCV outlet handles the grain door/conveyor fold hydraulic functions. A hand valve located at the front of the wagon allows you to select between the "conveyor fold and door operation" for truck loading or "door only" for pit dumping. An indicator located on the front of the wagon shows the position of the grain door.

Additional standard equipment includes: front and rear windows, SMV sign, safety/warning lights, a full safety grate in the wagon grain tank, adjustable axle with 120" operating/108" shipping positions, 23.1"x26" 10-ply R-3 diamond tread tires and drop leg parking stand. Options include choice of single or double hitch clevis, R-1 traction tires, and electronic scale package with single clevis hitch.

Rohm And Haas Renames Spray Adjuvants

PHILADELPHIA — Agricultural chemicals manufacturer Rohm and Haas Company has renamed its line of spray adjuvants, changing the trademark from Triton to LATRON™ adjuvants.

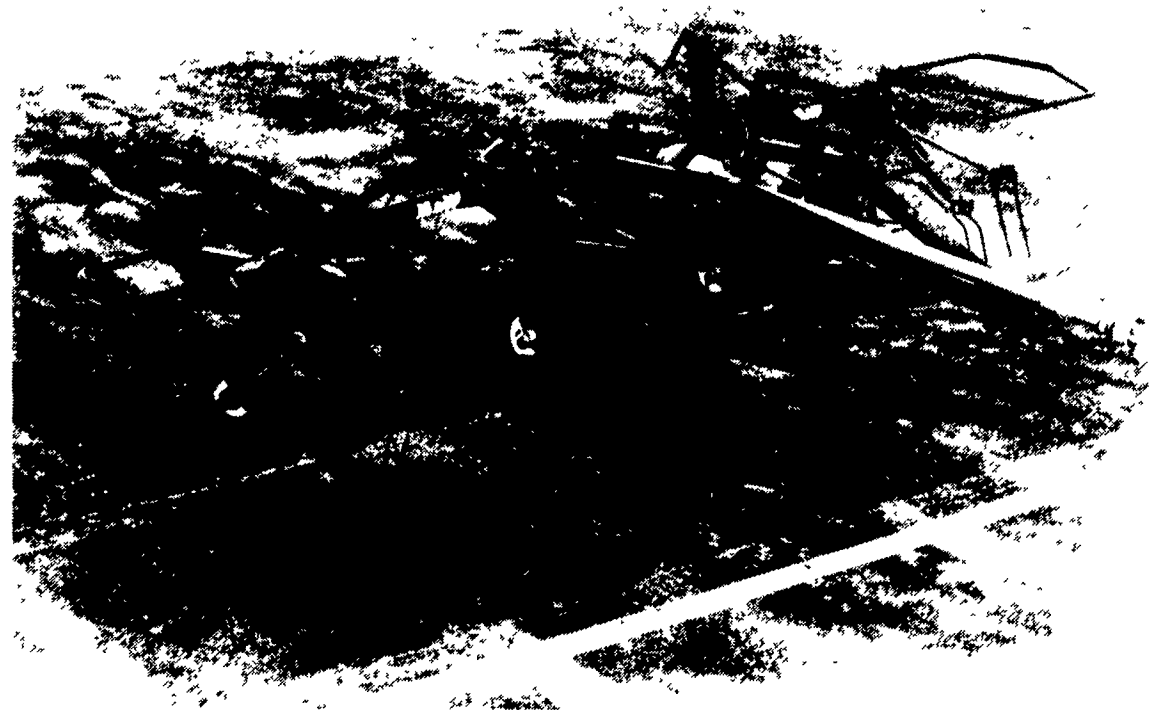
The change resulted from the company's sale of its alkylphenol and industrial surfactant business to Union Carbide Chemicals and Plastics Company, Inc. last fall. That sale included the Triton trademark, which was shared by the industrial surfactants and the agricultural adjuvants.

Rohm and Haas retained its agricultural adjuvants business to complement its crop protection chemicals with a line of quality adjuvants that assure better spray coverage and performance. These adjuvants, now trademarked as LATRON, are identical to the previous Triton formulations in their active ingredients, performance, and quality.

LATRON adjuvants will continue to be sold through major farm chemical distributors and dealers. The four products in the line are LATRON AG-98 no-foam spreader activator, LATRON AG-44M no-foam compatibility and buffering (acidifying) agent, LATRON B-1956 spreader sticker, and LATRON CS-7 no-foam spreader binder.

Further information on LATRON adjuvants is available from Doug Lisk, product manager, Rohm and Haas Company, Independence Mall West, Philadelphia, PA 19105; (215) 592-2610.

Tedder Driven By 540 RPM PTO Power



GIBSON CITY, Ill.— M & W Gear Company has announced the addition of the HT417 hay tedder to their line of hay equipment. The HT417 is a four-rotor, pull-type tedder driven by 540 RPM PTO power. The folding outer sections can be quickly repositioned to change the 17-foot working width to a narrow 9 foot 6 inch transport width. The hinged outer sections are each equipped with a gauge wheel to allow even spreading of the crop on uneven ground. Operation requires only a 30 horsepower tractor. Leveling requires only the use of one hand crank. Wheels can be set in three positions to allow operation parallel to the tractor or an angle to the right or left. For more information, contact M & W Gear Company, Route 47 South, Gibson City, IL 60936.

Dealers Respond To Interest In Post Weed Control

WILMINGTON, Del.— Farm supply dealership telephones throughout the Midwest are ringing more often with calls from farmers asking about postemergence weed control.

Deep in shattercane territory of Nebraska, for instance, Jim Nicklasson of St. Edward Coop said the new sulfonylurea grass control programs for corn are getting a lot of attention.

Du Pont Accent for corn is the most recent low-use-rate sulfonylurea herbicide to receive full EPA registration. Corn growers now have a strong postemergence weapon against problem grasses and are turning to their ag dealers in greater numbers for assistance.

Dealers are responding to the growing acceptance of post programs by adding reinforcements in customer education and custom application equipment.

Gary King, executive vice president of the Ohio AgroBusiness Association, sees a gradual evolution toward post programs and says dealers are having to adjust.

Dealerships throughout the corn belt are educating their customers with extra seminars and meetings. Corn growers seeking information about post products are asking about additives, use rates, cultivation, and application timing.

"The dealers are going to adjust with the demand," King said. "Most dealers are very education-conscious right now. They're educating themselves and their customers."

That rings true for Twin County Service Co. in Benton, IL. Its customers are requesting technical assistance concerning post programs. Not only is the staff keeping abreast of the growing technology, but in 1990 the dealership purchased another Spra-Coupe to keep up with demand.

Jim Nicklasson, fertilizer manager at St. Edward Coop, inspects shattercane treated with Du Pont Accent. Nicklasson said corn growers will be asking dealers a lot of questions about how best to include sulfonylurea herbicides for corn in their weed control programs.

"Dealers have got to be comfortable with the low-use-rate postemergence products," said Jim Howard, crop specialist with Twin County Service Co. "I see the market turning to these products and dealers need to be there giving technical advice."

"We've got some of the greatest weed pressures in the country," Howard said. "However, we're seeing 85 to 95 percent control of shattercane and Johnsongrass in corn with the new postemergence weed control. I think post will become a standard for corn just as it has become for soybeans."

Tub Grinder Uses Heavy Duty Rotor

EXCELSIOR, Minn. — A rugged and versatile agricultural tub grinder for 80 to 150 horsepower tractors has been introduced by Farmhand, Inc. The HG3000 tub grinder is ideal for grinding big or small round bales, square bales, loose hay, stover, small grains, or ear corn.

Grinding is done by a heavy-duty 32" rotor with 1/2" thick hard-faced, reversible hammers. Materials are ground in a two-state action as hammers first slice across a shear bar, then force material through a screen. Sixteen screens with openings from 1/4" to 4" are available.

Farmhand products are manufactured in Grinnell, Iowa. For more information, contact Farmhand, Inc., P.O. Box 1500, Excelsior, MN 55331, (515) 236-6571.

The HG3000 tub grinder is ideal for grinding big or small round bales, square bales, loose hay, stover, small grains, or ear corn.

Companies Clarify Position On Banded Application

WAYNE, N.J. — The American Cyanamid Company and Du Pont have simultaneously submitted label changes to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) involving the use of Accent herbicide following BANDED applications of COUNTER® 20CR® systemic insecticide-nematicide. Authorization from the EPA is expected shortly.

The new label information will provide clarification regarding the use of Accent following all formulations of COUNTER systemic insecticide-nematicide and will resolve issues that have been raised regarding the use of these two products.

The Accent label no longer prohibits the use of Accent following banded at-planting application of COUNTER 20CR. The COUNTER 20CR label does, however, specifically recommend an application of Accent following a banded at-planting application of COUNTER 20CR.

Both labels prohibit the use of Accent following all application methods of COUNTER 15G, as severe crop injury may result. Additionally, both labels prohibit the use of Accent following COUNTER 20CR when applied in-furrow or over-the-row at cultivation.

DIVISION OF ALLIED PRODUCTS CORPORATION

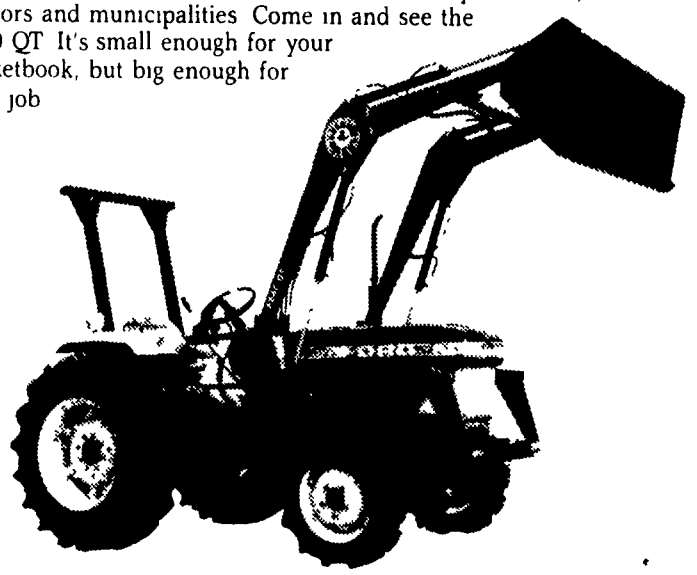
THE SMALLER-SIZED LOADER WITH A HEFTY LIFTING CAPACITY.

Bush Hog's 2240 QT Front End Loader gives you a hefty lifting capacity at an affordable price. It's recommended for 2 and 4-wheel drive tractors with 15 to 30 hp—yet it will lift 1000 pounds to a height of over 8-feet. Breakaway capacity is 1500 pounds and the 2240 QT will attach to over 60 tractor models 48 and 60-inch material buckets are available for use with the loader It's an ideal choice for dozens of uses by nurseries, contractors and municipalities Come in and see the 2240 QT It's small enough for your pocketbook, but big enough for your job



WHY BUSH HOG SQUEALERS MOW DOWN THE COMPETITION.

There are two basic reasons and quality is the first. Each Squealer model is equipped with Bush Hog's tough, patented gearbox. All models except the 42 inch wide cutter feature oval blade pans, and the 60 and 72 inch wide models have an "in-line" shear bolt with ball bearing protection that can be replaced in a snap An optional slip clutch is available.

The second reason for the Squealer's popularity is price. Select any of five models, 42 to 84-inches wide, and compare prices with the competition. With a true price and quality comparison, it's easy to see why Squealers mow down the competition.

Md. Ag Continues To Develop International Ties

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Despite pressures from urban development, labor shortages and governmental restrictions, Maryland agriculture is still thriving, according to a recent study.

The study was conducted by a committee representing the University of Maryland System, several state government agencies, and Maryland citizens and organizations representing a broad range of interests important to agriculture, natural resources, and the environment.

A preliminary draft of the committee study was available in time for last month's National Agriculture Week observance, March 17-23. Dr. Raymond J. Miller, vice chancellor for agriculture and natural resources in the University of Mary- land System, co-chaired the blue-ribbon panel.

• Total cash receipts for Maryland agriculture grew from $667 million in 1975 to $1.4 billion in 1989. Even after adjusting for inflation, this represents a real growth of 42.4 percent.

• Overall growth in Maryland agriculture during the past 15 years can be attributed to big increases in broiler and soybean production, as well as the greenhouse, nursery, and turfgrass industry. The horse business is also thriving. But equine statistics are not included in this study. Their inclusion would boost Maryland agriculture's growth even further.

• Decreased cash receipts have occurred for Maryland producers of corn, wheat, tobacco, processed vegetables, and peaches. Dairying and livestock operations also have declined in relative importance.

' Since 1964, total Maryland farmland has been reduced from 3.2 million acres to 2.4 million acres. During the past 15 years, however, the total number of harvested acres has remained fairly constant. Recent decreases in farmland have occurred mainly in pasture and forest areas.

During the past 20 years, poultry has replaced dairying as the No. 1 animal industry. Corn and soybeans to feed those broilers dominate the state's field crop production.

Being situated in the midst of a major metropolitan area has been a boon to Maryland farmers producing fruits and vegetables for the fresh market.

Biotechnology holds the likelihood of helping scientists develop new crop varieties in four to five years — about half the time previously required.

Cut flowers are becoming a major commodity in Maryland, and a great potential for expansion appears to exist. A similar situation exists for aquaculture — the rearing of finfish and shellfish in captivity.

Production of sheep milk on a commercial scale is virtually nonexistent anywhere in the United States. But possibilities for Maryland appear promising and are being explored.

Over the next 30 years, it is estimated that Maryland will nearly double its amount of developed land to accommodate an expected influx of one million new residents. But nursery and turfgrass production should expand accordingly.

Maryland's racing and pleasure horse industries are flourishing. Its thoroughbred racing component alone is estimated to have an annual impact of $1 billion on the state's economy. Horse farms appear to be less susceptible to development pressures than farms which produce crops or animal products.

Maryland's central and southern counties have borne the brunt of farmland conversion to real estate development in recent years. This trend is likely to continue because of their proximity to the Baltimore-Washington, D.C., metropolitan corridor.

Although Maryland has both state and county agricultural land preservation programs, only seven percent of the state's farmland has been locked into a preservation status. During the past decade, three acres of Maryland farmland were converted to real estate development for every acre entered into a preservation program.

Dr. Craig S. Oliver, director of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland System, contributed to the natural resources and human capital sections of the study.

He said that Maryland is likely to be a competitive force in the emerging "global marketplace," and at least some of that promise will benefit agriculture.

4th Weigh Period In For Bull Test

After 112 days of eating, loafing, and growing at the NYBCA Bull Test Center at the Cornell Research Center at Harford, N.Y., a large group of individuals, in most breeds, have emerged as outstanding beef herd sire prospects.

There will be an NYBCA bull sale on May 3, 1991, at Cornell Livestock Pavilion.

Those interested are encouraged to begin their selection process by viewing the bulls at the Test Center. Visitors can also travel to the consigning farm to view the dam of the bulls.

Used Farm Equipment Saves Money

ITHACA, N.Y.— Buying used farm equipment can save money and result in a dependable long-lasting line of machinery for any operator.

"Used Farm Equipment: Assessing Quality, Safety, and Economics" (NRAES-25) teaches the potential purchaser how to inspect the machinery for the reliability of its components and the quality of its safety features, and how to estimate the economic soundness of the proposed acquisition.

This manual, written by a cooperative extension agricultural engineer, a farm safety specialist, and an area farm management agent, offers guidelines to evaluate the machinery's mechanical condition by looking for clues to past complications, upkeep, and operation. Several farm safety tips are highlighted in the booklet, which contains more than 80 detailed illustrations.

Before looking at any machinery, buyers must consider their specific needs in terms of the equipment's affordability, dependability, and compatibility. Used equipment can be purchased from dealers, friends or neighbors, or at farm auctions, dispersal sales, or commercial auctions. But it is the responsibility of the buyer to judge the overall quality of the item for sale.

A quick visual inspection is an essential factor in detecting cover-ups -- it is an important step in looking for clues to possible problems with the equipment. "Used Farm Equipment" provides instructions on how to check for signs of improper repair jobs or machine maintenance. Included in the booklet are detailed sections on assessing the condition of welds, lubricants, hydraulic systems, and power transmission components, including chains and sprockets, gearboxes and chaincases, sheaves and belts, augers, and belt drives.

Tractors receive special consideration in this informative publication. Tractor design and safety, coolant systems, brakes and clutches, power steering, power take-off (PTO) guards, roll-over protective structures (ROPS), and other engine specifications are carefully described so buyers can choose the used tractor that is best for their operations and safest for the users of the vehicle.

THE ECONOMICS OF COW SIZE AND MILK PRODUCTION

Beef breeders have several tools available to them to rapidly change the individual cow size and productivity of the herd.

The use of expected prodigy differences (EPDs) is a widely accepted and accurate means of improving growth performance and milking ability. However, these changes do not come without some cost to the enterprise.

The nutritional requirements of a beef cow are based on:

- The weight of the cow as a means of determining the maintenance or the amount of feed needed to keep the animal alive and functioning.
- The stage of production such as gestation, lactation, or growth.
- The environment, particularly for outside temperature.
- The rate at which animals are expected to grow.

The first two are of greatest importance to the cow-calf operator, since we do not expect the environment to drastically and consistently change feed needs in Pennsylvania. We will dedicate the remainer of the information to mature beef cows.

Cow size

Mature cow size will change when there is selection for larger frame size and greater yearling weight in replacement heifers because there is a positive genetic correlation between these traits and mature size. That is, as selection for larger frame size and yearling weight continues, the mature size of the cow herd will also increase.

Since maintenance feed requirements are based on cow weight, it follows there will be a greater feed requirements as the cattle get bigger.

Table 1
Nutritional Requirements of Cows of Differing Weight and Similar Milk Production (1)

	Cow Weight
	1000 pounds			1300 pounds
Stage (2)	1	2	3	1	2	3
Nutrient (3)
Total protein	88	1.06	1.90	1.06	1.24	2.19
TDN	7.74	9.36	10.75	9.35	10.93	12.39
Net energy	7.52	7.52	7.52	9.33	9.33

(1) NRC, Nutritional Requirements of Beef Cattle.
(2) 1=Mid pregnancy; 2= Last 1/3 of gestation; 3=First 3-4 months of lactation.
(3) Total protein=pounds per day; TDN=Total digestible nutrients in pounds per day; Net energy= Mcal per day.

To describe the difference in these requirements on a corn-equivalent basis valued at $2.75 per bushel, the following calculations can be made:

Maintenance:
9.33 Mcal NEm/day-7.52 Mcal NEm/day=1.81 Mcal/day;
1.81 Mcal/.92 Mcal per pound of corn=1.96 pounds of corn per day;
1.96 pounds corn X 365 days= 718 pounds corn per year;
718 pounds/56 pounds bushel= 12.8 bu. corn per year;
12.8 bu. X $2.75 per bu.= $35.26.

Production:
For 6 months 105% of maintenance= .376 Mcal/day;
.376/.92 Mcal per pound of corn= .4 pounds of corn per day;
.4 pounds X 180 days = 72 pounds of corn;
72 pounds of corn @ $2.75/bu.= $3.54.
For last 3 months of gestation: 10.93 pounds TDN-9.36 pounds TDN= 1.57 pounds TDN;
1.57 pounds TDN/81% TDN in corn= 1.94 pounds corn per day;
1.94 pounds X 90 days= 174.6 pounds corn;
174.6 pounds corn @ $2.75/bu.= $8.57.
For first 3 months of lactation: 12.39 pounds TDN-10.75 pounds TDN=1.64 pounds TDN/day;
147.6 pounds TDN/81% TDN in corn= 182.2 pounds corn;
182.2 pounds corn $2.75/bu.= $8.95.
Total additional annual cost of 1300-pound cow : $56.32.
It follows that the heavier cow must indeed be more productive (produce more annual value in weaning weight) in order to recover this additional cost to the enterprise.

Milk production

The addition of maternal milk production EPDs has given breeders the ability to change milk production potential in the cow herd through direct selection for the trait. Again, more milk production does not come without a cost, since more feed is needed to produce that milk. Similar to cow size, a scenario can be developed to describe the actual cost of this additional production.

Table 2
Feed Requirements of Cows of Differing Milk Production at 1200 Lbs. Body Weight

Nutrient (2)	Average Milk production	Superior Milk
Total protein	2.11	2.95
TDN	11.91	14.88
Difference	.84	2.97

(1) NRC, Nutrient Requirements for Beef Cattle.
(2) Total protein= pounds per day; TDN= Total digestible nutrients in pounds per day.

Using the same procedure as described for the calculations for cow size, this results in an additional 330 pounds of corn for the 90-day lactation period for the heavier milking cow. Again valued at $2.75 per bushel, this is an additional cost of $16.20.

However, since milk production also entails a greater protein requirement compared to size, additional protein supplementation is also needed. The values in Table 2 indicate there is an additional 46 pounds of protein required for the 90-day period for the heavier milking cow in addition to what the corn would supply.

On a soybean meal equivalent basis valued at $300 per ton, this means the additional protein cost is $15.65. The total cost for the additional milk production is $31.85 for the 90-day period for cows of the same body weight.

In the case of both larger size and greater milk production potential, there is an additive effect on feed requirements. Determination of the additional cost of both cow size and milk production would include adding the additional cost of maintenance and gestation for the larger cow as previously shown ($35.26+$3.54+$8.57+$8.95) with an additional cost for the milk production in a 90-day period.

For 1000-pound average milking cows vs. 1300-pound superior milking cows, the additional feed energy requirement is 416 pounds of TDN. On a corn equivalent basis, this would be $25.20 worth of additional corn.

The protein requirement for the 90 days not supplied by the corn is 57.3 pounds of actual protein. On a soybean meal equivalent basis at $300 per ton, this cost is $19.53 for protein supplementation. Therefore, the total additional cost to cow size and milk production is $101.05.

It is easy to see there must be substantial additional production from cows that are selected for both larger mature size and milk production. Beef breeders must balance this selection with their feed resources to effectively increase profit potential to the enterprise.

Chester Co. Offers Tractor Ed Course

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Chester Co. Cooperative Extension is offering a tractor and farm machinery education course during April.

Designed for young people aged 14-16, the course will be held Wednesday evenings, April 10, 17 and 24, 6:30 p.m.-9 p.m. at the Vo-Ag Department, Octorara High School, Route 41 and Highland Road, Atglen.

A written and driving exam will be held Saturday, April 27, 8 a.m.-noon. The cost is $3 for the study manual. Contact the Extension office at (215) 696-3500 to register.

The course will give participants 14 hours of classroom and hands-on training in the safe use and operation of farm tractors and farm machinery. A certificate will be awarded to all who successfully complete the course.

This certificate permits 14-16 year olds to operate certain machinery where they ale employed. Teens working for their parents do not require the permit, but are encouraged to attend to help prevent serious accidents on their farm.

For further information, contact the Chester County Cooperative Extension, 235 W. Market Street, West Chester, PA 19382.

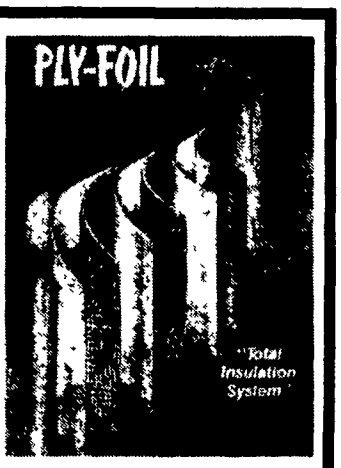
PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.



PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

DON'T BUY ANY TYPE OF INSULATION UNTIL YOU READ THIS IMPORTANT MESSAGE!

Now you can update and insulate your buildings with lifetime Pure Aluminum Foil Reflective Insulation. It has been designed for poultry and livestock buildings, metal buildings, hog farms, veal houses, horse and cattle barns, cold storage houses, egg rooms, etc. Why not have a cleaner and healthier environment and never have to reinsulate again. Our Pure Aluminum Foil Reflective Insulation will last forever.

Old style standard types of insulation merely slow down your heat loss and deteriorate rapidly. They were not designed for agricultural use. Our Pure Aluminum Foil Reflective Insulation stops your heat loss COLD and will last forever.

We have done business with many people (384 accounts) in the farming and agricultural business, and most of them all tell us the same thing. Whenever moisture or condensation strikes standard types of insulation they lose all of their "R" values, the rats and mice love it, it is very dangerous in a fire because of the toxic gases omitted and it just does not hold up very long. Our reflective aluminum foil insulation will last a lifetime and will continue to reflect heat back in the direction that it came, thereby keeping all buildings cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter.

Why keep throwing your hard earned money away on cheap and inferior types of insulation when you can buy the best for just a little bit more and never have to replace it again. Doesn't it make good sense to do the job right the first time and end your insulation problems once and for all?

WHY SHOULD YOU CONSIDER BUYING PURE ALUMINUM FOIL REFLECTIVE INSULATION:

1. It completely eliminates condensation in all metal buildings.
2. Specially coated outer surfaces can stand high pressure cleaning.
3. Resistant to stains, mildew, chemicals and animal waste.
4. Not affected by birds, vermin or rodents.
5. Very easy to install with a staple gun. Goes up easy.
6. It surpasses all building code requirements, is fire resistant, NFPA Class A, UBC Class I. Flame spread 25. Smoke density 15.
7. And much, much more.

CUSTOM DRYING & STORAGE

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain. That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production.

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

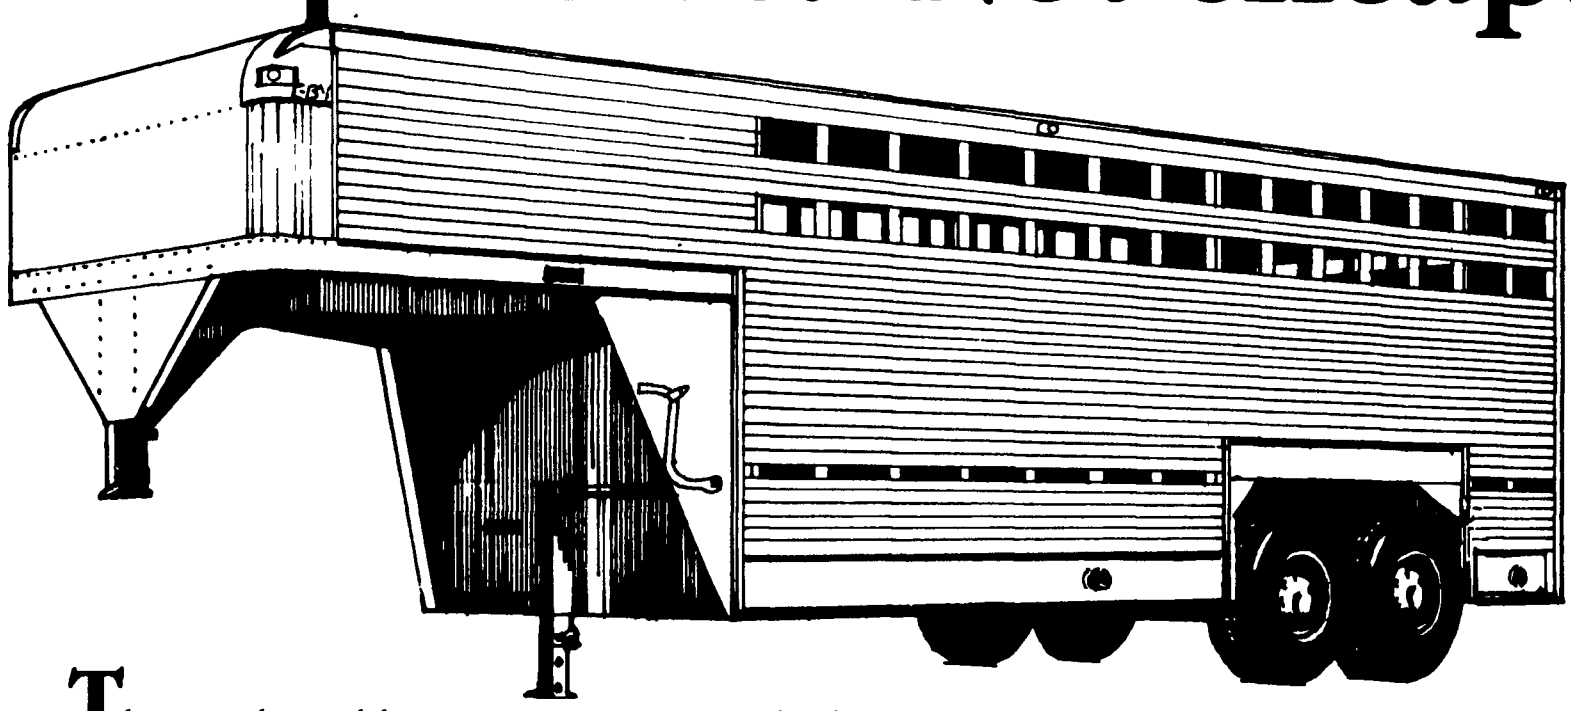
Introducing The Wrangler 2000-OH Inexpensive. Not cheap.



The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top-quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000-OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck.

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features, standard on the new Wrangler 2000-OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

Special introductory pricing.

All this and more for under $9,000.*

* Introductory price of a standard 20' model as illustrated. Freight, taxes, title, dealer prep not included.

KRAUSE

In 1916 Henry Krause built his first one-way plow in a small farm shop in Western Kansas. His neighbors saw the plow, were impressed with its value as a specialized tool for their farming conditions, and asked Henry to build more.

From that humble beginning in a small farm shop in Meade County, Kansas, the Krause Plow Corporation has grown into one of the world's top manufacturers of tillage equipment. In 1988, Fortune Magazine recognized Krause as "AMERICA'S BEST" tillage equipment manufacturer in an article devoted to the "100 Products That America Makes Best."

At C.B. Hoober & Son, Inc. we're priviledged to sell "America's Best Built" tillage equipment here in the East.

State Grange Testifies On Nutrient Management

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Including conservation districts in the approval process is a key point to the current farm nutrient management plan before the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, a Pennsylvania State Grange representative told the House Agriculture Committee.

The House Agriculture Committee called the hearing to hear the opinions of agricultural organizations concerning the passing of House Bill 496, which deals with a statewide nutrient management plan.

James Aurand, former vice president and agriculture committee chair for the Pennsylvania State Grange, testified in support of the bill which would require conservation districts to approve and enforce the farm nutrient management plan.

This requirement is similar to the Grange's policy which also includes having the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture run the nutrient management technicians certification program.

"It is important to note that the PA Department of Agriculture will certify technicians who assist farmers in creating their plan," Aurand said. "In fact, a farmer himself can become certified and write his own plan. This will defray the costs of hiring an outside technician."

Another important aspect of the legislation is the local ordinance preemption, Aurand continued. This would preempt all local governments from establishing rules, regulations, or ordinances.

"Without this provision, a local ordinance could unknowingly thwart the intent of House Bill 496," Aurand said. "Also, local ordinances could make nutrient management an impossibility through overregulation, resulting in grave hinderance to our industry."

The Grange believes non-agricultural nutrient problems contribute to non-point source problems, or problems which cannot be traced to a certain source, according to Aurand. Legislation states that DER should assess these non-agricultural nutrient contributions and identify what regulating initiatives are necessary to correct the problems.

Bull Test Shows Good Breeding

HARFORD, N.Y. — The cream is beginning to rise at the New York Bull Test, located at the Cornell University Training and Research Center.

Superior genes in cattle seem to parallel butterfat in milk, in that, given a chance, they rise to the occasion to be seen, counted, and appreciated.

	No. Bulls	Cum. ADG	WPDA	Top Bulls	Owner	Cum Avg.	WPDA

NFU: 'Farmers Need Bigger Slice'

DENVER, Colo. — Among the thousands of pieces of mail members of congress and senators received recently was one package that caught their attention — a plastic bag with a slice of bread or cheese inside.

The unorthodox mail was sent to Capitol Hill by members of the National Farmers Union (NFU) to call attention to deteriorating commodity prices.

The bags are labeled with a sticker stating: "Farmers Need a Bigger Slice," and an explanation that the farm share of the cost of a loaf of bread has fallen below five cents.

The Farmers Union is asking Congress to support both administrative and legislative policy changes that will increase commodity loan rates and dairy price support levels. NFU contends that higher loan rates would stimulate market prices, thus allowing farmers to gain income from the marketplace rather than government deficiency payments.

"We want to send a dramatic illustration of the drop in grain and dairy prices that has occurred over the last six months," said the farm organization's president, Leland Swenson. "Food producers receive a very small portion of this nation's food dollar and are going broke as a result of current farm policies."

A March U.S. Department of Agriculture study called "Food Costs...From Farm to Retail in 1990," shows that the farm value of the food dollar dropped to twenty-four cents in 1990.

Despite a four-dollar per hundredweight drop in the farm price of milk during the year, the report indicated that retail milk prices jumped almost 10 percent. The farm value of commodities used in cereal and bakery products in 1990 fell 11 percent from the previous year.

"Farmers received 3.7 cents in 1990 for the wheat in a 1-pound loaf of wnite bread selling for 70 cents in supermarkets, 1.1 cents less than in 1989. (The) rise in food prices was mainly due to (a) widening price spread," the report concluded.

Farmers Union began laying plans for the "Send-a-Slice" campaign during the group's convention in Philadelphia recently. Resolutions adopted during the meeting called on Congress to improve the 1990 farm bill and to provide emergency relief for dairy farmers who have experienced a nearly 30 percent drop in prices since June of last year.

The latest campaign follows a series of bread giveaways NFU staged in Chicago, New York, Denver, Philadelphia, and Washington durlng the last month. NFU leaders say they're trying to alert consumers and Congress to the farm-to-retail price spread, and the plight of food producers with the campaigns.

Notice Of Stop Sale Posted

WILMINGTON, Del. — Du Pont has initiated an immediate stop sale and recall of its "Benlate 50DF," "Benlate 1991 DF," and "Tersan 1991 DF" fungicides in the United States.

All dealers and distributors should stop sale of these products immediately and notify any Benlate and Tersan customers of the recall.

Any grower, nurseryman, golf course superintendent, horticulturalist, university tester, or applicator possessing any of these Benlate or Tersan products should return it to the point of purchase for a full credit.

Du Pont has initiated the stop sale and recall because the products may contain atrazine herbicide. Because atrazine is a highly effective herbicide, spraying the affected Benlate and Tersan on plants could result in injury to the plants.

However, the level of atrazine that may be contained in Benlate and Tersan poses no human health or food safety problems.

Du Pont apologizes for any inconvenience the stop sale and recall may cause to its customers.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

- New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
- 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
- Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry. The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure. We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

*5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 ry. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.

* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00

NEW price on ramps & carriers - $200.00

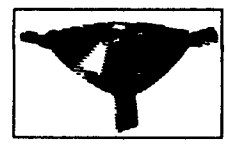
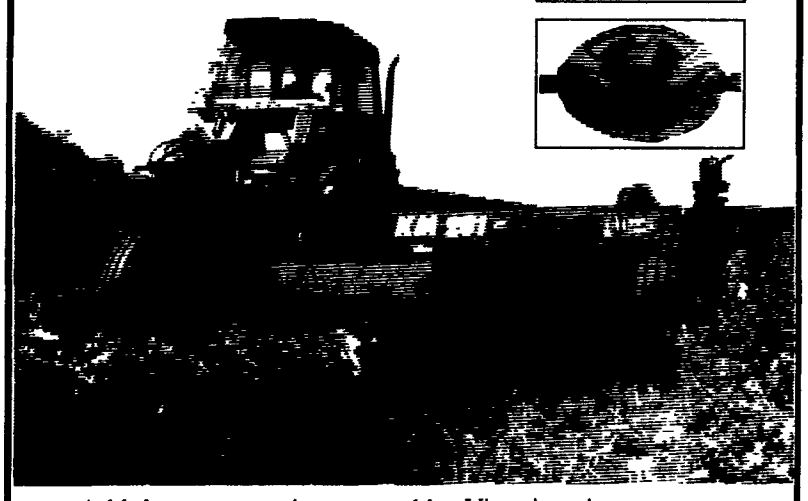
GET THE EXTRA EDGE

Put a Vicon three-bladed disc mower conditioner through wet, heavy, tangled crops. Then compare the difference.

With almost double the number of cuts per minute over two-bladed disc competitors, and six times the cuts per minute over sicklebar systems, it's easy to understand the clean, fast NO PLUG performance of Vicon KM disc mower conditioners.





Add the extra suction created by Vicon's unique triangular discs, the full swivel hitch that lets you cut square corners on the move, and gentle, full width conditioning, and you're looking at a high capacity machine that puts productivity in a whole new dimension. Four models cut from 7' to 10'6" widths.

HARVEST TEC SKID FEEDER-40

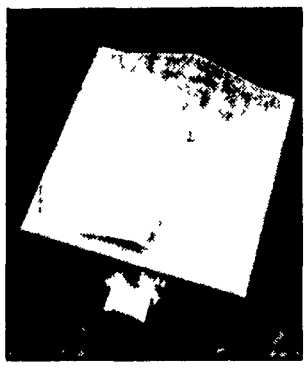
- Transferring TMR's to locations not served by automatic equipment.



FEATURES...

The 7700 Series Row Crop Cultivators Are Designed For You.

The WIL-RICH 7700 Series offers you a row crop cultivator for almost any job. The 7710 is a Danish tine unit designed for high speed work in most soil conditions and 7720 C-shank models give you extra muscle for hard packed ground. Step up to the 7750 Series. It's designed to handle a wide variety of row crop cultivating jobs — from ridge-till corn to conventional tilled beans.

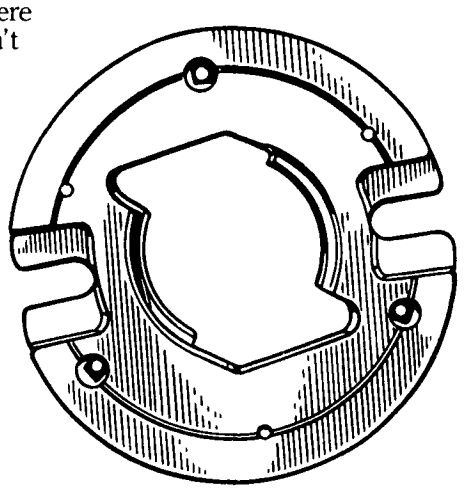
SPRING SHAPE-UP

John Deere wheel and suitcase weights provide heavyweight quality at lightweight prices. Molded, instead of cut, these weights won't warp. They lie flat against the wheel, preventing wobbly tires, bent axles and resultant breakdowns. And, because they fit right, you get better traction in sticky, gumbo fields.

This spring, shape up your field control and traction with muscle from your Parts Experts. Where heavy weight doesn't transfer into heavy prices. See us today.



Rear wheel weight for row-crop tractors, just $55.50

"FORAGE, AS HAYLAGE, IS THE MOST ECONOMICAL, NUTRITIOUS AND PHYSIOLOGICALLY HEALTHY FEED THAT CAN BE FED TO THE DAIRY COW."

THE TOWER SILO IS THE BEST STORAGE SYSTEM AVAILABLE TO TAKE FULL ADVANTAGE OF ALL THE BENEFITS THAT HAYLAGE OFFERS TO THE DAIRYMAN.

When possible, it is much more logical to take advantage of the vertical dimension of the tower silo when storing large tonnages of haylage than to spread the forage over large horizontal areas. Extensive horizontal areas used by bags and trenches are frequently too far away for an efficient operation. Tower silos properly located are readily accessible for filling and easily dispense haylage directly into mixing and feeding equipment for the dairy herd.

The poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO, either top or bottom unloading, with its solid 6" concrete wall, is the choice of dairymen who desire to have a system with low maintenance and the ability to keep their feed in the best possible condition. The solid concrete wall minimizes losses due to heat and oxygen; the two main culprits when it comes to storage losses.

CONSISTANT PERFORMANCE

Mark Zook, and his sons Jesse (left) and Marcus (right) operate a 65 cow Holstein herd in Walnut, Juniata County. The herd has been fed a Purina ration since 1985, and has seen consistant improvement while on the program. The current feeding program includes 12# Alfalfa Hay, Haylage, and Corn Silage. The Grain is a Purina Maxi-Tech 16% complete pellet. The Zooks also mix Purina Hi E 35% Concentrate with ground ear corn to feed one time per day. The results are as follows:

DATE	% DAYS	MILK LBS.	% TEST	FAT LBS.	% PROTEIN
3/89	92.1	20068	3.6	727	3.2
3/90	90.9	20164	3.6	717	3.1
3/91	85.8	21201	3.5	742	3.2
